Trustee Board Chairman Temporarily Steps Down

By Craig R. Turner

John S. Stewart temporarily stepped down from his position as chairman of the Board of Trustees in a trustee meeting here Wednesday.

Stewart, who was convicted of four charges brought against him in a savings and loan scandal, announced his resignation shortly after he was re-elected chairman of the board.

Stewart said in a prepared statement that, because of the actions taken against him by federal authorities, it would be in the interest of the university for him to step down until his case is resolved.

Vice-chairman Dr. Otis Tillman assumed the chair's role and expressed confidence in and support for Stewart.

Stewart also said that he would not be open to public comments about legal action against him on the advice of his lawyer.

The board also voted to keep Stewart on the Board of Trustees even though he stepped down from his post. There were no dissenting votes.

In other business in that meeting, the trustees voted to go ahead with plans to make the Driver Education program a department as well as Media Education. Recommendations for the titles of Professor Emeritus were approved also.

The recipients of that title were Armand Richardson in engineering, Mrs. Clara Evans, home economics; and Dr. Donald Edwards, physics.

The board also heard reports from the officers of fiscal affairs, student affairs, development and university relations, and academic affairs.

Dr. Jesse Marshall, head of student affairs, cited several recruitment and placement programs as great tools for the advancement of A&T seniors.

Matthew King, head of fiscal affairs, stated that the university had functioned in some deficits but was in good shape thus far in this fiscal year.

Dr. Albert Smith, the newly appointed head of development and university relations, stated that he was very happy in return to A&T which is his alma mater.

He said that A&T had the framework to build on. He pointed out that his department was perhaps one of the most important ones on campus. Smith pointed to the area of the Foundation and Industry Cluster as an area of improvement.

"We need to expand on the industry cluster to draw in more support outside the university. We also need to look into the area of donations."

"As of now University Foundation donations and grants come in the area of restrictive donations. They can only be used for a specific purpose. We need to maintain that but also go all out in trying to improve on getting some unrestrictive ones as

Judge Rules In Favor Of NAACP

Oxford, Miss. (AP)—The NAACP is hailing as "a great victory" a judge's ruling that blocks 12 white Port Gibson merchants from collecting $1.2 million in damages and reduces a state-imposed appeal bond.

"It keeps the NAACP in business and allows them to take the appeal without bankrupting the organization," attorney Frank Parker said after the decision Wednesday.

Nathaniel Jones, legal counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the appeal may take up to three years. Parker also estimated the appeal would cost the NAACP about $500,000.

U.S. District Judge Orma Smith's injunction prohibits collection of the judgment during the appeal and stays the requirement for an appeal bond amounting to 125 per cent of the judgment, or $1.56 million. He substituted a $100,000 bond, payable to the federal court.

Smith said he issued the order to prevent "immediate and irreparable harm" to the NAACP while it appeals to the Mississippi Supreme Court and, if necessary, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The NAACP had claimed the award and the appeal bond would bankrupt the organization that it would be able to post the $100,000 bond.

In his ruling, Smith also overturned the state court's ban on further boycotting or picketing by the NAACP, saying such a prohibition would "seriously impair their (NAACP) rights to free speech and association. This is in and of itself an irreparable injury."

He limited the prohibition "only to physical violence, damage to any real or personal property or obstructing the interests" of any place of business.

The merchants were awarded the damage judgment by Chancery Judge George Hayes in August on grounds that they were innocent victims of a boycott by Blacks in the late 1960's.

The boycott was designed to force them to use their influence to change local government in Port Gibson, a town of about 3,000 persons in a predominately Black area along the Mississippi River. Haynes said the protest was a secondary boycott prohibited by Mississippi law.

Advisory Board Members To Attend Conference

By Maxine McNeill

Sunday, October 24, the members of the Student Advisory Board will journey to Hampton and William and Mary College to attend a region five conference. They will be accompanied by their advisor, Mrs. Margaret Faust.

