Improvements Made On Dorms

By Maxine McNeil

Many students have asked what, if any, improvements were made in the dormitories this past summer. According to Irvin M. Hodge, university engineer, a lot of attention was focused on Scott Hall.

"The men were moved to Holland Hall this summer so we could make repairs in Scott," stated Hodge. "We repaired the steps in Scott and had an outside contractor to come in and paint them."

"We also painted many rooms in Scott," continued Hodge. "Plastering was done in every dorm that needed it."

"In several rooms in Scott Hall and Vanstory Hall, repairs have been made for the handicapped," he said. "The doors were widened and we are putting in ramps so they can use them to get access to the buildings."

Repairs were also made in Cooper Hall.

"The flashing on the roof was repaired in Cooper," said Hodge. "The flashing is where the roof meets the wall," he explained.

Walter Nash, painter supervisor, added several statements concerning the painting of the dormitory "We usually paint the dorms every three years," remarked Nash. "We have painted Cooper completely two consecutive years. The students do the damage."

Nash used the painting done in Morrison Hall as a model for the rest of the dormitories.

"We painted Morrison sometime ago and when we got back, it still looked good," said Nash. "In the dorms where the students are close to their counselors, the students take better care of them."

"We have made a lot of improvements in the dormitories but I'm sure there are others we need to make," said Nash. "It is not our fault. We have more things to do than we have people."

According to Hodge, more screens are in the process of being ordered for the dormitories which need them.

"We have made many improvements," stated Hodge, "but I admit, Scott Hall was our pet peeve."

Tyson Will Co-operate With University Tribunal

Last year there was a big controversy between the Student Government Association and Dr. Waverlyn Rice, chairman of the University Tribunal as to whether or not the student court was functioning properly. Dr. Rice and SGA president, Tony Tyson, foresee no difficulties in its functioning this year.

"Tony came and talked with me and things look promising for this year," said Dr. Rice. "He said he would co-operate with me."

As of yet, the student court system is not operating. Tyson explained the reason for the delay.

"We are waiting for the names of the students who were elected to serve on the Student Legislature to be submitted to us from each dormitory. These students will then be checked to see that they have a good grade point average and good standing with the school," added Tyson.

Tyson also listed housing as a reason for the delay in the functioning of the court.

"The problem in housing delayed a lot of things," said Tyson. "Now that it is over, we have to go through the proper channels. The chancellor has to appoint two students to the legislature."

"Until the student legislature is organized, we can't do anything," stated Tyson, "but the student court will function properly this year."

Overenrollment Causes Problems

By Marilyn Baggett

Because of the enrollment of more students than were expected, the F. A. Williams cafeteria had problems at meal time. There has been a new system initiated in the Williams cafeteria to assist in shortening of the serving lines.

This new system, which is being used on a trial basis, is set up from the cafeteria lobby. In the lobby students must present their meal stickers and receive tickets before proceeding upstairs. With the use of tickets students may enter any serving line upon entering the main cafeteria area.

The new system was the idea of Martin Barrel, supervisor of statistics, and may become permanent.

In addition to the new serving system there is also a cold cut line on the west side of the cafeteria. This line is used only during lunch and is an option to the regular lunch lines.

These changes in cafeteria methods are hopefully satisfying the needs of the students involved. Felecia Forbes, a work-aid student in the cafeteria, said, "The changes are nice."

Freshman Class Elects Bobby Henry President

On Thursday the freshman class went to the polls to vote on the candidates they wanted to represent them during the 1976-77 school year. The votes have been tallied and the results are in.

Bobby Henry was successful in his bid for the presidency. He received 109 votes.

The vice presidential candidate Minevera Miller, won by a slight margin over her opponent Sheron Newkirk, Minerva's votes amounted to 41 to Sheron's 37.

Alene Evans barely defeated Trenna Ross by a 44-42 count for the position of secretary of the freshman class.

The margins for the treasurer bid were the largest in any of the races. Clinton Brown was the winner with 59 votes, Valerie Capehart received 48 votes while Carla Walker came in third with 37 votes.

The margin for the Miss Freshman candidates was very close. Betty Taylor received 28 while Gina Polk's count was 24.

Lee Denounces Phony Letter

RALEIGH (AP)—An apparently phony letter containing an endorsement of Howard Lee by Jim Hunt has been sent to numerous Democrats around North Carolina.

All the campaigns involved have denied any knowledge of the letter, which begins, "I want to encourage you to vote for my friend and fellow Democrat, Howard Lee." It is signed, "Jim."

Hunt, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has been studiously neutral in the lieutenant governor's race.

