Trustees Approve Stadium Plans

The A&T State University trustees, Wednesday approved the creation of two new departments, gave the go ahead on the University's plans for a stadium, and reaffirmed their opposition to the construction of a sewerage treatment plant near the A&T farm.

The new departments are the Department of Media Education and the Department of Driver's and Safety Education.

Chancellor Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy said the creation of the new departments should help to promote the growth of the undergraduate and graduate programs in the two areas.

In the stadium resolution, the board authorized the chancellor to proceed with the plans for the construction of the stadium, with a seating capacity of 20,000 seats.

The board approved that after the proper documents and plans for the stadium have been approved by the appropriate state agencies, a $30.00 fee, originally meant for the new gym, but not needed for that project, be used to assist in the financing of the stadium.

Dr. Dowdy said that the plan would not necessitate an increase in costs for the students.

The board first approved the construction of the stadium last year and the university has been conducting a fund raising campaign among its alumni, boosters and friends.

Dr. Dowdy said the final phase will be a general campaign of the businesses and industries and the general public.

In opposing the enlargement of the sewerage treatment plant near the 600-acre A&T farm, the board said the sewerage facility would create a neighborhood nuisance.

"Activities of our growing research program on the farm will also be affected," said Dowdy. "We now have in the neighborhood of $300,000 worth of research being conducted on the farm."

In his report to the board, Dowdy noted that A&T has enrolled 5,168 students for the spring semester, just a little less than the 5,345 enrolled last term.

Dowdy also said that plans for securing accreditation for the School of Business and Economics and the School of Education are proceeding on schedule.

Thievery Attempts Occur In Scott During Holidays

By Anthony Motley

There was a major theft attempt in Scott Hall during the Christmas Holidays. Chief Roosevelt Raines of the A&T Security announced that the theft attempt was estimated at $1,500.00.

Chief Raines formulated that the thief or thieves apparently saw a patrolman coming towards the building and dropped the merchandise, then fled through a bathroom window in the northeastern side of the dormitory. The merchandise consisted of television, radios, clocks, clothing and other personal articles. The case is still being investigated.

Another incident reported was the theft of $40.00 worth of bicentennial coins from the office of one A&T administrator. The coins were left briefly on a desk in a money bag. There is no suspect yet.

Another security matter involves parking. Raines stressed that he is constantly reminding students to park in the correct parking areas or they will be subject to be towed away or given a ticket. Parking stickers can still be purchased at the physical plant.

In reference to drugs, Chief Raines said, "There has been a decrease in drug activity at present, but it is a wait-and-see game. We have no cases of heroin but we do have several marijuana cases."

All of the female dormitories now have a no trespassing warning printed on the side doors. Any unauthorized person caught entering these doors will be subject to immediate arrest. Raines commented that he hoped the young ladies would stop leaving rocks, cans, and so forth in the doorways at night.

Students can go to the security office and talk to the police staff at any time. The telephone number for the Security Office is 379-7626 and emergency calls can be made on the "Hot Line" at 379-7675

Temporary Stickers Cost $10

By Debra Daniels

This semester, students should be extra wary of keeping up with their meal stickers because a $10 fee is the requisite for acquiring temporary meal cards at the Dudley Building.

Edgar Shepard, cashier explained that this innovated rule is designed not for students who have genuinely lost their meal stickers, but rather for students who pass them around to non boarding students and other people not possessing stickers of their own.

The purpose for this rule, he said, is to break up the pattern of shifting meal stickers to unauthorized persons. Some students lend their stickers to unauthorized persons and then report to the office that they have lost their meal stickers. They request temporary meal cards, and both the unauthorized persons and the students may take turns using the same numbers. Therefore this rule should cut down the rate of using meal stickers illegally.

Shepard pointed out that students eat at low costs because they are not expected to eat every meal served in the cafeteria and normally each student does not. Whenever they do not eat but allow someone else to eat the meals they miss, the students are in danger of having the cost raised to accommodate the extra meals consumed.

