"COMPLETE AWARENESS FOR COMPLETE COMMITMENT"

VOLUME XLVIII NUMBER 2 NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY, GREENSBORO August 31, 1976

Albert Smith Replaces Colston

Dr. Albert E. Smith, 42, athletic director at Eastern Michigan University, will resign that position to become acting vice chancellor for university relations at A&T State University.

Smith, who has been at Eastern Michigan since April of 1975, will join the A&T staff on October 1. He will succeed Marshall H. Colston, who resigned recently to become a vice president of the Moton Institute in Philadelphia.

An A&T graduate, Smith served as athletic director at A&T from 1969-1971.

Smith's appointment was announced by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor.

"I am pleased that Dr. Smith is returning to assume this important position at A&T," said Dowdy. "I have confidence in his ability and I know he will make a contribution to our program here."

When Smith went to Eastern Michigan, he was only the second Black in the nation to head the athletic program at a major predominately white university. Prior to that he served as assistant athletic director at the University of Pittsburgh

A native of Chicago, Smith holds the master's degree in recreation administration from George Williams College, and the Ed. D. degree in higher education from the University of Pittsburgh

At A&T, Smith was a star baseball player who was later signed by the St. Louis Cardinals. He also served as an officer in the U.S. Army Medical Corps.

Smith formerly worked in the YMCA program in Chicago and taught at Knoxville College in Tennessee.

He is married to the former Sadie Burris of Aiken, S.C. The Smiths have three children.

"Aggie Day" Canceled Lack of Transportation

By Craig R. Turner

"It was the most disgusting thing I've ever witnessed. It really makes me wonder just where A&T really wants to go."

Those were the words of an angry Joseph Faust, A&T's sports information director, last Saturday at Friendly Shopping Center.

The comments came just after Faust announced to the numerous onlookers at the shopping center that the second annual "Aggie Day" promotion had been canceled.

This reporter was on hand at the scheduled event as Faust reluctantly told the anticipating crowd that "technical difficulties" made it simply impossible to hold the festive event.

Faust later explained the circumstances surrounding the cancellation.

Arrangements had been made some days in advance with the physical plant more specifically buildings and grounds, about transportation for the marching band, ROTC drill team, and the football team to Friendly.

Those in charge of the two A&T buses that were to be used in the operation failed to show up at the points of pick-up Saturday morning.

Faust said he arrived at the shopping complex at approximately 11 a.m., but found none of the participants present. After making numerous telephone calls to find out why the band and the rest of the A&T aggregation had not appeared by that time, Faust asked for a delay of a few minutes.

Shopping center officials surveyed the situation shortly before the announced starting time of 1 p.m.

Only a fourth of the band and football team were to be found. They had driven to the center by car and stated that the rest of the party was still waiting outside of Brown Hall.

Faust and Athletic Director Cal Irvin met with shopping center officials Dick Woodward and Ms. Nancy Kester. After a limited discussion all parties involved decided to scratch the affair completely.

After Faust made the announcement at 1:30 p.m., a bus containing the band pulled into the march area some five to ten minutes afterwards.

However, by that time the decision had been made and many disappointed spectators, and an outraged band contingent left promptly.

"I don't know what to say. There really isn't anything I can say. We just blew it," Faust said shortly afterwards.

Cal Irvin was more exact in his comments. "How in this world could someone completely destroy the biggest single promotion we have for our athletic program?"

"The hundreds of dollars of promotion, and the press coverage we arranged was all for nothing just because some one wouldn't get up and drive a bus," retorted Irvin.

Dick Moore, chief of information services, was willing to pin-point what went wrong. "Everyone did their job today except the persons responsible in transportation. They always seem to have to have someone come tell them point blank."

"They knew what was going on yet refused to do what was already arranged for," he said.

Irvin stated the strong letters of reprimand would be sent from his office and it was an embarrassing situation that the university would take a long time to live down.

Faust gave some insight into the repercussions of Saturday's disaster. "It's really embarrassing. It gives those whites who take pleasure in seeing something like this happen a real shot in the arm."

"All it would have taken was maybe $15-$20 to rent some city buses to pick the kids up and they (physical plant officials) wouldn't do that," he said bitterly.