The letter is written on a photocopy of Hunt's campaign stationery. Instead of the standard red and blue letterhead, the letterhead is black and white.

The photocopied signature is similar to Hunt's. But the typescript on the "My very best personal regards" is different from the typescript of the body of the letter.

Hunt's staff theorized Thursday that someone had taken one of the more than 250,000 "personal" letters Hunt's campaign had sent out this year, copied it, and superimposed his own message over the body of Hunt's original letter.

They were mailed from

Coretta King

Monday

Afternoon

At 12:30

Don't Forget

Greensboro Wednesday and began arriving Thursday. Hunt's staff said it appeared that they had been mailed to members of the Democratic executive committee. The Charlotte Observer also received a copy.

Hunt campaign manager Joe Grimsley said he had notified the U.S. Postal Service and asked it to investigate for fraud.

Lee said he had no knowledge of the letter. So did Sam Johnson, campaign manager for Lee's runoff opponent, Jimmy Green. Johnson said he was asking the state Department of Justice for an investigation.

The letter contains numerous racial references. "With a low voter turn-out, it is essential that we get out the Black vote. Howard Lee as the nominee for Lt. Gov. makes this a reality.

"Another reason is that we can make it known to the rest of the nation that we in North Carolina have overcome past prejudices...many of you know that I supported Civil Rights efforts in North Carolina," it went on.

Grimsley and Johnson speculated that the letter was written by someone trying to disrupt the campaign unity of the Democratic party. Grimsley called it a "Donald Segretti-type trick."

Lee, who is Black, said he thought it was done by "someone trying to cast a shadow on my campaign. There have been other things. Some people are trying to spread a vicious rumor to the effect that if I am elected, Black militants will 'take care' of Jim Hunt so that I will be governor."

Wallace States Changes In Games Ticket Prices

By Craig R. Turner

Mr. Latham B. Wallace has announced the ticket prices for all the home football games for this coming fall. The tickets will be divided up into the usual three categories as before. They are general admission students, and children under 12 years of age.

The cost of a general admission ticket will be $4.50 for all games except for homecoming which will be $5.50 per ticket. Student prices will be $3.00 per ticket except for homecoming which will be $4.00.

Ticket prices for children under 12 years of age will remain the same for all five home games this season including the October 30 homecoming contest against rival Morgan State. Ticket prices for the youngsters will be $1.00.

Wallace also pointed out that tickets for next week's A&T-South Carolina State game will be on sale in the Student Union next Friday and Saturday. He said that visiting students who wish to purchase tickets should go by the lounge of the Union Friday from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tickets will be available on Saturday from 9 a.m. until game time (7 p.m.).

Wallace also said that a list of merchants throughout the city who would be ticket outlets was in the process of being finalized. He said the list would be forthcoming early next week.

Wallace also said that in the past years complimentary tickets had been given to the Student Government Association for visiting bodies from other colleges. However, there seems to be a marked change in that policy.

"This year any tickets for visiting factions will have to be made through a purchase request or paid for in cash. In past years the free ticket situation had grown to such a point it was no longer feasible. It is now our policy that some compensation has to be made for any tickets that are to be used for that purpose," he explained.

Fast-Food Restaurant Benefits Local Students

By Carlese Blackwell

It seems that the long starving hours between dinner and breakfast are over for both Bennett and A&T students. To end this problem, a new Burger King has been placed on East Market Street. This location is within walking distance of both colleges.

When asked how the placement of this food center came to be, its manager, Ethan Sherrod, said, "When building any type of corporation, one must secure a franchise and sight. The first sight for this Burger King was at the corner of Florida, Elm, and Eugene Streets."

"However this decision was uncertain; and in the meantime, a group called the Piedmont Developmental Corporation, in Greensboro, contacted me in Winston-Salem." Sherrod continued, "Their first sight was in a shopping center. Unfortunately, this did not work."

Finally the proposal that the building be placed on East Market came about; and, for numerous reasons, it seemed to be a good sight," he said. Continuing, Sherrod remarked, "The major reason was that it would be located near A&T, Bennett, the post office, and local residents."

Financially," Sherrod said, "business here has been good."

The manager also emphasized that the location of this Burger King has not only saved A&T students from starvation, but has also given many of them jobs.

"I think college students deserve free checking."

We Agree! The cost of an education is high enough without having to pay a service charge for something as necessary as a checking account. So at Northwestern, as long as you're a student, you'll never pay a service charge for checking. Because you deserve it.

Guilford College Colloquium Offers Session Exploration

A 10-session exploration of the "Creative Process in the Arts and Sciences" will be offered during September, October, and November by the Guilford College Colloquium.