Therefore, to avoid higher costs in the meals, Shepard warns students against the illegal use of

Textile Project Gains Success

By Lynelle Stevenson

The textiles and clothing research project, under the direction of Dr. Myrtle L. Smith has been successful and progressive.

Actually there have been two projects since the program began. The first now completed and in the process of being prepared for a public presentation, was a study on the durability of flame finishes on cotton products.

The project was sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Research Service division.

Included was a study of Children's sleepwear on two community sources. Also used were tablecloths and draperies made of 100% cotton damask with two flame retardant treatments.

The tablecloths and draperies were used in five nursery schools in the city after being laundered and tested in the laboratories. However the sleepwear didn't undergo use.

The second project which is in the process of being concluded is a study of clothing and textile information needs of low income families in North Carolina.

A total of 1,998 families in twelve counties were surveyed by 16 selected and trained persons from those areas.

The main concern was to find out how informed consumers are in the selection, use and caring of the textile items.

Having completed the survey and the data computerized, it's now in the process of being analyzed.

When asked for a personal opinion of the project, Dr. Smith stated, "I think the project has been very rewarding for the students as well as myself. It has been very inspirational to be involved in one of the hottest research projects around today."

The program has brought some advantages for A&T as well. These include research facilities for textiles, laboratories and equipment.

Dr. Smith also expressed some future hope for the project. "We hope to expand from what we have through additional grants."

With hopes and dreams of future expansion, Dr. Smith expressed her feelings for students involved in the project. "Hopefully, we would like to be able to offer scholarships and assistantships to students involved in this field of study," she stated.

Brainwashing Expert Says Patty Was Forced

LONDON AP-Patricia Hearst was "brainwashed, forcibly converted, and coerced in thought and deed" into joining the Symbionese Liberation Army after her kidnapping British psychiatrist William Sargant, a leading expert in terrorist brainwashing techniques, said today.

Dr. Sargant interviewed Miss Hearst at her family's request last year. He wrote in the Times of London today that after five long talks with her, he was convinced "there is not a shred of truth in any allegations that she cooperated in her kidnapping."

The 21-year old newspaper heiress, now on trial in San Francisco on federal bank robbery charges, was kept blindfolded in a cupboard for 60 days after her capture and was subjected to threats against herself and her parents, Sargant said.

"The last war showed that around 30 days, continued day and night, was the maximum period of tension and stress a normal person could endure before breakdown," he said.

"Then increased states of suggestibility intervene and the brain goes into 'inhibitory' reverse. Patty endured induced tension for much longer than 30 days..."

"My own view is that she was not really 'broken' until around the 50th day of the blindfolding, but the blindfold was only removed after 60 days. And when it was removed she had a short period of unreality and a distortion of her body image which was alarming to her in the extreme."

During the bank robbery for which she is now on trial, when Miss Hearst was photographed holding a gun, "she was so frightened that she nearly fainted," Sargant said.

"Now she was caught in the web, and the FBI became real enemies, as was shown later when fire bombs were tossed into a surrounded house in Los Angeles. The 'switchback' occurred when Patty finally got away from the two remaining SLA members and lived with a Japanese girl, Wendy Yoshimura, who was also on the run."

Wendy... was able to disillusion Patty and to make her realize how terribly she had been deceived all along in a whole variety of ways. No remaining regard except for Wendy remains now for her former associates and what she now considers their mad ideas.

"She was glad to be captured finally without being shot. On my fifth and last interview with her she said that if she was ever released she would go back to her still loving parents, but not to her former life, and try to do social work."

When you ride a bike all day, you have to rest for a while, but when you can't ride you rest all the time.

Math Department Offers Service

For the fifth consecutive year, students of the Mathematics Department at A&T will operate a free income tax service for low income residents and senior citizens of the Greensboro area.

