Hearing On Vet School Will Be Open To Public

By Maxine McNeill

According to J.R. Harkavy the lawyer handling the Vet school case, an informal hearing involving the case should be held in the next 6-8 weeks. The hearing will be open to the public.

The Atkins case which was the original case involving discrimination was filed in 1969. It has been waiting to go before the court for the past six years. The circumstances surrounding this case are very relevant to the Vet school issue. Jack Atkins, a lawyer in Winston-Salem, filed the suit against the State saying that the Black schools' facilities were not as good as those of the white schools. When the Vet school issue was filed, the motion was just added on to the Atkins case.

Harkavy said that, when the Board of Governors made its decision in November of last year, he wrote them a letter saying that it was unfair. He said that he based his response on the fact that the schools are already segregated enough. He said that he received a letter back from them but it didn't say anything. Harkavy continued by saying that the Vet school was given to North Carolina State that December.

Harkavy clients are three former members of Black Colleges. Two of these were graduates of A&T and NCCU. He also represents five members of the North Carolina Alumni and friends coalition. These five are from predominantly Black colleges. The coalition was developed to try to achieve full integration of the Black colleges.

Harkavy also said that HEW was one of the original complainants in this case. He said that HEW said they would withdraw their funds if the decision was not reconsidered. Soon after that statement was made a new HEW secretary was appointed by President Ford. He is F. David Matthews. Matthews very abruptly withdrew this statement. He said that HEW would not go against the Board of Governors' decision. Therefore, Harkavy's clients are the only opposers to the decision.

"The delay in this case hasn't been our fault," added Harkavy. It has been the state's fault," he continued. Harkavy did admit that they had not been putting much pressure on the state.

Harkavy ended by saying that he wasn't getting paid for this case. He said that he had received a little money but not much. He said that he's handling this case because he really doesn't feel that North Carolina State should have received the Vet school over A&T.

Festival Marks Closing Of Boycott Anniversary

MONTGOMERY, Ala. AP-A youth rally, an art show and a "gospel extravaganza" marked the closing Sunday of the 20th anniversary of the Montgomery bus boycott.

The rally and art festival were held Sunday afternoon in the Lilly Baptist Church and later in the day, gospel music groups, featuring the Freedom Choir of Indianapolis, Ind., gathered to sing of civil rights progress made in the Alabama capital city and across the nation during the last

AEA Committee Holds Conference

The American Economic Association's Committee on the Status of Minority Students recently held a conference in Washington, D.C. The conference, which was attended mainly by Black students who had participated in a summer economic program sponsored by AEA and by recruiters from some of the nation's top schools, discussed academic and social experiences encountered by Blacks at predominantly white graduate schools.

Don Brown, a recruiter from Yale, expressed his concern about the fall-out rate of all of the three Black students who had enrolled in the university's graduate program during the past six years. He said Yale is in the initial stages of altering the economic program so as to deal with Black students on a person to person basis. "Yale's constant output is an output of zero," Brown said.

Since the problem includes not only getting them through the program, Brown has decided an aggressive attitude in counseling is needed. He feels the advisor of Black students must know their academic strengths and deficiencies.

Recruiters from N.C. State U.,

Johns Hopkins U., Michigan State U. and other universities represented all stressed the importance of strong background of basic economic mathematics.

The question of why a significant number of Black students who perform well in undergraduate schools but fall-out in graduate schools, although carefully considered, was not fully answered. Students and recruiters did not especially associate the problem with incompetence but vaguely linked it to the new social and academic environment white graduate schools. One student stressed that Black students have to pool their knowledge and have to become accustomed to going to their professors for help and not rely on their undergraduate experiences of having their professors coming to them.

Dr. Sidney Evans, chairman of A&T's Economics Department, and two of his students Denise Lavender and Patricia Everett attended the conference.

Memorial Dinner To Fete A&T's Earl 'Dutch' Clark

A memorial dinner in honor of the late Earl "Dutch" Clark, former outstanding A&T State University athlete and coach, will be held Saturday, Dec. 20, at 4 p. m. in the Ranch House Restaurant in Greensboro.

The dinner will be sponsored by the A&T Athletic Liaison Committee, chaired by E. S. Douglas, mayor pro-tem of Southern Pines.