Laundry Services Make Changes

By Benjamin T. Forbes

Changes have been made in the linen service here that will eliminate the need for students to come to the laundry for linen.

Albert Crawford, supervisor of the university laundry service, said the reason behind the changes were "to see that students get the proper amount of linen." He added that it would also make it more convenient for the students since linen would be available in the dormitories.

With the changes, dorm residents will be able to receive linen service between the hours of 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

There will be no additional charges to students for this service; but Crawford was quick to point out that, if the students fail to return the laundry at the end of the year, they will be charged. It had been rumored that students would be charged $6.00 for having their linen cleaned.

Another change which has taken place in the laundry services is that there will be no cleaning of student laundry at the present facility. Crawford said that contract arrangements have been made with Cleaner World Inc., which will be responsible for all cleaning services.

Crawford said these changes will enable him to reduce his working staff, citing economic conditions as another reason for the changes. Some members of the staff have already retired or transferred.

The changes will go into effect immediately. Laundry schedules and rates will be posted around campus indicating the changes.

New PhD's Receive New Titles

Dr. Reginald Mitchiner and Dr. Winsor Alexander, two of the first three A&T State University graduates to earn the Ph.D. degree in engineering, are among 13 persons named to administrative positions at the university.

Mitchiner has been named chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering; and Alexander has been named acting chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

Other administrative appointments announced by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor, for the 1976-77 academic year are Dr. Suresh Chandra, dean of the School of Engineering; Dr.

William DeLauder, chairman of the Department of Chemistry; Dr. Frances Logan, acting chairman of the Department of Sociology and Social Services; Dr. Danny Pogue, assistant to the dean of the School of Business and Economics; Dr. Alice Kidder, director of the Transportation Institute; James Phillis Jeter, director of television; Angus Small, director of the Computer Science Center; Edwin Bell, director of Planning; Dr. Arun P. Dewasthali, director of research administration; and Blannie Bowen, assistant director of institutional research.

Alexander, a 1964 A&T graduate, holds the M.S. degree and the Ph.D. degrees in electrical engineering from the University of New Mexico.

He was formerly employed at the Sandia Laboratories.

Mitchiner, a 1967 A&T graduate, holds the M.S. degree from the University of Illinois and the Ph.D. degree in mechanical engineering from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

He has taught at VPI and at the University of Illinois and has been employed by International Business Machines Corporation in the Research Park and the General Motors Technical Center and the Cabot Corporation. He also has a number of professional publications.

Former Student Becomes Instructor

By Daryl E. Smith

Gwenella L. Quick, 25 and a 1972 graduate of A&T, has been appointed instructor in the School of Nursing.

Mrs. Quick feels that the School of Nursing is not inferior to any other nursing school. "I feel that the students that complete their training here can stand up with anybody and be just as qualified in their chosen fields."

Mrs. Quick also believes that the faculty tries to make changes in the policies and events that shape the daily routine of the students.

"I would like to motivate the students to a higher grade level," she said.

"The basics that the students receive here will qualify them on a professional level and they should be able to compete with any other nurse in the USA."

Mrs. Quick received her masters in nursing education with a focus in community health nursing in the fall of 1974 from Catholic University, in Washington, D.C.

For the new students that may be planning on a career in nursing, Mrs. Quick said, "The sky is the limit as for what the students want to do in the nursing field."

"There are several avenues wherein the professional nurse can provide health services to man, whether it is in the area of preventive health care—chronic or acute."

Architectural barriers are being removed.

Dr. James A. Colston To Join A&T Staff

Dr. James A. Colston, who has served as president of four colleges across the nation, has joined the staff of A&T State University as visiting professor of post-secondary education.

Colston, whose recent assignment has been as president of the Bronx Community College in New York City, will retire from that position on September 1.

He was the first Black president of a college in the state of New York.

Colston also formerly served as president of Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Georgia State College, Savannah, Ga.; and Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tennessee.

In announcing Colston's appointment, Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor said:

"We are extremely fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Colston, who distinguished himself as one of the nation's outstanding educators. Under his direction, the Bronx Community College grew by leaps and bounds, and his expertise in the community college movement is most impressive."