Directed by Miss T.E. Bradford, a mathematics teacher, the service will be available on Mondays from 6 to 8 p.m. in Room 206 Merrick Hall, and on Wednesdays from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Council House at Morningside Homes, 770 Bingham Street.

Initiated as a class project, the tax service annually assists several hundred persons with the filing of their federal and state tax forms.

Persons utilizing the service are requested to bring all of their tax forms, pertinent papers and records and documents. Information about the program can be secured by calling Ms. Bradford at 379-7822.

Changes Improve Physical Plant

By Anthony Motley

Upon entering the Physical Plant, one can observe carpenters, electricians, and painters making some further changes to the building. Additional offices are being made and others have been rearranged.

Gerard E. Gray, director of the Physical Plant, explained that interior changes have been made in the building to provide for the housing of some staff members formerly housed elsewhere and to provide for more efficient operations. All of the offices will contain door numbers and there will be a receptionist stationed in the lobby for assistance.

A&T's engineer, Irwin Hodge, remarked that the change is favorable and the new system will be more conducive to a professional type office.

Stylus Club To Be Reactivated

By Lynelle Stevenson

The Stylus Club, a creative writing organization, will once again be an active club under the direction of Miss Dorothy Eller, Mrs. Sandra Alexander and Dr.

Michael Greene. The purpose of the club is to publish an anthology of student writings.

All interested students can turn in contributions to any one of the advisors mentioned above or to the English office located in Room 208, Crosby Hall.

In behalf of students who have genuinely lost their stickers (which is usually a minority compared to the ones who lend theirs out), if stickers are recovered within five days, the ten dollars will be refunded, he stated. Also, if a student has a valid reason for having lost his sticker (if it was unavoidable) the office will issue him another one.

Dresses Don't Make It On The College Campus

By Maxine McNeill

The days of crew socks, spike heel shoes, wool flannel skirts, and, of course, the wool or Mohair V-neck sweaters for girls are gone. Also gone are the very stylish dark pants, white shirts and winged-tipped shoes for guys. These fashions once stereotyped young college co-eds.

They were, a little over a decade ago, the typical dress for the well dressed student.

The fashions today are very different from the ones then.

Today girls are no longer totally committed to dresses. In fact, the average dress for girls and guys on today's college campuses is blue jeans. A&T's campus is no exception. There are very few people who dress up for classes around here. The outnumbered few who do are looked upon as being showoffs.

The blue jeans, be they clean, dirty, pressed, wrinkled, or just plain ragged - are accepted into the college society as the most desired dress. They may be jeans you've had for years and worn holes all the way through and then put patches on. This reporter has noticed that that's the case in some instances.

There are many different types of blue jeans. There are overalls, jeans with the buckle in the back, straight legged jeans, flair legged jeans - to name a few. Also, the prewashed jeans have gained popularity among students.

Any type of top is usually worn with blue jeans. A very popular top girls and some guys wear is the turtle neck with the open blouse. A bandanna is sometimes added to this attire to set it off. Not only is the bandanna worn to add to the looks of our casual wear, it is worn with all attire.

Platform and wedged heel shoes are the most typical type shoes worn here but some girls are tending toward a shoe with the narrow heel. Also, a very comfortable looking earth shoe is popular. This shoe, along with the platform sandals, is worn by both sexes.

All the fashions of today stem from the 1920 look. The new length dresses strike somewhere just below the knees. Some guys seem to be wearing the looser, baggy looking pants.

At any rate, with all the fashions seen around campus socks and the tobagan hat, a scarf and gloves are not looked down upon in this winter season.

Spring Tutorial Program Begins

The Special Services office of A&T has begun its tutorial program for the spring semester. Tutorial services are being held on the first, second, and third floors of Merrick Hall on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights starting at 7:30p.m.

Those students who participate in the program will have assessment records which will be kept by tutors and will be transferred to the student's instructor which will indicate that student's progress.