A native of Springfield, Ill., Mr. Clark died in a Greensboro health care center Nov. 4 after a lengthy illness.

While a student at A&T in the late 1930s, he was an outstanding football halfback and lineman and served as a student assistant coach prior to his graduation.

He also won the CIAA boxing title while at the university.

Price Hall Offers Aggies A Thrill Ride Tuesday

A thrill ride on the A&T campus? That's right! Tuesday from 2:00-3:00pm at the rear of Price Hall. Come and see the car on rails that races down a fifteen foot incline at speeds up to seven miles per hour and comes abruptly to a stop as it hits a rubber bumper at the bottom. If you are really brave, even try riding it with seat belt fastened, of course.

The device is called, "The Convincer" and is on loan from the Governor's Highway Safety Office. It is being used in the driver education instructors course taught by the Safety and Driver Education Center. Students in Marquis Cousins', Basic Safety and Driver Education course and Dr. Isaac Barnett's, Techniques of Laboratory Instruction will get a demonstration of an effective means of convincing drivers that seat belts and shoulder straps are necessary for the protection of occupants in a motor vehicle.

The effect on the rider is similar to that experienced in a low speed automobile crash, say two cars colliding in a parking lot. The seat belt and shoulder strap restrains the rider so that he doesn't hit the dash or be thrown completely out of the car. This demonstration is much more effective than textbooks, movies or discussions in showing the results of the force of impact in a crash. Crashes at higher speeds would involve much greater forces.

"The Convincer" has been used recently by Janette Kelley at Paisley High School in Winston-Salem and by Donn Thomas at Ashboro High School. They are students in Dr. Ben Koeple's course, Innovations in Safety and Driver Deucation. Both high school teachers found the demonstration to be very effective with their driver education students.

military, Clark returned to a A&T as a counselor in the office of veterans affairs. He also served as an assistant coach of football and boxing. He later served as an employee in the buildings and grounds department.

Clark was inducted into the A&T Sports Hall of Fame in 1973. Friends of his day have called him one of the finest athletes ever to play for a predominantly-Black college.

Reservations for the dinner may be secured by calling or writing Joseph D. Williams, Sr., director of alumni affairs at A&T.

Fellows Encourage Academics

By Anthony M. Curley

In 1971 the Smith Richardson Foundations and other foundations and corporations funded a program called The Richardson Fellows Program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. An outgrowth of that program came a name change in 1973 to the North Carolina Fellows Program. The program is for male and female students as incoming freshmen. This is a four year extra-curricular activity which is established on four campuses; A&T, Davidson College, N. C. State University, and UNC at Chapel Hill. The strength of the program is sixty students, fifteen per class. The students are selected their freshman year.

The purpose of the program is to find, screen, select, and contribute to the intellectual, economic, social, political, and moral development of academically talented young people. This self-development is contributed by self-appraisal on the part of the Fellows, appraisal of themselves, and the analyzation of test data.

In addition, a psychologist from Meharry Medical College, David Stewart, conducts self-development exercises for the Fellows at off campus retreat cities, such as Quailroost, Betsy-Jeff Penn Conference Center, Camp Caroway, and others. The purpose of the self-development retreat is to assist Fellows in understanding themselves, the system which they are a part of, and the society which makes up the system.

There are on and off campus seminars that allow them to sponsor speakers on campus and study tours away from campus. Most recent speakers sponsored on campus were Dr. Alvin Poussaint of Harvard Medical School, and Dr. Jerry Hirsch of the University of Illinois. The most recent off campus tours were the National Mini Democratic Convention, Soul City, Central State Prison in Raleigh, Mutual in Raleigh, and Burroughs-Wellcome Pharmaceutical and Manufacturing Company.

The most exciting part of the program is centered around the summer internships. A few include, Congressman Richardson Preyer, Gov. James E. Holshouser, Mead Corporation of Greensboro, Shirley Chisholm, Terry Sanford, Dr. Reginald Hawkins, and Attorney Henry Frye. One of the greatest advantages of the internship program is that it allows students direct contact with leaders in their disciplines early in their academic careers for observation and analyzation of their careers.