The purpose of this conference is to compare and contrast the advisory boards of the other colleges and universities that have boards and are also in region five with A&T, said Mrs. Faust. Some of these other schools are NCCU, Virginia

Mrs. Hattie Liston Writes Book

Mrs. Hattie Liston, director of the Community Mental Health Department is the author of a book on mental health entitled Basic Mathematical Statistics for the Behavioral Sciences and Techniques for Data Compilation in Ecological Studies.

Dr. Wendell Jones and David Hinton, two instructors from A&T's Math Department, assisted Mrs. Liston in writing the book.

Mrs. Liston said she wrote the book because most students at A&T have a limited ability in math but sometimes instructors do not recognize that fact. She said students have a hard time relating to their classroom learning experiences.

"After observing students, I have realized that they are required to take the mathematics statistics offered in the Math Department," said Mrs. Liston. "My book better prepares them to relate and understand this statistic requirement in their major discipline."

Mrs. Liston said the book is not for use only in the Community Health Department.

It can be used in all fields of study.

One class at A&T, Individual Assessment of Intelligent and Mental Abnormality, is already using the book. Mrs. Liston hopes that other schools across the nation will adopt it as a textbook.

Mrs. Liston said some students at A&T perform at a rate that is not considered average for college students. She said these students have been academically mutilated.

"By this I mean the basic fundamental disciplines they should have been exposed to in all of their learning experiences have been overlooked or grossly neglected by most teachers," said Mrs. Liston.

New Ramps Will Help The Handicapped

By Rodney McCormick

If you are puzzled as to why those ramps are being installed around several of the buildings on campus, it is because of a new program that will enable the handicapped student to have easy access to buildings.

This is only the beginning of a program which is designed to aid the handicapped by removing architectural barriers which may restrict them from having the same educational opportunities as others.

Many things will be done, such as having special parking areas, toilets, water fountains, and widening doors. The ramps constructed at present have cost the state $62,052.

Gerard Gray, director of the physical plant, stated that these new fixtures will open up A&T to a new group of students and that this in itself may have the effect of changing people's lives.

Entertainment:

Nelle's Corner

By Lynelle Stevenson

CBS Records, a division of CBS Inc., has released four new albums this month.

First of all, there is "Message in the Music" by the O'Jays.

Some of the sounds included are the title song, "A Prayer" and "Desire Me."

As usual the O'Jays are trying to relate something to the people. This time it's message which is Peace, Love, Wisdom, Understanding and Unity.

The message says a lot but then again, so do the O'Jays on this album.

Next is "Elementary" by Wah Wah Watson.

The music rocks your soul with tunes like, "Goo Goo Wah Wah", "Cry Baby", "Together (Whatever)", and "Good Friends".

Now, to slow the pace down a little, here's "Tyrone Davis Love and Touch", featuring the hit single "Give it (Turn It Loose)".

This is Tyrone Davis' debut album for CBS, and he really belts out the sounds on songs like "Put Your Trust in Me" and "Beware".

Lastly is "Premonition" By Jon Lucien.

Hey, what can I say? The album is serious.

After you hear tunes like "Hello like Before", "Child of Love" and "Gaku", you'll be hooked on Jon Lucien.

All of these albums are different, music-wise, musician-wise and style-wise, but they are the same in one respect: they all bring enjoyment to your home.

Cafeteria Serves New Breakfast

By Owen M. Dixon

A new type of breakfast is being served in the cafeteria during and after regular breakfast hours. The new type of breakfast is a continental breakfast introduced by Mrs. Laura Thornton, acting food service director, for students who don't desire a complete breakfast.

Mrs. Thornton said, "The continental breakfast will provide the students with a meal that they probably would have missed since the continental breakfast is being served until 9:30 a.m. With later serving hours, students should have a better chance of getting up and going to breakfast."

The menu for this new breakfast, which is a light repast, said Mrs. Thornton, consists of sweet rolls, juice, coffee and ham and sausage biscuits which are the equivalent of a complete breakfast.

Some students have said that they preferred the continental breakfast because they don't like eggs for breakfast and because they don't want a complete meal every morning.

Also, speakers who may be able to lecture to the student body are discussed.

The students will have to attend 24 different meetings this year. They will also help the board serve A&T better.