Dowdy said while at A&T, Colston will teach courses in post-secondary education, including junior colleges and technical institutes. He will be available as a consultant and also assist the university in developing a program in the area.

During his administration, the Bronx Community College's enrollment increased from 7,000 to more than 13,000 students.

He also presided over the college's move to a new 50-acre campus.

Colston holds honorary degrees from five colleges and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

More Soweto Blacks Die In South African Riots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Police gunfire killed two Blacks in the Soweto township yesterday, and the police reported finding the bodies of four more Blacks killed during the weekend.

This brought to 41 the total number of confirmed Black dead in rioting and warfare since last Monday between Zulu contract laborers and permanent Black residents of the huge segregated ghetto south of Johannesburg.

At least 293 persons, all but three of them Blacks, have been killed in racial violence in South Africa since mid-June.

A police spokesman said the police opened fire early today on "common criminal elements" who were stoning residents and police in two Soweto districts.

"The police fired in self-defense and two Blacks were killed," said Asst. Police Commissioner D.J. Kriel.

Kriel said two bodies were found in the Mzimhlophe Hostel for temporary dwellers, the scene of the worst fighting last week. He said both men had been bludgeoned to death.

He said two other bodies were found near the Mzimhlophe railway line. These men had been killed by machetes, and an attempt had been made to burn the bodies, he reported. Otherwise, the situation in the township was normal, Kriel said.

"The buses are running and people are going to work," he said.

The World, a Black newspaper, reported that three Blacks believed to be Zulu tribesmen were hacked to death late Sunday in a renewal of fighting between permanent Black residents of Soweto and Zulu contract laborers from the Mzimhlophe Hostel.

The newspaper said the Zulus apparently attacked other Blacks, who fought back.

Police Minister James T. Kruger said charges that the police encouraged the Zulus and others in the hostels to attack other Blacks were "incredible."

The charges against the police were made by Chief Gatsha Buthelezi, leader of the nation's 4 million Zulus, following a weekend meeting with Zulus and others living in Mzimhlophe, and by reporters from the Rand Daily Mail, a leading antigovernment white newspaper.

Free Receives Numerous Awards

Major Lazelle Free, a graduate of West Virginia State College, has been assigned the position of assistant professor of Military Science for the Army ROTC in Campbell Hall.

Major Free has been awarded two bronze star medals for meritorious service, the Army commendation medal, the purple heart, the Vietnamese service medal, the armed forces reserve medal, the armed forces expeditionary medal and the Vietnamese campaign ribbon.

Free attended the Army armor officers basic course in January 1962, and served as a tank platoon leader in the eighth medium tank battalion, 34th Armor Troops Brigade.

Major Free has had a number of interesting assignments including serving as an advisor to the Vietnamese Army, chief of recruiting for the A&I division, second ROTC unit in Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

Major Free was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Army Reserve in May 1961 through the Army ROTC program at West Virginia State College.

N. C. State Is Offering Program

The intricate workings of the General Assembly will be the focus of a twenty-week internship designed for upperclassmen in social sciences from colleges in North Carolina. Ten students will be selected for internships this year in the program sponsored by the N.C. General Assembly and the Department of Politics at North Carolina State University.

"The internship is unequalled as an educational experience and the legislators continually point to this program as a very valuable source of staff and research assistance," Williams says.

The interns will work as staff assistants and researchers for officers and members of the 1977 General Assembly while pursuing a parallel course of study at North Carolina State University.

Upperclassmen from any four-year college in the state are eligible and should send inquiries to Dr. Oliver Williams, Department of Politics at NCSU.

They will work a minimum of 25 hours a week at the General Assembly and will take two courses on the legislative process and state government. They also will participate in weekly seminars. For their work, they will receive 12 hours of academic credit and $1,000.

The deadline for applying for one of the internships is October 25. Interested students should send an application form, an official transcript and three letters of reference to Dr.

Williams at NCSU.