The general public as well as students at all colleges and schools are invited free of charge to participate in the programs, most to be held at 3:30p.m. on Wednesdays in the Gallery of Founders Hall.

Sessions will center around physics, religious studies, humanistic studies, art, poetry, math, intercultural studies, chemistry, musical composition and psychology. Each presentation will be followed by a discussion period.

Guilford faculty members will conduct all but two of the programs. Visitors are to be Betty Adcock, a Raleigh poet, and Marvin Lamb, composer-in-residence at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the student activities office in Founders Hall.

The colloquium opened Wednesday (Sept. 8) with physicist Rex Adelberger discussing "Time Zero: Creative Process in the Natural World."

This will be followed by:

Sept. 15—John Stoneburner, religious studies, "What is Our Milieu? Human Creativity and

Some Ancient and Modern Cosmologies."

Sept. 22—Heidi Yockey, humanistic studies, "Coming to Meet: Self Expression through Active Imagination."

Sept. 29 —Adele Groulx, art, "A Watercolor Workshop: The Process of Visual Expression." (To meet in the art studio, Founders Hall)

Oct. 6 --Betty Adcock, "Poetry Workshop: Creative Process in Poetry." (She will read some of her poetry at 8:15p.m. Oct. 5 in Founders with the public invited free of charge.)

Oct. 13 —Rudy Gordh and Elwood Parker, math, "Creative Process in Mathematics: A Dialog of Methods." (To meet in King Hall Room 122)

Oct. 27 ---Bill Beidler, intercultural studies, "The Tao of Creativity."

Nov. 3 —Dave MacInnes and Ted Benfey, chemistry, "Observation and Inspiration." (To meet in King 122)

Nov. 10 —Marvin Lamb, composer, "Creative Process in Musical Composition." (He will perform some of his music at 8:15p.m. Nov. 9, in the Gallery, with the public invited free of charge.)

Nov. 17 —Richie Zweigenhaft, psychology, "Psychology and Creativity: Wrestling With a Greased Pig."

The number is 418 Curtis.

What college women are being pinned with.

As a woman ROTC student, you'll compete for your commission on the same footing as the men in your class.

There are 2-year, 3-year, and 4-year scholarship programs available. A young woman enrolled in the AFROTC 4-year program is also qualified to compete for an AFROTC college scholarship which will cover the remaining 2 or 3 years she has as a cadet. Tuition is covered...all fees paid...textbook costs reimbursed...plus $100 a month allowance, tax-free.

A woman's place is definitely in the Air Force and our pinning ceremony will be the highlight of her college experience.

Wasting Money

Have you ever been in a place that you know you have been in before, but just can't seem to find your way around? To this writer, the library seems to be that kind of place. Every year and sometimes more than once a year, someone or something is moved.

Periodicals are always being shifted from one floor to another. All these changes make it difficult for the student to find what he needs when the books are constantly moving around like a traveling circus. With all the moving around at Bluford, this writer is beginning to think that someone over there is a little insecure. This is really ridiculous when the books don't have time enough to catch a layer of dust before they are off and running again.

Another matter that baffles this writer is the use of the turnstile. I, for one, can not understand why any amount of money, large or small, was spent to erect an object that seemingly has little if any value to the library or the student body. It is said that the turnstile was erected to aid the students. But anything that hinders a person can't be of much help to anyone, including those persons responsible for its being there. To this reporter, the turnstile was a waste of time and money, which is something this university doesn't have an abundance of.

Now on top of it all, reports have it that the turnstile must be taken down because it is an obstacle to the handicapped. How could the administration allow this to happen? The turnstile hasn't been erected three months! I sometimes wonder if some of the people around here are mentally handicapped.

It is really a disgrace to see needed money go to waste when an organization like the band could use the funds as partial payment for new uniforms.

This university needs people who will use its money wisely and not squander it on useless things that appeal to their fancy.

'Remember, it is better to light der candle than to swear in der dark, or something — may I be of help?'

Wake Up!

By Maxine McNeill

In an article that appeared in the February 27 issue of The A&T Register entitled "Allen Aims SGA Accomplishments," Steve Allen, last year's SGA president's assistant, made the following statement:

"The students here live in a paradise. They go through four years of college living in a dream world. When they leave, they don't know how to face the realities of life."

Though at the time I did not completely believe Allen, his statement has remained fresh in my mind.

One day a friend and I were walking from town and an A&T fraternity man who never speaks on campus, spoke to us as if we were his best friends. I refused to speak but my friend spoke.