The six students who will attend the conference will be Phyllis Glover, chairman of the advisory board; Madeline Claggion, associate secretary; Debra Hall, co-chair for minorities affairs committee; Clarke McGriff, chairman of social affairs; and Mrs. Margaret Faust, advisor. Let's Do It Again !!

The NAACP can breathe a sigh of relief now that a Mississippi judge has granted an injunction against 12 blocks of white businesses in Oxford. Earlier the merchants had won a decision to collect $1.2 million in damages from the Black civil rights organization.

The ruling by the judge can be seen as a victory for the organization in two aspects. First, it shows that the NAACP still has a chance to win the decision with an appeal. Secondly, it still enables the organization to operate without going bankrupt. If the judge had not ruled in favor of the NAACP, the organization would probably fold within a few months.

Before the ruling by the judge, fund raising drives were going on all across the country in support of the NAACP. However, the NAACP fell short of raising the $1.2 million needed for an appeal bond by more than $600,000.

After fighting civil rights battles for years ever since the Niagara Conference formed by W.E.B. DuBois, it would be a shame to see that organization waste away.

Most of us pay little attention to the workings of the NAACP, but had it not been for that organization, many of the rights we now enjoy would still be only things to dream about.

Now that the NAACP has been given a second chance, all Black Americans must pull together to assure the survival of this organization.

As Emily Gibson once said, "Maybe Black folk would re-evaluate how far we've come, and realize how far we have to go. Maybe we'd stand up and shout, 'LET'S DO IT AGAIN!'—and this time, make it for real."

It is a second chance, so please don't blow it. Remember, three strikes and you're out. We may not get that third swing.

Dynamite Performance Is Given

Tuesday evening in Harrison Auditorium the Lou Donaldson Quintet put on a dynamite performance for the A&T family.

Donaldson, an A&T alumnus, has just concluded a tour in New York.

The Quintet consists of Lonnie Smith from New York, on organ; Eric Johnson from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on guitar; Billy King from Winston-Salem, on the drums; and Irving Stokes from Greensboro, on trumpet.

A few of the selections played by the jazz band were as follows: "This is Your Life", "Theme from Sanford and Son", "Bye Bye Blackbird", dedicated to Earl Butz, "Alligator Boogaloo" and a selection from Charles Parker.

During a five-minute break, Jimmie J. Williams, acting chairman of the Music Department presented Donaldson with an award from A&T for outstanding inspiration.

When asked for a statement, Donaldson replied, "I'm glad to be back on the scene at my old alma mater. The city has changed, but the people are the same. I keep seeing a lot of my old friends."

The audience showed its appreciation with a standing ovation at the close of the performance.

'Tambourines To Glory' Opens

By Lynelle Stevenson

Thursday, October 21, in the Paul Robeson Theater, the Richard B. Harrison Players gave their premiere performance of "Tambourines To Glory." It featured the A&T Fellowship Gospel Choir Ensemble.

On a whole the play was very good with good leading and supporting actors and smooth scenery changes.

Elliott Moffitt gave a brilliant performance as Big-Eye Buddy Lomax while Sandra Jones as Laura Reed and Mrs. Eula Hudgens as Essie Belle Johnson were outstanding in their roles also.

"Tambourines To Glory," a musical melodrama by Langston Hughes is also a play of redemption.

The play was broken up into two acts. The first consisted of seven scenes in which we saw a church begin on a sidewalk and climb up to a temple.

In act two we saw corruption take over the church and touch the people until it reached an unexpected climax and resolution.

During a brief intermission between the two acts, there was a raffle for a gift certificate for Mom's Variety Store.

Also Dr. Kilomanjaro made a brief statement to the people about conduct in the theater which was warranted.

The play will be presented on tonight, 23, and the 28-30 of this month. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Smith Talks Of Power Exchange

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith said yesterday his delegation to talks on handing over power to Rhodesia's Black majority may walk out if Black nationalists demands undermine "the whole concept that brought us here."

Arriving for preliminary talks before next week's conference with Black nationalist leaders, Smith said at an airport news conference that "I have come here in a positive frame of mind."

He said his five-man cabinet delegation "will be eminently reasonable and patient. We will lean over backwards to make the conference succeed."