The appointments will be made by a committee composed of the speaker of the house, the lieutenant governor and the head of the Department of Politics at NCSU, along with two other professors from other colleges in

New Assistant Librarian

Wants To Contribute To A&T

By Carlese Blackwell

Miss Moonok Kim has been selected as the new assistant librarian in Bluford Library. Miss Kim, who is originally from Korea, has been living in Buffalo, New York and has been a citizen of this country for the past thirteen years.

Miss Kim is a graduate of Emory University in Georgia. There she earned a master's degree in Library Science.

Although Miss Kim has been at A&T for only four weeks, she states that the work here seems to very challenging.

When asked what she could foresee in her future here at A&T, the young librarian replied, "I hope that I can not only do my job here, but hopefully I may also be able to make a contribution to A&T."

IMPORTANT STUDY ABROAD ANNOUNCEMENT: Limited openings still remain on CGS accredited Academic Year 1976-77 Programs for Fall, Winter, Spring, or Full Year for qualified applicants. Students in good standing—Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, Senior Year are eligible. Good Faculty references, evidence of self-motivation and sincere interest in study abroad and international cultural exchange count more with CFS than specific grade point. There's A Better Way

Why is a simple process of registration such a difficult one here? This is a question that many of us have asked ourselves; some for the first time and others, countless numbers of times. A&T's system of registering its students is not the worst; but it is a far cry from being the best and most efficient.

Year after year, we find ourselves caught in the same hassles. Certainly there must be a better way of conducting this business. During last week's tedious ordeal one student told this writer of a university in Wisconsin that registers all of its students in two days. Student enrollment there exceeds 30,000. In another example, this writer was told that our cross town neighbor, UNC-G, registers its students in a similar manner.

Not only is the system here filled with hassles, so are some of the people that work during registration. While trying to pick up a packet for registration, this writer approached one of the so-called "helpers" there to ask where the packets were located. Immediately I was told they were not in the building. Sitting not 30 feet away were the packets in the same room (in plain view) where this writer was being lied to.

There has to be a way to solve this bi-annual turmoil, and I, for one, would be more than willing to search for that better way.

'Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you may not qualify.'

Will There Be Better Food?

By Maxine McNeill

In the August 27 issue of the A&T Register, the student body was informed of the resignation of Lawrence C. Munson, the former Food Service Director. Munson resigned from A&T to accept a position at Albany State College in Albany, Ga.

While I wish Munson all the luck in the world, I am not totally sympathetic about his departure.

In my past two years of eating in the cafeteria, I can count on one hand the number of decent meals I've eaten in there. This may or may not have been Munson's fault, but the attitude he displayed toward the students was enough to make me wonder.

My only concern about the cafeteria now is who will replace Munson?

I hope the person who replaces him will be sincere about the job. I also hope that he or she has a better batting average with the meals than Munson had.

Maybe the students who eat on campus this year will have at least one edible meal to look forward to each day.

Inmates Are Awaiting Decision

By Daryl E. Smith

On July 2 the United States Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty in North Carolina but upheld the death sentence in Georgia, Florida, and Texas.

A rehearing has been asked for in a petition questioning the July 2 decision. Unless the rehearing is granted, then legal executions will be resumed in this country.

The distinction between laws permitting or mandating death sentences and the actual execution of human beings is a vast difference.

In the Supreme Court arguments, it was brought out that, since 1972, more than 30 states and Congress had acted to restore death sentences to constitutional standings. It was some of these standings that the Supreme Court upheld on July 2.

The Solicitor General of the United States, Robert H. Bork, argued that these legislative actions demonstrated popular opinion.

Opinion polls that showed heavy support for the death penalty were utilized by Bork.

The Solicitor General told the court that the California Supreme Court outlawed capital punishment under the state's constitution, and that Californians voted a constitutional amendment to restore it.

There is far more evidence that public opinion has come to abhor the idea of legal executions.

Executions have been on a steadily declining rate since the 1930's. The last execution happened in Colorado in 1967, and there have been only three in the last 13 years.

In 1963, 21 persons were legally executed in the United States; in 1960, executions had totaled 56.

In 1935, 199 Americans were officially put to death in that year alone for various crimes.

A decline from 199 executions in 1935 to one execution in 1967, to none since, has a distinct flavor of public resentment towards the death penalty.