According to George Armstrong, director of special services, approximately 200 students were counseled last week. His department usually averages between 30 and 40 persons per week.

Dean list students will be furnishing their services for those persons who desire academic enrichment in the subject areas of Mathematics, English, Spanish, French, history, and science.

Tutors for the math sessions will be Thomas Barrett, Varnel Johnson, Ronald Troy, Nellie Roundtree, and Ardeshir Niliaram.

Evelyn Reid, Claude Barnes, Steve Allen, and Mary Tyson will tutor the English sessions. Yvonne Middleton will tutor French while Obay Armstrong will assist in Spanish.

Students needing help in history will receive help from Clark McGriff and Earl Chestnut.

Science sessions will be tutored by Kwong Wing Yiu.

Armstrong strongly urges students to take full advantage of the tutorial program throughout the spring semester. Any student having questions about the tutorial program is asked to come to the special services offices on the basement level of Bluford Library.

Sit-In Protest Of Students Set Stage For Civil Rights

By Maxine McNeill

The year 1976 holds a number of historical events for America. One event which we are all frequently reminded of is that of America's 200th birthday. While some Blacks may be indecisive as to whether or not to join in the Bicentennial celebration, there is a local celebration that Blacks definitely are a part of.

The event I am speaking of is the sixteenth anniversary of the Sit-In Demonstrations which started with four A&T students.

On February 1, 1960, four A&T freshmen staged what they termed a "passive demand for service" at the Woolworth Five and Dime Store here in Greensboro. They were determined to do something that had never been done anywhere else in North Carolina - to be served at a public lunch counter along with whites. The four students who started this courageous and seemingly impossible demonstration were Ezell Blair, Jr. and David Richmond who were both from Greensboro; Franklin McCain who was from Washington, D.C., and Joseph McNeil from Wilmington.

These student's action sparked other Black students throughout the state and country to protest. As the protest continued, though, some whites did join in.

Though the Sit-In protest seems to us ancient history, it did occur, if not in the present Aggies' minds, in the minds of the four Aggies and their followers who were able to stand up to the injustices of society and not worry about the consequences. They paved the way for all the Blacks following them. They started a protest test, which in this reporter's view point, has never been more effective and timely.

This February, while you're contemplating the coming July 4th celebration, do take time out and say a prayer of thanks to these Aggies of the past.

Right Decision Made

The U.S. Senate and House of Representatives should be praised for their courage to vote against the continuation of U.S. aid in Angola. This was done on Tuesday, when the House joined the Senate, which had already banned a continued military aid to Western-backed factions. The Ford Administration had asked for an additional $28 million to spend on the Angolan conflict over the next six months.

This rejection of the requests of the Ford Administration tells us that the U.S. can no longer expect itself to be the policeman of the world. After the Vietnam war, I doubt if many Americans are anxious to support any U.S. actions that would lead us into another war. This is especially true now that any war between world powers could result in a nuclear war, thus bringing about the destruction of the earth itself.

Congress was definitely correct in banning U.S. military aid to this cause. To begin with, we had no business spending over $26 million in Angola without Congressional approval. Then, too, if the U.S. was going to oppose the Soviet and Cuban-backed forces in Angola, why didn't it do it openly instead of trying to do it covertly? Is the U.S. afraid of Russia?

To top things off, it was learned that the United States was in the Angolan conflict as an ally of South Africa. We can only imagine how greatly this action offended the Black African leaders.

Just these few reasons are more than sufficient grounds for one to state that the United States had no business there to begin with. Hence, it was only proper that Congress ban further military aid in Angola.

The Struggle Isn't Over Yet

By Benjamin T. Forbes

When one considers the efforts and the frustrations that students who fought during the 1960 era of civil rights, one can see there is a lot to be thankful for. We as students of A&T especially have a right to be proud of the four students and others who risked their lives in an effort to bring about an end to the racial eating practices.