Plans are now underway for the Fellows to take a three-day plane trip to the United Nations in New York. The trip is being arranged through Richardson Preyer's office for the second semester, which will have a maximum of four delegates. The purpose of the trip is to allow the N. C. Fellows to meet and interact with Third-World Nations of their choice for intellectual stimulation and understanding.

Applications are now being received from freshman students for the 1975-76 school year. Interested persons may contact Ms. Carolyn Crosson, Room 10, East Hall, or call 379-7708 or 379-7709 for application forms.

two decades.

Saturday, Black leaders from around the country discussed economic, educational and political struggles of the future.

Friday night, the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago told a rally that "it's better to walk in dignity than to ride in shame."

During the three-day observance, the Rev. Martin Luther King, Sr., father of slain civil rights worker Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said he was sure there was a conspiracy behind the assassination of his son in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968.

Counselor Reminisces About A&T

By Maxine McNeill

A lot of students seem to think that their dorm counselors are just nose people who try to govern their actions. This may be true in some cases but not in the case of Philip Boone, the dorm counselor at Scott Hall. Boone has been a counselor here at A&T for the past 20 years.

Besides being a counselor here, Boone is also an A&T Alumnus. He received his B.S. degree in industrial arts. Later he earned a masters' in Industrial Education and then a degree in counseling.

While reminiscing over his past years as a counselor, Boone said that a lot of changes have taken place. One change in particular is in the disciplinary actions of the students. Boone said that in the past, students didn't talk back. He said that the students were more controllable because they would be sent home for the least little thing they did. He said that we students today have more freedom than the students in the 50's and 60's.

In the past years, said Boone, students were more involved in dorm activities. He said that this was because students didn't have the money to be at places like the Cosmos Club. Also, a lot of activities were constructed on campus. He said that back then students didn't have to pay to go to the dances or any of the other activities on campus. Boone said the reason students aren't more involved in campus activities is mostly the administration's fault.

In reference to the riot of the 60's Boone said that he thinks that they took away from A&T's pride. He said that the sit-ins were good because they were non-violent and made people aware of what was going on. Boone went on to say that the riot got a lot of publicity but not many people on or off campus participated in it.

One similarity which Boone mentioned between today's students and yesterday's at A&T is that they both seem to have apathetic attitudes. He said that when the riots were going on that most of the students sat in their rooms and watched, not caring what happened.

Today, said Boone, a student could stand and watch someone go into his neighbor's room and steal some of his belongings and wouldn't care. He said the only way a student will get involved is that something happens to him. He said that he think the Black Brother and Sister phrase was invented as a cover-up.

As far as the future is concerned, Boone said that he would like to see a lot more worthwhile activities for the students. He added that some activities where the students would have to dress up would be good.

Boone ended by saying, "My job is to help the students get along and make adjustments. I try to reach them in areas that are not taught in the classroom. I feel that I have had a big impact on a lot of students."

Welborne Makes Plans For Union Improvement

By Patricia A. Owens

One of the prettiest sights one's eyes can behold is the painting of the game rooms in the basement of the Student Union.

Sullivan Welborn, director of the Student Union, stated that he and the Student Union Advisory Board went around the Union last year and made a list of things that needed to be done. The list of repairs was sent to Gerard E. Gray, director of the physical plant.

Two weeks ago the work on the Union game rooms began. Welborne stated that the Board did not put any pressure on the painters because there are only four painters to serve the entire campus.

Welborne also added that there were ideas of putting carpet down in certain parts of the Union and adding pinball machines where the pool tables are presently located. The pool tables will be put in the room across the hall.

When the plans are finished in the Student Union game room, A&T students can really be proud of one campus accomplishment that creates a brighter place for one's enjoyment.

Life Here For Little Aggie Is Without Many Problems

By Nepolia M. Smith

A&T Aggies come in all shapes and sizes. Presently enrolled at A&T is Clara Diggs, a freshman accounting major from Thomasville. She is four feet five inches tall.

Asked how she felt about her height, Clara replied, "I have no hang-ups at all about it." Clara did comment on some of the looks that people give her. She said that people look at her as though she can not perform life as they do.

Clara revealed that she tries to take people as they are and other people should do the same.