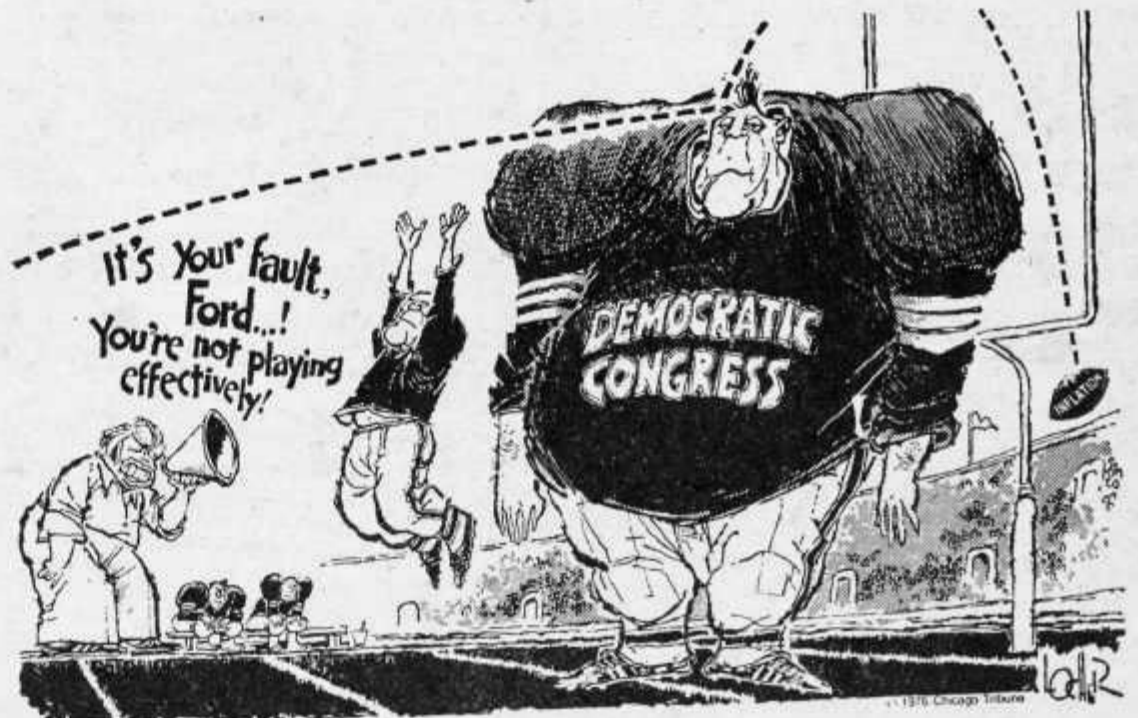

The reason this young man was so friendly off campus baffled me. This friend then explained to me that off campus the young man is in the real world where his fraternity does not mean anything. That explanation disturbed me at first but now I can accept it.

A&T is a dream world for most students. Some students take a detour from education after they get here. They tend to place more emphasis on social activities.

Many students do just enough work to get a decent grade instead of applying themselves. Of course, if they do not want to do any work at all and make good grades it can be done. All they have to do is pick the right instructors. You know, the ones who pass you on your attendance and how good you talk instead of what you know. Considering these factors, life is always in your favor while at A&T.

When you leave here and go out into this highly competitive world looking for a job, the fact that you lived your four or five years through A&T will not mean anything. Your degree without knowledge will lack importance.

If we fail to spend our time here wisely, we will not be equipped for life. Let's wake-up before it is too late.

A&T May Receive New Machines

By Mary E. Cropps

A&T may be getting new vending machines in the near future. The university is now negotiating with the Alston and Pitt Vending Machine Company to take over the Coca-Cola machines on campus and to provide pastry and cigarettes machines.

The Alston and Pitt company is operated by Ronald Alston, an A&T student, and Michael Pitt, a graduate of A&T. According to Alston, his company has been negotiating with A&T for some weeks now and the signing of the contract should occur soon.

Alston said that the Greensboro Coca-Cola Bottling Company has agreed to relinquish all of the machines on campus to his company for operation and maintenance. In addition, Alston and Pitt will provide 20 pastry machines from the Lance Company and cigarettes machines all over campus.

Alston pointed out that students have many problems with the vending machines here and they often lose their money.

He said that his company would be better able to maintain and service the machines because they are smaller and have more time. Alston is sure that his company will be able to eliminate problems with the machines because they will keep them in better condition. He remarked that the new vending machines in the gymnasium were provided by his company and that, so far, they have not presented any problems.

The Alston and Pitt company has been operating since last May and have provided machines throughout the community. Alston pointed out that the A&T contract will be the company's first large venture.