The last tabulation showed that Blacks and poor minorities make up the inmate population that currently is on death rows across the country.

Out of 610 inmates on death row, 310 are Black and 56.35 are nonwhite, as of July 2 of this year.

The inmate death row population in Central Prison in Raleigh, may breathe a sigh of relief; but those placed on Georgia, Florida and Texas death rows, will be anxiously awaiting the Supreme Court's decision on the petition filed for a rehearing on the death penalty.

Library Installs Security System

By Carlese Blackwell

In an effort to reduce the number of book losses, the library has completed two of the three components that will comprise the physical aspects of the security system. The rear door of the library has been secured so that only emergency and authorized traffic will use that passageway.

Also, turnstiles were placed in the library during July in order to control as well as count patron entrances and exits. The third phase of the book security system will be the installation of a magnetic tape detection system which will complement the turnstile arrangement.

Mrs. Tommie Young, library services director, stated that these advancements for security have been in request since 1960. However, until now, A&T was not financially able to install them.

In estimating the number of books taken from Bluford Library, Mrs. Young said at least 75,000 books have been lost in the past ten years

State Sen. Ralph Scott Pledges Support For Lee

RALEIGH (AP)—State Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, says he will vote for Howard Lee in the Sept. 14 runoff vote for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

In a telephone interview from his Haw River home, Scott said he felt Lee's experience as mayor of Chapel Hill and his feeling for people on the lower half of the economic ladder would help make him a good lieutenant governor.

In addition, Scott said he preferred Lee over House Speaker Jimmy Green because he felt that Lee would cooperate better with Democratic gubernatorial nominee Jim Hunt in steering Hunt's programs through the General Assembly—assuming both Hunt and Lee are winners in the November general election.

Scott, 11-term legislative veteran, supported Rep. John Jordan, D-Alamance, for lieutenant governor in the first primary. Jordan, who finished third in a field of eight candidates, has endorsed Green for the nomination.

Pointing to Jordan's admission this week that he extracted a pledge of future political support from Green before making the endorsement, Scott said, "It looks like to me he (Jordan) sold his vote to the highest bidder."

Jordan said he had sought a similar promise from Lee but failed to get it.

Scott expressed doubt as to Green's inclination to cooperate with Hunt since the two sometimes clashed in the General Assembly when Green was presiding over the House and Hunt, as lieutenant governor, presided over the Senate.

Scott did not indicate he planned to campaign actively for Lee in the days leading to the runoff election. He said his first political priority, is helping Jessie Rae Scott, his niece, in her runoff campaign for the Democratic nomination for labor commissioner.

A&T English Instructor Wants New Techniques

By Lynelle Stevenson

One of the newest additions to the long list of Ph.D's on A&T's campus is Sandra Carlton Alexander, an instructor in the Department of English.

Dr. Alexander received her degree on August 20, from the University of Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh, Pa., after six years of studying between her masters and her doctorate. However, all of the time wasn't spent working on her studies. Dr. Alexander is the wife of Rondal Alexander who is a city planner for Greensboro, and mother of two year old Tanya.

Dr. Alexander stated, "I wanted my family and I also wanted my degree. I think I went about it the right way although it took a little longer."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Galloway Carlton in Warsaw, Dr. Alexander left there in 1965 to attend A&T State University.

After receiving her degree in 1969 and a fellowship from the Danforth Foundation, Dr. Alexander obtained her masters in English at Harvard in 1970.

In addition to taking care of her family and studying, Dr. Alexander was and still is teaching. Her first teaching job was at Allegheny Community College in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1972. In 1973 she taught at Coppin State College in Baltimore, Maryland.

The title of Dr. Alexander's dissertation is "The Achievement of Arna Bontemps," the late Black, poet, short story writer and novelist. Dr. Alexander said the work is a literary biography which includes a history of his life and a criticism of his major works.

In 1974, Dr. Alexander published an article entitled, "The Black English Teacher in a Quandary"; and, in 1975, she delivered a paper at the Institute for Minority Studies Conference located at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. The paper was entitled "The Scapegoat Archetype in Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man."