Winston-Salem State was Clara's first choice, but due to the enrollment of the school being completely filled, she decided to come to A&T. Even though A&T was her second choice, Clara stated she likes the school, and plans on spending her next three years here.

What's For Christmas?

By Harold Carter

For some people, Christmas will be an event surrounded by Santa Clauses, reindeer, and surprises. This reporter ventured into A&T's Day Care center to see how Christmas was coming along.

While there he met some interesting students who had little to say, but that was because they were so excited. Jewel Hinnant, future businessman, said that he wanted a black film strip, a pair of skates and a "Six-Million Dollar Man." Anthony Finch, future President of the United States, wants Santa to bring Mommy and Daddy a pancake. He wants a choo-choo train and some clothes.

"I already told Santa that I wanted a greenhouse, and a baby to love," said Erica Fraizer, future lawyer. "I told him (Santa) to bring Mommy a couch," she said.

Tre Spinks, future bank manager, said "I will be glad when the snow comes, because Santa comes in the snow. I want a football, and some clothes to keep warm in. I want him (Santa) to bring Mommy a dress and Daddy a lawn mower."

Hopefully, Santa is READING and listening somewhere and that Christmas will be CHRISTMAS for those who believe.

Clara Diggs has been declared the littlest Aggie.

Now Is The Time

Now is the time for President Ford to really show the nation and Black America, in particular, if we can depend on him. He has already failed us so far as nominating a Black to fill the vacant seat on the Supreme Court, and he probably won't go along with his proposal of considering a Black running mate in the presidential elections, to mention a few instances. Before flying off to China, Ford stated that FBI men responsible for the harassment of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. should be brought to justice.

It is becoming more evident daily that the U. S. government and most agencies thereof are corrupt and suffer from racism. The recent testimonials by ex-FBI agent Gary Thomas Rowe, Jr., who has been testifying before the Senate Intelligence Committee and the review of the investigation of the murder of Dr. King has only helped to strengthen this writer's belief that these conditions hold ever so true.

Unlike the attorneys general of the past, Attorney General Edward H. Levi had enough guts to order a review of the murder of Dr. King. Levi should be commended on that aspect, if not for any other reason. Previously, the only official investigation into King's death had been conducted by the FBI, which we have learned was one of his greatest persecutors. When one considers all the evidence making headlines, showing the FBI probably wanted King dead more than any other organization in the nation, how can we accept anything the FBI has to say about how he died? Thus, a re-opening of the investigation into his death is no more than appropriate.

Rowe revealed that the FBI conducted many bugging operations directed at King and churches where civil rights workers gathered. Rowe said that he was set to tell all he knew about the FBI's campaign to defame and discredit Dr. King.

The loss of credibility facing the U. S. cannot be erased until the full story has been obtained, by an impartial investigation. It is quite questionable whether or not the current members of the FBI can make such an investigation.

Rowe has made it known that he knows some of the FBI men who took part in these campaigns against the civil rights marchers. He also added that some of them are still with the FBI. Now, if Ford really meant it when he said these persecutors should be brought to justice, he will see to it that justice is carried out. However, if he has only been paying lip service, which is all he has been doing in the past as far as Blacks are concerned, he will push it aside as just another issue. Mr. President, now is the time for you to let us know where you stand.

Departments Should Cooperate

By Patricia Ingram

The main purpose of a campus newspaper is the coverage of campus events. To better perform this function, news editor, has submitted copies of a form as a guide for sending news to THE REGISTER to the chairperson of each department on campus. However, he has received little if any response from these individuals during the duration of this semester.

Constantly we are told about the degree of "apathy" present among students today. But I can assure you that their apathetic attitudes can not be any worse or disgusting than this apparent lack of cooperation from the departments on campus.

If a department has not received a sufficient number of copies of this form, a representative from the department concerned should take the initiative either to make additional copies of the form or to request additional copies from the news editor. Once the department has received the forms, it could use them for the designated purpose.

With the ending of the semester and the year, perhaps one of the resolutions a departmental chairperson could make is to compose an agenda of the activities scheduled to be presented by his department. And when the time warrants, he should complete a copy of the form and submit it to THE REGISTER.

Your cooperation would be greatly appreciated. The results of your cooperation could be seen twice a week. Just check out a copy of each edition of THE REGISTER.