Even though we cannot continue to live in the past, we should occasionally look back on the contributions of our fellow Black sisters and brothers to gain inspiration and courage to fight on. However, it seems we have lost that fighting spirit. There seems to be an air of complacency on campus, and this feeling is the worst attitude that any of us should have at this time. We have no reason to be satisfied with the conditions we now live in.

Blacks now are constantly hearing about the Bicentennial and how America, "the home of the free and the brave" has survived these 200 years. Yet there are certain groups of people in this country who are not totally free. But we are satisfied. How can this be? Who would have any reason to celebrate while we are still in bondage (indirectly)?

We should rid ourselves of the attitude that we are satisfied and get back on the road of struggle. Those students who risked their lives in the '60's deserve more than a thank you from us. We must fight too. It is the only way to obtain total freedom.

Pay Killings In Angola

By Daryl E. Smith

The apparent rise of unemployment across this country has finally found its way into the conflict in Angola.

Roy Innis, director of CORE, is recruiting Black American veterans to fight in Angola. Across the Atlantic ocean in merry old England, a force of about 150 English mercenaries departed their native land to fight for $300 a day.

The organizers of mercenaries in this country and in England, have no regard for human life, only the realization of being paid for killing Africans.

The sad part about the Angolan situation is the monetary illusions that are being waved to Black American veterans.

Black Americans, especially Black veterans, have mixed emotions about the conflict and political revolution transpiring in Africa.

I feel that Roy Innis should be recruiting Black veterans to fight the gross injustices that exist within our own country, instead of siding with the forces that have exercised tremendous sufferings and untold atrocities.

Clark College President To Be Buried Saturday

ATLANTA AP—The body of Dr. Vivian Henderson, Clark College president and nationally recognized economist, will lie in state today at the school he headed the past decade.

Henderson, 52, who died Wednesday during heart surgery, is to be buried Saturday in Bristol, Tenn., after services in Atlanta.

President of Atlanta's predominantly Black Clark College since 1965, Henderson served on a number of commissions under President Lyndon Johnson, including the Commission on Rural Poverty, and prepared papers for the 1966 and 1967 White House conferences on civil rights.

He was on the board of directors of a number of organizations, including the Ford Foundation, and was president of the Southern Regional Council.

Henderson was a pioneer in studies of the labor market for Blacks in the 1950's, and his recent studies concentrated on race relations and higher education.

A native of Bristol, he was a graduate of North Carolina Central University in Durham and received his master's and doctorate degrees in economics from the University of Iowa.

He was professor and chairman of the Business Administration and Economics Department at Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn., before becoming the 18th president of Clark in 1965.

The Atlanta school is one of six making up the Atlanta University Center complex.

Known as a progressive liberal, Henderson began a program of expansion at Clark while chiding Atlanta and the state for lack of support.

He justified the role of Black colleges in a society seeking racial integration, saying, "We live in a pluralistic society...and each group has a right to exist according to its own self-determination, and Black colleges are an important avenue to that determination."

He is survived by his widow, the former Anna Powell, two daughters and two sons.

Magistrate Reschedules Hearing

RALEIGH AP—A petition asking that the so-called Wilmington 10 remain free on bond pending possible federal review of their convictions was scheduled for 11 a.m. today before U.S. Magistrate Logan D. Howell in Raleigh.

If that request is denied or not acted upon swiftly, the group must surrender to Pender County officials Monday at 10 a.m. to begin serving sentences ranging from 10 to 31 years. That order would be cancelled if bond is granted after Friday's hearing.

Also pending before Howell is a petition for habeas corpus which asks the federal courts to review the case on constitutional grounds. No hearing has not been scheduled on that petition, but Howell could decide on both petitions after Friday's bond hearing.

The group was convicted of burning a white-owned grocery store and conspiring to shoot at firemen who came to fight the flames during a period of racial unrest in Wilmington in 1971.

The unrest was over Wilmington's school integration and most of the 10 were in high school at the time.