Dr. Alexander plans to eventually do post doctoral studies in education. "I'd like to develop innovative teaching techniques that will keep students alert in the classroom," she commented.

INTRODUCTION TO ASTRONOMY TO SATISFY THE UNIVERSITY REQUIREMENTS.

The past decade has witnessed an unprecedented growth in Astronomy which was brought about by the many new developments in the sciences and by space exploration. The marked increase in the enrollment of INTRODUCTION TO ASTRONOMY course by non-science students, indicates how deeply Astronomy has captured the popular imagination.

The course INTRODUCTION TO ASTRONOMY is an attempt to provide the foundation that will allow the student to intelligently appreciate the events occurring in space and to do so with a minimum of mathematics.

The University Senate has approved INTRODUCTION TO ASTRONOMY, Physics 101, as one of the courses that can be taken to satisfy the core requirements of the University in the area of natural science. The course is open without prerequisite to all students enrolled in the University and it carries three (3) credit hours.

Bynum States Views On Games

By Joe Faust

Like the hundreds of athletes and team associates who did not get the opportunity to display their talents in Montreal, Tom Bynum was also frustrated.

Bynum, who is the head trainer at A&T and who has traveled extensively with American international track and field teams, was in Europe when the word came that the Junior AAU team would not be able to compete in Canada this year.

The reason the AAU team could not compete was due to an airline strike and not because of any country's political affiliation.

"We had an exceptional group of athletes together and everyone was looking forward to going to Montreal," said Bynum, who last year toured Red China with a United States international team.

"We were in Helsinki, Finland, competing against the Russians, West Germans and Canadians when we got the news. It is really tough on athletes like Mike Kee who while we were in Tallin, Russia, ran a 10 flat 100 meter and Cyril Watts, the only high school athlete to beat Houston McTear in the 100 meter run," stated Bynum.

"These athletes worked so hard and were so keyed up about participating. It's a shame to see all their work and dedication wasted," said Bynum.

In a recent national television interview, Lee Evans, former United States, Gold Medal winner and now coach of the Nigerian team, said that, if nationalism were abolished, the games would be smoother.

Bynum disagreed and stated that nationalism is a very prevalent part of the Olympics as well as other international games.

"In all of the international competitions I have participated, each one had some degree of nationalism whether it was the raising of the flag or the playing of a national anthem," Bynum said.

"The nationalism is played down at some of the games, but at the Olympics with all the pomp and fanfare it is just a showcase and certain things just have to be kept in the ceremony."

American sprinters have usually dominated the sprint events in international competition and Bynum believes the trend will continue.

However, he feels the Europeans will have the edge in the field events.

"Every now and then America will come up with someone who will excel in the field events but the Europeans take the field events very seriously and are far superior to us overall in that area," Bynum said.

Arthur Hood and his daughter await "Aggie Day."

MEAC-CIAA Meet In December

DURHAM (AP)—The first Bicentennial Bowl, matching the champions of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) and the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA) will be held in Charlotte Dec. 4, officials of the two leagues announced Sunday.

Bob Moorman, CIAA commissioner, and Dr. James

Younge, commissioner of the MEAC, discussed details of the bowl game during a meeting in Durham of the two predominantly Black conferences. They said plans are for the bowl to be an annual event.