Gym Ground Breaking Set For December 15

By William Lawson

The ground breaking ceremony for A&T's new Gym has been set for Dec. 15, according to David Morehead, chairman of the building and grounds committee of the Board of Trustees.

On Nov. 12, bid openings were held in Coltrane Hall. A quick tabulation indicated that the total bids including architect's fee and necessary contingency were within the 1971 3.4 million dollar appropriation.

In a meeting at Chapel Hill, officials said the new gym could be constructed with the monies appropriated in 1971.

Therefore, the Physical Education fee which was assessed the first semester (15.00 full time student) will not be levied for future semesters.

The new gymnasium will hold a capacity crowd of 7,000 spectators. It will have a 25 yard eight lane pool. There will be seating for 300 spectators. It will be located just east of Moore Gymnasium.

Construction should start some time after Dec. 15, stated Matthew King, vice chancellor for fiscal affairs.

Christmas Dinner Features Authentic Hawaiian Fare

They say what Mrs. Eula Vereen doesn't know about foods, hasn't been written yet.

Those persons who attended her Christmas in Hawaii dinner Dec. 4 in Benbow Hall will attest to that fact.

Mrs. Vereen gives all the credit for the sumptuous fare to her students, those majoring in management and dietetics.

This time the students outdid themselves in quest of a good grade at the end of the semester. Try this for starters.

The guests, which included several dozen administrators and faculty members, politicians and other community notables, warmed up on a delicious Hawaiian punch, then were led to the lengthy buffet tables loaded with such delicacies as Chicken luau, na paleva alepe, curried shrimp, terujaki, fee beef ribs and pork chops with fresh spinach and yams.

The other island foods included tossed salad in fresh pineapple shells, nut bread, fresh coconut cake, mia me ka niu, fresh string beans and fresh new crop cabbage.

While the guests filled themselves, they were entertained with Hawaiian music by singer Ernie Frierson and Leroy Roberson, director of choirs at A&T. Stanley Amacker, a junior, gave a detailed history of Hawaiian foods and Miss Patricia Lynch introduced the guests.

We invite all A&T Students to try our delicious steak dinner. Even a student can afford it! Stop by our newest location on 114 North Davie St.

For those students who need some bonafied relaxation from the pressure of finals and the semester the Cosmos Club's Incorporated will sponsor a "Super Blast at the Cosmos II, 817 West Florida Street, Friday, December 12.

Mike Cole, public relations director, said, "So often different organizations will come together with each other, but not often with other organizations."

He continued, "The theme of the cabaret is "Doing Together What We Have Not Done Apart", and we have successfully organized the graduate chapter before, and we would like to accomplish the same involvement with all the other chapters on campus."

Asked if students who do not belong to certain organizations can attend this particular function, Cole said, "Anybody can come, but what we are doing is selling tables of twenty people. Contact Richard Bowling, or me at Cosmos I, anytime between 10:00 a.m. until"

Asked what purpose the cabaret will serve, Cole said, "It will bring together a number of people and various organizations which will bring together a higher level of understanding, instead of limiting ones self with a particular narrow concept."

Asked what organizations have secured reservation for the Christmas cabaret, Cole said, "It's going to be a beautiful affair and I hope everyone will come out along with:

CBS Wants To Examine Evidence

JACKSON, Tenn. AP-The Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals heard arguments Monday on whether CBS News should be permitted to examine evidence in Martin Luther King assassination case.

Newton B. Allen, an attorney for the broadcasting company, told the court CBS was planning to produce a documentary program on the 10-68 King assassination.

A circuit court judge in Memphis, William H. Williams, refused to grant the CBS petition in September although he indicated he would permit the examination after numerous appeals in the case had been exhausted.

James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to the King slaying and was sentenced to 99 years in the Tennessee prison, has filed an appeal seeking to invalidate his guilty plea and win a full trial on the charge.

In response to questioning by the court Monday, Allen said CBS wants clearance to examine both the death bullet and a rifle found near the scene of the slaying.

Allen said CBS wants to subject the evidence to "scientific examination...to determine if the murder bullet was fired from the weapon found at the scene of the crime."