But he said the Black nationalist leaders were trying to open up for renegotiation the entire deal he accepted as a package from U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last month.

"We have come here to confirm what is now known as the Kissinger agreement...that was endorsed by both the American and British governments and the Black peasants," Smith said.

If the conference limits itself to his interpretation of the Kissinger package, he said, it would be a "simple operation...and maybe there is a possibility of us even returning home tomorrow with the whole thing finished."

Smith was to begin discussing ground rules for the talks this afternoon with Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, Ivor Richard, who will preside at the conference.

In London, the House of Commons voted late Wednesday to renew the economic sanctions against Rhodesia for another year. The British government said they would not be lifted until an interim biracial government replaces Smith's all-white regime.

You're Only Halfway There

By Maxine McNeill

Midterm exam week is finally over; that's a relief. The new freshmen have further been oriented into the A&T lifestyle.

If you didn't do as well as you would have liked to have done on your midterms, don't fret. You have enough time to pull your grades up before the end of the semester.

Trying to adjust to college life and taking 17 or 18 credit hours as a freshman is kind of hard to do. On exam day, it seemed that all the material from your classes swam together and you got nervous, even though you knew the material. That's an excuse to tell your parents if they ask.

At least exams are out of the way so you can enjoy homecoming. Next week, enjoy yourself. Oh, but remember, classes aren't suspended during homecoming week.

Socialist Group Visits A&T

To The Student Body:

The Young Socialist Alliance, the largest socialist student-youth organization in the nation (with 60 college and high school chapters), has sponsored a team this week on A&T's campus. This Y.S.A. team is one of 13 that are touring colleges this fall building support for the Socialist Worker's party '76 election campaign of Peter Camejo, president, and Willie Mae Reid, vice president. In addition, we have been selling Pathfinder literature, the Militant newspaper, and speaking on current political topics.

During our visit here, we have talked to many students about the Socialist Worker's campaign.

Gaining Respect

'They Died For Me'

Editor of The Register:

As a Black human being, I am sometimes disturbed by the lack of respect that I observe for one another, and for women. It disturbs me because I know of people who have died, actually been killed, trying to re-claim our due respect, which is why I could no longer sit in my room and keep my mouth shut. They died for me.

There are many things that I could say, but I feel that they are irrelevant. It only matters that I am heard and understood by at least one person, just one. If so, my soul will be satisfied.

Black seeds are going to keep on growing, regardless of whether anyone understands or not. They're beautiful. Praise God.

The following is a poem written in honor of mothers who have worked hard so that in turn their children might have an education.

What Should You Call Her?

What should you call her as she passes you by? By all means say "Hello" to her; she's human.

In our discussions, several questions were asked about the U.S. Labor Party, and if it had any connections with the Socialist Worker's Party, or if the S.W.P. was the same organization. There is no connection between the Socialist Worker's Party and the U.S. Labor Party. Just to explain further, the U.S. Labor Party (which is the ballot name for the National Caucus of Labor C group despite its socialist sounding rhetoric. The U.S. Labor Party has carried out physical attacks against Blacks, Socialists and labor organizations, which have discredited and confused the public view of socialist groups. Also, in a number of states, the Labor Party has contested the ballot rights of the Socialist Workers Party and others running in the '76 elections.

So, in this effort we urge students at A&T to support the rights of any organization to function and express its point of view; condemn publicly any attempts to curtail this right, through violence or any other means

The Young Socialist Alliance has enjoyed its stay at A&T and hopes we will be invited in the future. If anyone is interested in further information on us, the below address is available for contacting the Y.S.A.

Aggie Offensive Line Makes Turner Top Passer

By Archie Bass
 With the top passer in the MEAC in Ellsworth Turner, many Aggie fans and followers fail to appreciate his source of protection. The Aggie offensive line may be classified as unsung heroes because the outstanding job they do during during the course of a game is often overlooked.

The interior line is made up of Wheeler Brown, a junior tackle; Clayton Pride, a junior tackle; Charles Roberts, a senior tackle; Joe Bloomfield, a senior center; Ron Aikens, a senior guard; and Greg Roberts, a senior guard.