In addition to providing the university with vending machines, Alston said that his company hopes to be able to set up a program in the Business Department whereby students can get experience in their fields. However, now, this idea is only a proposal.

1976-77 Lyceum Series To Feature Entertainers

Concerts featuring appearances by soprano Mattiwilda Dobbs, international jazz great, Lou Donaldson, pianist Natalie Hinderas and harpsichordist, Frances Cole, will highlight the 1976-77 Lyceum Series at A&T.

In all, 10 national artists or groups will be presented in concert in Richard B. Harrison Auditorium during the year.

The other artists will include the Chicago Saxophone Ensemble, the Chicago Brass Ensemble, Voices, Inc., the Hoffmeister Wind Octet, Vinie Burrows, and Sounds in Motion.

Other lyceum events will include the annual Christmas and Easter concerts by the university choir, the university Opera Workshop, the annual Symphony Band's spring concert and 10 faculty recitals.

The initial concert will feature Miss Dobbs on Tuesday Sept. 21, at 8 p.m. The Atlanta-born soprano has enjoyed an outstanding opera career both in this country and abroad. She is a regular performer with the Metropolitan Opera and will solo later this year with the Austin Symphony, the North Carolina Symphony, and the Stockholm Symphony.

Natalie Hinderas, a professor of music at Temple University, has performed recently with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Cleveland Symphony, the New York Philharmonic and the symphonies of San Francisco, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Chicago.

Harpsichordist Miss Frances Cole has been in music since the age of three. A founder and director of the National Harpsichord Festival, she studies harpsichord with the renowned Mademoiselle Denise Restout.

Basso Willis Patterson was a winner of the Marian Anderson award for young singers in 1958. Since then, he has appeared frequently as guest soloist with the Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Richmond, New Orleans, and Dallas symphonies.

Lou Donaldson, the jazz sensation who once attended A&T, is scheduled to appear during the university's Homecoming celebration Oct. 25-30.

The Chicago Saxophone Quartet, scheduled for a Nov. 9 concert, has attained international stature through its clinics and recitals.

Vinie Burrows, a monologist, is a native New Yorker and graduate of New York University. She made her Broadway debut with Helen Hayes in "The Wisteria Trees" and has appeared in six other Broadway shows. She will present at A&T on Mar. 1, "Walk Together Children," in prose, poetry and song.

The Chicago Brass Ensemble is probably the foremost musical unit of its type in the nation. The musicians have appeared with the Chicago Symphony and with visiting ballet companies and musical shows.

Campus House To Host Activities Soon

By Margaret L. Brown

The Luthern Campus House is extending a cordial invitation to all students to come out and make it their spiritual home away from home.

The Campus House is usually open at 12 noon to 10:30 p.m. It is open to all denominations or characters to participate in things such as fellowship, entertainment, study, and counsel.

Director Sarah Williamson hopes that you will find it (Campus House) a pleasant part of your academic year.

Mrs. Williamson is planning different activities for the year which include a game night arts and crafts night, a Bible Study night, and showing films on various topics.

The Campus House is located just across the street from Hines Hall at 1015 Bluford Street. The Campus House will inform students of exact dates of its coming events later.

Campus Haps

All students interested in learning Swahili should meet Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in rooms 213, 214, and 215 in the Student Union.

There will be a Political Science Society meeting Monday, September 13, at 3:00 p.m. in Room 305 Hodgkin Hall. All majors are urged to attend. Election of officers and Miss Political Science will be held.

A Home Economics Association Meeting will be held Sunday, September 12, at 4:00 p.m. All freshman, transfer and returning home economics majors are asked to attend.

Mrs. Coretta Scott King, along with Mr. John Lewis, director of the voter education project in Atlanta, Ga., will be present in the Harrison Auditorium on Monday, September 13, at 12:30 p.m. They will speak on voter participation in North Carolina.

The yearbook staff will hold its regular meeting Tuesday, September 14, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 210 of the Student Union.

Students who have not picked up their 1976 yearbooks may do so beginning next Monday. Yearbooks will be issued each day next week from the hours of 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. After next week they will be issued only on Tuesday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Entertainment:

Nelle's Corner

By Lynelle Stevenson

About 200 New Yorkers, representing the media, civic groups, record industry, and political figures gathered at a private party last month, for the premiere of the "Selma" original cast album on Cotillion Records.

The gala affair was attended by many well known personalities and was MC'd by WWRL's Gerry Bledsoe.

At the same time the premiere performance of "Selma" at the Musical Hall Center in Detroit was the climax of promotion activities centering on the release of the play's original cast recording.

The joyous musical tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s philosophy of non violence is based on the 1965 march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama.