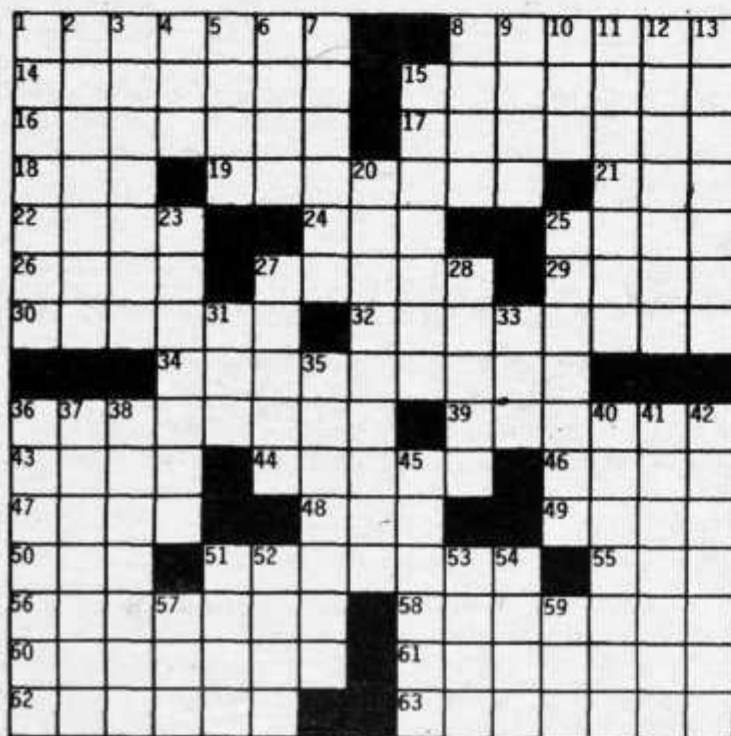

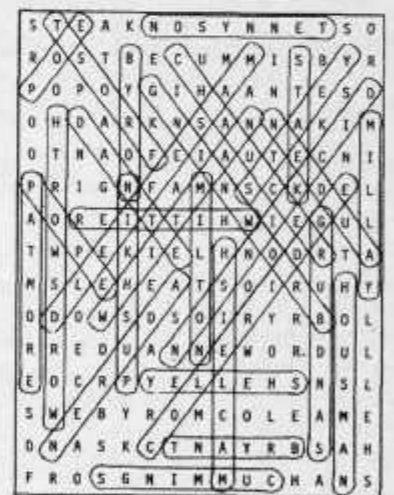

Younge said the game, scheduled for 7 p.m., Dec. 4, will be held in the 27,000-seat

Memorial Stadium. He said tickets for the game will go on sale at member colleges October 15.

The game will be the first football playoff between the two conferences since seven members of the MEAC quit the CIAA to form their own conference. The game has been sanctioned by the NCAA.

Can you find the hidden colleges?

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

After watching six practice sessions of this year's A&T football team I must say I was impressed. Remembering back to last season when uncertainty was prevalent around a great number of areas, this 1976 edition of the Aggies has very few weaknesses.

It is not often that any athletic team at A&T goes into a competitive schedule without some major concern but this is a definite exception.

This is a veteran team yet it is composed of mostly juniors and sophomores. It is a team that has what many people consider that intangible ingredient that it takes to win a football game or any other contest for that matter. There is a quest for excellence.

The pride of this team is so great that it is hard for me to visualize its being outplayed by any team it will face this season. They are a unit with deep comradery and that would rival ancient Sparta.

Make no mistake about it. This A&T football team may just be the best that many Aggie fans will ever see. For my money I wouldn't bet on too many upsets this year. They are capable of reaching that mythical perfect season. In summation, they can be as good as they want to be.

Last Saturday was designated as "Aggie Day" at Friendly Shopping Center. It didn't come off as expected. As a matter of fact it didn't come off at all. Why? The marching band was supposed to have performed at 1 p.m., that afternoon. Buses were to be the mode of transportation for the band. That was the responsibility of the physical plant and more specifically that of buildings and grounds, according to Athletic Director Cal Irvin.

Well, 1 p.m. came and left and no band appeared. That's not exactly right. It did appear some 45 minutes past the original starting time. But by then the shopping center officials felt that they would lose out if the delays continued and decided to scratch the entire affair.

Hundreds of wasted dollars of advertising, the offices of the information services and the athletic department, football players and those who were going to pitch in and help make it a success were, saying the least, left holding the bag.

It is amazing to me. How in the world could the people in charge of transporting the band manage not to make an appearance at all and embarrass an entire university?

I wouldn't want to speculate on what repercussions will insure following this lunacy but I will say that the cracks directed at the A&T way of organizing a large event of this nature are not without basis. "We" still are messy.

Morgan Says Team Has Unity

By Archie B. Bass

With all hints leaning toward the Aggie gridgers to capture the MEAC title this year, Ron Morgan, a defensive standout will be playing a key role.

Morgan is a senior defensive tackle at 6-2, 250 pounds.