The group has been free on bonds totaling about $400,000 while appealing the convictions. On Jan. 19, the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal and suggested the matter be taken to federal district court.

State Atty. Gen. Rufus L. Edmisten has been asked by Wilmington 10 supporters to not oppose bond for the group. An Edmisten spokesman said a decision hadn't been made on that request by late Wednesday because that office had not studied the petitions.

An estimated 500 persons attended a rally in Raleigh earlier this week to express support for the Wilmington 10. Before the rally, about 50 supporters met with Edmisten to ask that the state not oppose bond. A letter restating that position was sent to Edmisten Wednesday by the Rev. Leon White, director of the North Carolina-Virginia Commission for Racial Justice of the United Church of Christ.

In Wednesday's letter to Edmisten he said, "The incarceration of the Wilmington 10 will cause undue hardship and have a chilling effect on their individual family members. Coupled with this is the disruption it would cause in their educational pursuits."

Matthew King Announces A Refund To Students

By John Hunter

Are you aware of the $15 cut in this semester's tuition.

In an effort to find out why an interview was conducted with Matthew L. King, vice-chancellor for Fiscal Affairs. King manages all university business affairs and reports directly to the university chancellor, Dr. L.C. Dowdy.

In a written report prepared especially for The Register, King explained that the $15 per semester fee for the "Physical Education Building" fund was initiated in the Fall '75 tuition charges. It was to compensate for a projected $1 million escalation in building costs for the new gymnasium, now being constructed adjacent to Moore Gym.

The North Carolina General Assembly appropriated $3.4 million in 1971 for the gym construction costs. "However, when bids were opened on November 21, 1975, the total construction cost was less than the original appropriation," King stated and added that the $15 for the second semester would not be assessed.

According to King, all fall semester students' accounts will show a $15 credit this year. The new gym is scheduled for completion August 1977.

Students Should Return Books They Don't Use

Bookstore manager, James Meachem, asks that all students return books that they are not presently using.

Some students here at the university are going to classes without books because of the unconcern of our students not taking the time to return the books that they are not using. It has been cited by the manager that some companies have stopped printing some books that the university still uses in its curriculum program.

Hopefully that students who are guilty of keeping books will return these books and not deprive those who need them.

Land Will Stay Vacant For Future Buildings

By Anthony Motley

should be constructed.

At the closing of last semester many people were inquiring about the plans for the land across from Hodgkin Hall and Bluford Library. Gerard E. Gray, Physical Plant director, commented that the land will be utilized in campus development to accommodate future buildings and grounds.

Bruce E. Smith, a senior B.A. major from Whiteville, expressed his desire to see more parking areas and an entertainment center operated by the school in order to keep the money in the hands of A&T.

Various students were asked what they thought the land should be used for. Nadine Alston, a senior early childhood major from High Point, said, that a shopping center should be built.

Anthony Wilkinson, a senior social studies major from Hartsville, S.C., exclaimed that a shopping center for students should be built.

Sandra Dunn, a soph. psychology major from Ayden, explained that department stores should be built in order for students to get some food and articles cheaper than the Union and the bookstore. She wished that it could be mainly for A&T students.

Brenda Gatling, a senior, social studies major from Jackson, commented that more parking lot and a coed dormitory

Law Officials Raid Warehouses

A task force of local, state, and federal lawmen Thursday morning raided warehouses in Greensboro and High Point in an attempt to smash an eight-track tape counterfitting and distributing ring.

After the raid, officials said they believe the ring had been smashed. It had distributed the bootlegged tapes to North and South Carolina, officers said.

More than 12 persons were detained for questioning by officers after the 9:45a.m. raids in the two cities.

Greensboro police Capt. Phil Colvard said "thousands of finished tapes, cartridges, raw materials and trucks" were confiscated in the raid.

He said three men detained by officers are allegedly the principal backers of the tape pirating operation.

None of those arrested were immediately identified by police.