Dist. Atty. Hugh Stanton is opposing the CBS petition. During a hearing in Judge Williams' court in September, one of Stanton's assistants argued that exhibits in a criminal trial do not become part of the public record.

CBS contends the evidence should be opened to the public.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

You can take this for what it is worth, but when is A&T going to beat Winston-Salem State in a basketball game?

After researching the records, an Aggie basketball team has not defeated a Clarence "Big-house" Gaines' club since 1972 when they fell in the coliseum by a scant six points.

Since then the clubs have met some seven times with the Rams walking away a victor each time.

And, to add insult to injury, last season's performances by A&T were ridiculous against Winston.

A&T led by as many as sixteen points here in Greensboro and lost 80-79 in the closing seconds. The action switched to the twin city a week later where the Aggies were blasted by 17 points after leading by 14 at the half.

I realize this is a great rivalry and superb crowds turn out each year for this matchup, but those two losses were beyond comprehension. It makes a person wonder if A&T is psyched out by Winston each year or is it that it is a better team than A&T?

I seriously doubt both conjectures and simply relate it to A&T's ability to blow a big lead in every rivalry game it plays. It's just a matter of pressure.

While A&T has blown its undefeated string to nine games dating back to late last season, it has become evident that the Aggies are a target for the other MEAC members.

Besides being the champion over three of the last four years, most teams are pointing to A&T every game they play. It is an uncanny spot to be in from the Aggie point of view.

The pressure rests on the rest of the league. An A&T upset is not, by any stretch of one's imagination, a signaling of the end.

Aggies Win With Country Zone

By Blannie E. Bowen

Coach Warren Reynolds of A&T says the way to stop a team loaded with New York players is to play a tight country-style zone.

Delaware State College threw five New York players against Reynolds Friday and his Aggies stopped four of the five "city-slickers" as A&T captured a 74-66 victory.

While Reynolds was stopping Ira Mitchell's Hornets, it was a Brooklyn, New York, player named James Sparrow who was doing the most damage against Delaware.

Sparrow got untracked in the second half and collected 15 of his game-high 21 points as he connected on long jumpers and easy lay-ups on superb one-on-one moves which New York players are noted for.

Sparrow, who stands 6-6 and possesses cat quickness, easily out-manuevered Delaware's shorter guards. While Sparrow and his New York players gathered most of the limelight, it was two Southern gentlemen who kept A&T in the game during Sparrow's cold first half.

Guard Ray Perry shot for nine first-half points and center Sinclair Colbert collected six.

A nip-and-tuck affair took place in the first half as neither team could get more than a four-point lead.

A&T did lead 31-29 at halftime as Perry got nine of the Aggies' last 11 points before intermission. Freshman guard Jim Lovelace kept Delaware close with clutch shooting and crisp playmaking.

Wade Pittman also had a hand in things as he netted eight for the first half. But, the key for the Aggies was to shut down the Hornets' free-lancing, run-and-gun offense.

A tight second half match-up zone got 6-7 Fred Simmons into quick foul trouble and 6-9 James Rogers could not rebound effectively. It was, Katie, bar the door for the Hornets from then on as the shots would not fall for four of the five Hornets.

Pittman, who always scores well against A&T, managed 12 second half points (20 for the game) on superb moves to the basket. But, Rogers (11 points) and Pittman could not stop five Aggies.

A short Hornet lineup could not match 6-10 Colbert (15 rebounds, 12 points); 6-8 Ron Johnson (12 points); 6-6 Dexter Boone and Sparrow. The Hornet reserves were no match for 6-9 L.P. Pipkin, 6-7 Steve Cassell and Terry McInnis.

But, the real mismatch came when Delaware attempted to play one-on-one against a tall and talented Aggie team. The city-slickers were stopped by a smooth country-slicker (Reynolds).

Buses Will Not Be Going To Home Coliseum Games

By Anthony M. Curley

The time has come for the Aggies of A&T to take the basketball courts. Most home games will be played in Moore Gym; but a few times, for more exposure, there will be games played in the Greensboro Coliseum which may cause some inconvenience for some students.

While talking with a member of the SGA, it was stated that buses to the Coliseum were not planned and had not been discussed based on the assumption that students would be able to get to the games with their friends. However, the SGA is willing to eradicate this assumption and sponsor buses to the Greensboro Coliseum if the students show the need for having them and ask.