Tommy Butler, who composed, arranged, and produced the show and recording, also has the lead role as Dr. King.

Butler was on hand in his home town of Detroit for the opening day's ceremonies, which included the re-enactment on city streets of the 1965 march ending at the theater.

The march was led by the first Black person to be put off a public bus in Selma, Alabama, Rosa Parks. A boulevard in Detroit has been officially re-dedicated in her name by the mayor as part of the city's fullfledged support for the continued success of "Selma".

Student Driver Speaks Out Against Two Car Problems

Editor of The Register:

For the students attending A&T State University, the traffic situation is becoming more and more of a problem each year. The traffic problem mainly applies to off-campus students who must commute to school daily by automobile.

Finding a place to park which will not be too far from class is one problem which exists although a student is lucky if he or she can find a place to park on campus at all. This problem not only exists for those who have paid ten dollars for a parking sticker, but also for the ones unable to afford it.

Another problem is students who feel that they are privileged to stop anytime in the middle of the street and carry on a conversation with their friends for five or ten minutes. They show disregard as well as disrespect for the many cars behind them. Surprisingly enough though the campus police are never around in situations like these.

Robin Brooks Shows Senior Women Cookware

By Lynelle Stevenson
Thursday, in the Memorial Union representative Robin Brooks from International Homes displayed cookware, china and silver to senior women and other interested students.

Each year International Homes sends a representative to A&T to display its items and offer student discount programs for the ladies who are interested.

Brooks started the program at six with the drawing of names for door prizes. A few of the winner were Sheila Patterson, Robin Bailey and Latricia Marshall.

Brooks went on to explain all of the items and also to introduce the "Health Method of Cooking," which utilizes steam to a greater extent.

International Homes, when displaying its wares also represents other companies items.

Some of them are: West Bend, Oneida Silver and International China.

Refreshments were served by hostesses. They were Mary Williams, Janice Hutchinson, Fay Andrews, Martha Bailey, Linda Stoner, Robin Bailey, and Frenchie Coltrain.

There will be another presentation on Monday, September 13, at twelve noon for off campus senior women and all other interested students.

Slowly but steady, the gym is going up.

YADKINVILLE
(AP)—Authorities are investigating a complaint that a white deputy sexually assaulted a Black teenage girl at the Yadkin County jail, Sheriff Ronald Ball confirmed Wednesday.
Ball said the deputy had been suspended with pay pending the outcome of an investigation being conducted by the State Bureau of Investigation at the sheriff's request.
The deputy was identified as L.C. "Junior" Jester.
The 16-year-old girl was arrested with a white man August 24 near the East Bend

Elementary School and they were charged with public drunkenness.
They were given suspended jail sentences the next day, the man for 30 days and the girl for 20 days, but the girl said she could not always meet terms of the suspension requiring that she be home by 10:30 p.m.
The girl then was ordered to serve her 20-day jail term.
The sheriff said he received a call August 30 from the girl's mother, who said she had heard that her daughter had been raped in the jail.

The sheriff said he requested the investigation shortly after talking with the girl's mother. The girl was released from jail two days after the mother's call.
In Raleigh, Jack Thomas, SBI deputy director, confirmed that "we are involved in this at the request of the sheriff's department" in Yadkin County. He declined to comment further.
The sheriff has said he will issue a complete statement on the case after discussing results of the SBI investigation with the district attorney.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

A&T took the first step toward capturing that elusive beast called an unbeaten record by defeating Virginia Union this past weekend, 26-20, in Richmond, Va.

This game, unlike other opening games that the Aggies have played in past years, was a marked improvement. Far fewer mistakes took place Saturday and that surprised a great many persons including yours truly.

The obvious first game mistakes were present but nothing near the magnitude of last season. Most of the Aggie errors dealt with missed coverage on specialty units, one of which resulted in a Union touchdown.

Offensively, A&T appeared to have lost nothing from last season's top performances. A matter of fact, the Aggie scoring machine actually looked better than it did a year ago. The passing game was not up to par, but the ground attack was vastly improved.

On defense, A&T was clearly vulnerable to the passing of Union, but a great deal of that was due to mixups in coverage among the inexperienced members of the secondary.

Despite the breakdowns there, the Panthers weren't even given breathing room on the ground. Only 26 yards were allowed rushing and that was the major difference between the two teams.

The MEAC gets into full swing this week with six of the seven members in action. A&T has the week off. Maryland-Eastern Shore will entertain Towson State and hopes that its 17-game losing streak will end. Howard, a preseason favorite, will host Wayne State of Detroit, Mich., in luxurious Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in the nation's capitol.