After questioning, some of those detained in the raid will probably be charged with violation of federal copyright laws and also possibly with income tax evasion, officials said.

The raids were staged by police from Greensboro, High Point and Durham along with officers from the State Bureau of Investigation, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and an investigator for the Recording Industry of America.

The ring allegedly sold the bootlegged tapes in the High Point, Durham, and Greensboro areas, for about half the price of legitimate tapes produced under copyright laws.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

This week Jim Howell resigned as an official in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Howell cited his reasons for calling it quits after 13 years, as being under too much pressure and the extensive traveling schedule.

But there is more to Howell's decision than meets the eye. The constant abuse, heckling, and even sometimes physical threats might have reached a breaking point with Howell.

Howell stated that he simply got tired of all the hassle and didn't like what he was doing anymore. Because of that, the 35 year old Black official called it quits.

It is sad to see a man who has been called one of the best in officiating circles by coaches, writers, and peers driven from his profession. It is sad indeed.

Last week A&T ran into Winston-Salem State and received its second loss of the season.

Coach Warren Reynolds called it the worst officiated game he's been associated with.

Some Aggie fans screamed "home job" when questioned about their opinions on officiating, and some Rams agreed.

A&T was given six free throws while Winston went to the line 16 times. It's hard to believe that, in a game as hotly contested as an A&T- Winston-Salem game, that Winston committed only 16 fouls compared to over 25 for A&T. Those screams may get a little louder before the end of the season.

A&T finds itself on the top of the pile in the MEAC for the second straight year at midseason. Riding a 5-0 mark before going on the Delaware- Maryland road trip, a high national ranking would not seem to be important.

But, just as in anything else, post season playoff committees are beginning to look at Black colleges very closely. The Mutual Black Network and Jet Magazine polls are playing a key role in selections.

It can be presumed that only two Black colleges are being mentioned at present for post season play. Alcorn A&M, with a 19-0 record, is the first pick; but A&T may just be the bigger crowd pleaser. We'll find out as the season goes along.

At halftime, at the game, there was a show. These cute little fellows from Wiston-Salem put on a show that blew the Aggies' minds. photo by Sims

Aggies Win Two This Week

By Craig Turner

The Aggies made it five in a row this week as they came away with two convincing wins over both Bennett College and Barber-Scotia in Moore Gym.

Monday night A&T blasted its arch rival Bennett by a convincing 85-53 mark. It marked the second win by A&T over the Belles this season and kept alive the unbeaten string against Bennett by A&T.

The game was marked by strong pressing defenses and some rather physical board play. A&T forged an early ten-point lead on the outside shooting of Ivy Moody.

However, Bennett refused to fold as they fought back to a 31-31 tie by halftime on some surprising inside play.

A&T adjusted in the second half and opened with numerous buckets off a well-drilled fast break.

It was that reserve guard Sheron Foster who blasted Bennett inside as Moody continued her torrid shooting pace to up the lead by 20 points with over four minutes to go.

Moody led all scorers with 30 points and Foster followed with 15.

The Aggies duplicated their feat the next evening by blowing Barber-Scotia out, 86-30. The game was never in doubt as A&T opened a huge lead that would never be challenged after the first half.

Once again it was A&T's pressing defense and running attack that did the most damage.

Sheron Foster led the Aggies with 16 points as Ivy

Moody, Sylvia Deloatch, Gayla Kelly, Robin Williams, and Eva Patterson each connected for ten.

The next scheduled game for A&T is Friday night in Moore Gym against Shaw University. Game time is set for 7 p.m.

250 Persons Come Out To Salute Champions

By Craig Turner

Approximately 250 persons were present at the Holiday Inn-Four Seasons Tuesday night as the "Salute to the Champions" Banquet was held in honor of the A&T football team.

The dinner, honoring the 1975 MEAC co-champions, was emceed by WFMV-TV sports director Woody Durham.