The SGA is also planning a bus trip for two away games, Howard's price will be $30 per student which will cover two nights and transportation.

A&T Knocks Off Hawks Saturday

By Craig Turner

Last Friday night, the Hawks of Maryland-Eastern Shore knocked off North Carolina Central in its first MEAC basketball tilt of the year, 87-84 in Durham.

Head coach Dan Jones told reporters that he had talked to his team about its "defeat-us-attitude" which is understandable after last season's 2-23 campaign.

Jones said that particular strategy worked and that he said he would tell his players the same thing before playing A&T, the defending MEAC champion, the next evening.

But at the same time, A&T coach Warren Reynolds had told his club before the year that its goal was to have 22 wins without a loss.

Coach Reynolds' pep talk, coupled with a superior basketball team proved too much for the hapless Hawks in a decisive A&T victory Saturday Night, 93-66.

A capacity crowd of 2,500 fans packed into Moore Gym to witness the Aggies dismantle the much smaller Eastern Shore team.

The Hawks were indeed short in stature as they could only muster a starting lineup that averaged a mere 6-3 per man. Eastern Shore intended on utilizing its quickness and excellent outside shooting.

The Hawks opened in a spread offense, hoping to draw the Aggie front line out away from the basket. By doing this, they could crash the boards on the open jump shot and hold their own in rebounding.

That strategy seemed to be effective as the Hawks stayed within anywhere from four to eight points with A&T up until the ten-minute mark. It was then that A&T took control. The Aggies forced the running game, spearheaded by the rebounding and outlet passes of 6-10 Sinclair Colbert.

The insertion of 6-9 L. J. Pipkin cut off the easy followup shots of the Hawks as the big freshman rejected two apparent layups defensively late in the first half.

A&T broke the contest open on the offensive plays of James Sparrow. He scored the last ten Aggie points of the half as A&T forged ahead 41-27.

The Hawks pulled to within eight points at the 15:37 point on the shooting of Carl Powell, a Hawk forward.

But as quickly as the first half flurry ended, more Aggie stars appeared on the scene. Forward Ron Johnson, Colbert, and Sparrow combined for eight unanswered points to give A&T a commanding 65-43 lead with 10:46 to go.

Freshman guard Ken Small did not let the Hawks rest one moment when two starters were being rested in the last ten minutes.

The 6-3 prep All-America blistered the Hawks' pressure defense and banged home four jumpers to seat the win. From there the Aggies simply ran out the clock and upped the score.

Leading the way for the winners was James Sparrow with a season high 31 points. Ken Small pumped in ten points and Sinclair Colbert added 11 points but more importantly twenty rebounds. Sparrow also claimed ten rebounds and six assists.

Carl Powell was the high man for the losers as he slammed in 22 points while Lewis Miles had 15 in a losing effort.

"It's hard to top the challenge and reward NUPOC offers."

It's true. The opportunities you'll have as a Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate are far from ordinary. Just ask Lieutenant Junior Grade Charles Collier, from Baltimore, Maryland. Chuck's a nuclear trained Naval Officer taking advanced studies in the field of nuclear submarine operations. It's tough, but he thinks it's worth it. Because Chuck's next assignment will be in a nuclear powered Polaris submarine. Destination: the world.

Do you think you have what it takes to become a NUPOC? First, you have to be a college senior, or graduate with a good knowledge of math, physics, or engineering. You'll also need talent... ability... and character. All the things it takes to be a leader of men and to deal with the challenges of "innerspace".

The graduate level training you'll receive in our NUPOC program will prepare you for supervising the operation of our nuclear propulsion plants on either nuclear surface ships or submarines. You'll work alongside a hand picked crew of experts. And remember, it's a Nuclear Age. The knowledge you get today will be in demand tomorrow.

You get a lot in return, too. You receive a Naval Officer's commission. Have a guaranteed income while you're learning. And a chance to travel and have some fun. Talk with your Navy Officer Recruiter today about our NUPOC program, or call toll free 800-841-8000. (In Georgia, call toll free 800-342-5855). NUPOC: it means Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate. But it spells opportunity!

The opportunity is for real...and so are we. NAVY