Asked to compare this year's squad with last season's squad, Morgan said, "Overall this year the guys are more mature, a lot stronger, and we have more unity." Morgan also noted that there are ten defensive returnees, of which eight will be starters.

The Louisburg native commented on his role as team captain as a leadership role mainly having the responsibility of relating between the coaches and players.

Morgan, during the 1975 gridiron season, received honors as all MEAC candidate. The defensive standout confidently said, "We are definitely going to capture the MEAC title this year because we are working hard together."

Morgan suggested that S.C.

State and N.C. Central may cause minor problems for the Aggie gridgers. "Grambling will be no problem this year because we are playing them on neutral grounds with neutral officials," said Morgan.

Asked about the seasonal opener with Virginia Union, Morgan replied, "They are strong physically, so we can't take them lightly; we will just have to play the game play-by-play and put in a solid defensive game."

Howell Looks For Strong Offense

By Craig R. Turner

Head Coach Hornsby Howell has long been an advocate of strong, if not stingy, defensive play when it comes to one of his gridiron parables. After winning the Mid-Eastern Athletic championship, or at least taking a share of the crown with powerful South Carolina State a year ago, the Aggies have seemingly switched their emphasis to a more high powered, high scoring offensive unit with a "big play" defense.

With 17 starters returning and a long list of those who saw action last year, A&T is considered to be one of the strongest teams around in gaining national rankings. It is a team on paper that has eight regulars returning offensively and nine defensively. Add to that the youngest coaching staff in the conference and the blend for experience and youth seems evident—on paper.

Some of the people that will have the job of moving the football are not question marks in any respect. All-MEAC quarterback Elsworth Turner (6-1, 185) passed for 11 touchdowns and 1349 yards as a sophomore. Turner will utilize the pass catching talent of two-time All-MEAC splintered Dexter Feaster. At 6-3, 190, Feaster carries an impressive 4.5 sprinter's time over 40 yards. He hauled in 30 receptions a year ago for 343 yards.

Fullback Ron Scott (6-3, 210) is a superb blocker and adept pass receiver. Larry Barham (5-10, 210) is a tough inside runner during short yardage situations. Tailback will be (See Three, Page 8)

Bowling League's Season Will Show Improvement

The Adult Bowling League is in the process of taking applications for team participation.

This will be the league's second full season of competition and, according to league organizers, Arthur Lawrence and Burrell Jones, the upcoming season will show a marked improvement.

Under the current league rules eight teams, consisting of four members (two males and two females), will be eligible to participate. To be eligible to participate, candidates must be at least 18 years of age and members of the student body, faculty, or staff at A&T.

Trophies for team and individual accomplishments will be awarded at the completion of the season.

For further information contact Arthur Lawrence or Burrell Jones at the F.A. Williams Cafeteria.

Three Are Vying For Back Spot

missing All-America George Ragsdale, but three able youngsters will be vying for the spot this fall.

Glen Holland was the second leading rusher for the Aggies last season and incredibly did not lose a single yard in the process. Frank Scott reportedly is the most naturally talented of the tailback candidates. At 6-2, 205 he is far stronger and faster than the now departed Ragsdale. The third entry will be Calvin Hawkins (6-1, 180) who turns a 9.5 time in the one hundred yard dash. His forte is durability.

The offensive line remained, relatively unchanged although the overall size has improved over the summer months. Veteran guard Ron Aiken (6-1, 230) was a second team selection on the MEAC club. Tackles Wheeler Brown (6-2, 240) and George Small (6-3, 239) seem somewhat advanced over teammates Clayton Pride and Ralph Gaskins. The other guard slot is empty and a large number of possibilities have applied for the job. Greg Roberts and Charles Roberts, (no relation) both started at that position during last season.

Centers, by the rule, are the toughest men in the offensive line. Joseph Bloomfield is only 6-0, 225 pounds but he is so quick that many times A&T backs are past the line of scrimmage before anyone can react to his blocks.

Tightends are a precious commodity during practice sessions and no one as of yet really knows who will replace All-America Walter Bennett. At this point the surest bet would be Brett Fisher (6-4, 228) who had a sparkling spring practice.