Speaking on this special occasion was assistant Big Ten conference commissioner Dr. James Henry.

Henry, a former footballer at Philander Smith College, head football coach, and athletic director spoke under the theme of "The Spirit of 76; Is it the spirit we use in athletics?"

He expressed the elements of pride, honesty, sincerity, respect, and team play as some of the tools that ought to be used in the athletic circles.

"Athletics is education. Poise is being at ease with oneself in any situation, and intentness is the ability to resist and to stay on your goal," explained Henry.

Following Henry's address, head football coach Hornsby Howell presented individual awards to members of the championship squad.

The honorees were Russell Woodard, best defensive back; James Merrick, defensive lineman; Ron Aiken, offensive lineman; and George Ragsdale, best offensive back.

Ragsdale was named the most valuable player. Both tightend Walter Bennett and Ragsdale were recognized for their being named to All-America squads throughout the nation.

Aggies Can Get Special Tickets

A&T State University students are being reminded by Athletic Director Cal Irvin to take advantage of a special student ticket sale for the MEAC Tournament to be held in the Greensboro Coliseum Feb. 26-28.

Irvin said that beginning Thursday, Feb. 5, A&T will put on sale 1,000 student tickets for the Thursday afternoon and evening sessions for students with I.D. cards for $1.00 for each session. The tickets will be sold by Latham Wallace in Campbell Hall.

These tickets will entitle the student to a reserved seat in the lower arena of the coliseum. In order to take advantage of the discount, students must purchase their tickets at A&T.

Irvin said that tickets for the Friday and Saturday sessions of the tournament will not be discounted. Season books may be purchased from Wallace for $18.00 each.

The MEAC Tournament Committee also announced this week that the format for the tournament will be a 3:30 p.m. game on Thursday, a 7 p.m. game Thursday night, and 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. games on Friday and Saturday nights.

A special feature of the tournament this year will be the appearance of the seven member colleges' outstanding pep bands. A&T's Average Black Band, which has drawn plaudits wherever it has appeared, will play throughout the tournament.

The MEAC Tournament is moving to Greensboro after being held for two years in Durham and two in Baltimore.

The Aggies have won the tournament three of the four previous years.

Virus Epidemic Forces UMES To End Classes

PRINCE ANNE, Md. AP-

Officials at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore said Thursday they were canceling classes through the end of the week because of an outbreak of virus affecting more than 10 per cent of the student body.

Herb F. Olsen, director of university relations, said around 150 of the school's 1,100 students had contracted the illness. The type of virus was not known but it's expected to last no longer than 2-3 days, he said.

The action forced postponement of the home basketball game against North Carolina Central scheduled for Friday night.

A Saturday night game here pitting UMES against North Carolina A&T will go on as scheduled, Olsen said.

Sparrow Receives MEAC Honor

James Sparrow, a 6-6 sophomore guard from Brooklyn, N.Y., has been named the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference player of the week by the sports information directors of the conference.

The Aggie star scored 43 points, grabbed twelve rebounds, and handed out 16 assists last week against Winston-Salem

State and South Carolina State.

Sparrow is presently averaging 23.4 points, seven rebounds, and eight assists per contest for the Aggies.

Sedley Roach designs instrument systems to cut pollution, and save energy.

Sedley is 23 years old. She holds a BSEE from Southern University in Baton Rouge and has been a Du Pont Engineer for just over a year.

Right now Sedley is part of a team designing instrumentation for process control in a new distillation column to be added to an existing organic chemical plant. The modification will reduce aqueous waste pollution without increasing energy consumption. It's all part of Du Pont's plan to spend $2.5-billion in capital improvements to make the future more productive, more efficient, safer and cleaner for everyone.

Sedley's contribution is not unique. Du Pont has a reputation of getting young engineers into the mainstream quickly.

If you'd like to work for a company where contributions really count, and where you're much more than just another number on a computer printout, do what Sedley did.