Morgan State will travel to Virginia State to renew an old rivalry. North Carolina Central takes on Elizabeth City in Durham. But, in the most interesting contest of the day, Delaware State will welcome South Carolina State to Dover, Del.

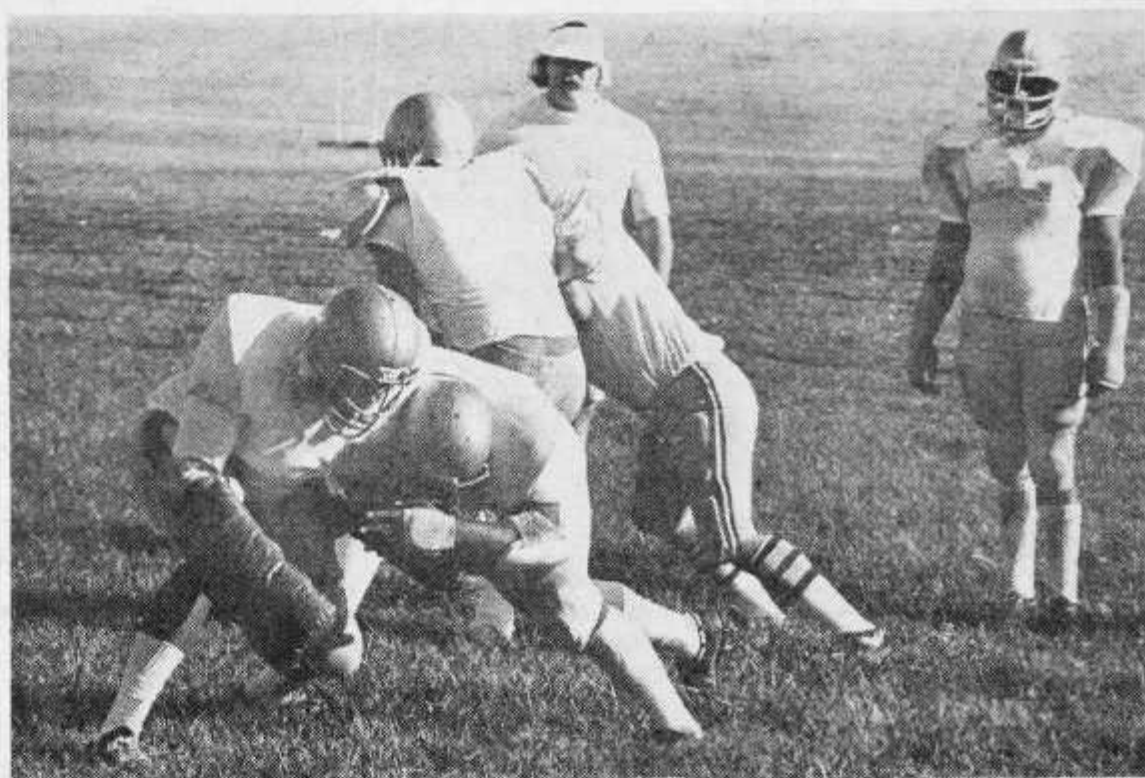

Delaware coach Edmond Wyche brought the Hornets to a respectable 5-5 year last season. Wyche now has one of the league's darkhorses that could win the MEAC.

Wyche has more raw talent on his club than perhaps any other the conference has seen in a long time. At this point the defense is well ahead of the offense for the Hornets.

No one knows just how strong South Carolina will be, but on paper it returns 19 starters and 17 lettermen from an 8-1-1 squad and the strongest defense in the nation. The Bulldogs allowed a mere 2.9 points per game and had six shutouts over the long season.

The last time these two met, South Carolina won easily 39-0 in Orangeburg. However, that was the last game of the year. Delaware has already defeated Elizabeth City, 9-6, and will have the homefield advantage. State has yet to play a game.

It should be an exciting contest, but State is far too strong a club for a still jelling team such as Delaware. The Bulldogs have their sights set on next week's confrontation with A&T here. There is too much at stake for them to lose this early in the conference.

Coach Wheeler looks on as Aggies bump heads.

Holland Doesn't Scare Easily

At 6-2 and 230 pounds, A&T defensive end Jearold Holland is not a very imposing figure for many of the offensive linemen he has faced during his career.

Many of the offensive personnel Holland has encountered have outweighed him by as much as 30 pounds and, by his own admission, some have been quicker and stronger.

Yet, despite his apparent size handicap, Holland has been one of the most consistent performers on the A&T line and is rated by opposing coaches and players as one of the smartest linemen in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference.

"I learned to play with my brain a long time ago," said Holland, who was named to the second team All-MEAC squad

"I learned that there are ways of beating a guy without just trying to overpower him. However, there are always times when you have to show your opponent that he just can't run over you."

"Our defensive line is not that big, but we're quick for our size. We are not light, but we do not have the 245's and the 250's that many teams play with," said the senior.

"Above all, we have good strength and the desire that we want to win."

Holland, who has been a starter since his freshman season, made an instant impression on the A&T coaching staff. He was recruited primarily as a tight end; last year. "A lot of times those big linemen will come out of the huddle and try to scare you out of the game.

however, once the coaches saw him hit, his pass catching days were over.

"I've always liked playing defense. You can play more emotionally on defense, and I just like to hit," said Holland, a native of Roanoke, Virginia.

"At first I was playing linebacker. At that time I was playing behind Steve Jackson, who was more experienced. Our line wasn't very strong my first year so I was switched there and have remained," he stated.

"If I get a chance to go to the pros, I will probably have to play linebacker. I feel I can do it because I have the quickness and the speed to play any position."

The Holland family has made a big contribution to the A&T athletic program as Jearold is joined on this year's team by brothers Glenn, a starting running back, and Coy, the starting tight end.

Previously, Al played football and baseball at A&T and he is now with the Salem Pirates professional baseball team.

"We have always wanted to stay together, and we all wanted to play at the same time during our college careers," Jearold said. "We have always had a lot of respect for each others' talents and abilities. We really root for each other on the playing field."

Aggie Matmen To Repeat Winning Season Once Again

By Tyrone McLean

The Aggie matmen, winners of the 1975-76 MEAC wrestling championship, will try again this season to repeat a winning season.

It will be tough as stated by Coach Mel B. Pinckney because South Carolina State will be the team to beat again this year.

This season the matmen will have three seniors on the team Arthur Boone, Clinton Bostic, and Arthur Leak. The rest of the team will be made up of a sophomore-junior squad, and there will be good depth on the team which was a point that had hurt the Aggies before.

Coach Pinckney said, "If we can stay healthy this year, we should win the conference championship."

In addition to the regular conference teams, the Aggies will go against stiff competition such as the University of Tennessee, Yorktown College, Millersville College, which is ranked eighth in Division I, and University of Richmond.

Most of the matches will be either triangular or quadrangular matches meaning there will be three or four schools wrestling each other at the same time. The matmen will have co-captain John Ford returning along with such standouts as Walter Barrett, Lester Epps, and Rodney James.

And a new face in the line up will be Darrell Drew, a freshman who was ranked first in the state of Virginia. In some of the lower weight classes A&T could be weak, but can survive.

Pinckney said communication is the key to our program. "If there are no problems with the administration in so far as transportation is concerned, we should prove to be one of the top contenders for the conference crown."

On November 19, A&T will hold the Third Annual Invitational Tournament where there will be some 14 colleges taking part.

The Aggie matmen are in strong contention for first place and hope that fans will watch what they can and will do this season.

Football Team To Play Better

By Angela V. Niles

This season, football at A&T University seems to have gotten well under way.

Hornsby Howell, the head football coach said, "This year we plan to play at the very best of our ability due to maximum training and with a minimum number of injuries."

The Aggies have nine additions, and a light number of juniors and sophomores.

Coach Howell also stated that they expect to win well over half of the season's scheduled games which include South Carolina State, Florida A&M, J.C. Smith, Norfolk State, UMES, Howard University, Morgan State, Grambling College, Delaware State, and NCCU.

Coach Howell feels that the greatest strengths of the team are in the quarterback, running back and the first offensive line with the weaknesses being in defense.

He plans to minimize the number of mistakes in the games.

In addition to there being nine players on the team, there are also three new coaches, Ben Blacknall, John Baker, and Joseph Buggs.

New Gym Will Accommodate 7,400 At Basketball Games

By Archie B. Bass

Aggie fans and followers will scream louder next year with the construction of the new gymnasium, located next to Moore Gymnasium. The new gym will possess all the qualities needed to enjoy an Aggie triumph.

Gerard Gray, director of the Physical Plant, stated the expected completion date of the gym will be August 1977.

"The operation that they are going through doesn't show much, but they are on schedule," said Gray.

The cost of the newly constructed gym will be at $3 million, which will accommodate 7,400 for a basketball game. It will also house classrooms, offices, swimming pool, dance studio, and provisions for physical education classes.

Gray noted that both gyms will be used for P.E. programs.

Asked, if the new gym will pose parking problems, Gray stated, "At the present time we are studying the parking needs."