According to the Spinnale native Greg Roberts, "You have to be strong physically as an offensive lineman because you can't use your hands." "You have to be strong in the upper part of the body, and use strength and quickness," said Bloomfield.

Wheeler Brown, a Baltimore, Md., native, expressed his view as an offensive lineman in terms of strength, "You must be strong in the shoulders."

Perhaps no other unit has a heavier burden in controlling the action than the offensive line. Asked the essential duties of an offensive lineman, Ron Aikens the Monch's Corner, S. C., native said, "We have to control the line of scrimmage."

Clayton Pride, a Charlotte native, added, "We also have to

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

This is the week for another of one of those big games for A&T. The Aggies, ranked third in the Mutual Black Network Poll and eleventh nationally in the Associated Press College Division poll, will do battle with a tough Howard University team.

The Aggies faced the Bison a year ago today here in Greensboro in another of those "do or die" battles. Howard was once beaten and near the top of the league while A&T was struggling to regain its form.

The underrated Aggies unleashed an awesome offensive attack and blasted the Bison 34-14.

Now this year the situation is reversed with the Aggies having to overcome the role of the favorite and Howard as the underdog. A&T has jumped to a 5-1 mark while Howard has found a 3-3 season thus far.

Will history repeat itself? Will the underdog come through again? I wouldn't think lightning would strike in the same spot twice.

While Howard will be enjoying its homecoming, North Carolina Central will be doing likewise. The Eagles will be entertaining winless Maryland-Eastern Shore. The Hawks should have as much success in Durham as they had in Greensboro.

Elsewhere, Delaware State moves down to Morgan State in another top conference battle. Morgan should be looking ahead to the Aggie homecoming as the big test and will dispose of the Hornets by two touchdowns.

Newberry will catch all kinds of flak down in Orangeburg as they go up against those tough, tough Bulldogs of S.C. State.

In some other games nationally, Alcorn will entertain top-ranked Southern for the SWAC championship. Go with Alcorn. Jackson State will travel to Grambling in the other major contest. The Tigers should win one for a change.

As far as predictions go, our staff record is the same as the football squad except for Archie Bass. He had the nerve to pick S.C. State over A&T. The staff never lets him forget it either.

This week the Aggies will face a little stiffer competition than it has before. Howard will be sky high for A&T Saturday. Maybe too much so. That may enable the Aggies to grab a quick lead. Just maybe.

A&T is the pick by eight points.

A&T Will Play At RFK Stadium

By Craig R. Turner

Howard University will host the third-ranked A&T Aggies this coming weekend in Washington, D.C., at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Some 30,000 or more fans are expected to be present for the Saturday afternoon kickoff between the two Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference powers. A&T is ranked in the Mutual Black Network poll behind unbeaten Southern and South Carolina State, a team the Aggies defeated earlier in the season.

The Aggies are also presently the only unbeaten team left in the MEAC, and Howard is presently anchored in a four-way tie for second place. The Bison are 3-3 overall and 2-1 in the league. Their only loss was to S.C. State, 40-0.

A&T will enter RFK Stadium with a 2-0 conference mark and a 5-1 overall slate. The Aggies will be without the services of reserve linebacker Ronald Wooten because of injuries.

In addition to the game's importance in the conference standings, this will be the Howard homecoming contest as well. Coach Doug Porter has pointed to his team's recent success on the ground in the Bison victories over Delaware State and Virginia State as a key to this week's ball game.

The Bison will surely test the Aggies' extremely young secondary early with the passing talents of the MEAC's second best quarterback in Michael Banks. Banks (6-2, 210) finished second last season in passing and total offense behind A&T's fabulous Ellsworth Turner.

Banks will team with wide receiver Kenny Warren on most of his attempts. Warren is a 5-11, 180 pound speedster who finished well up the ladder in pass receptions and is considered a big threat offensively.

However, the one person that the Bison have come to rely on most is tailback James Brakefield (6-0, 190). Brakefield has rampaged for over 250 yards in his last three outings including a 78-yard scoring burst against Delaware State.

The blocking wall for the Bison is considered to be one of the most reliable although it has gotten off to a slow start in 1976.

Center Dan Ambrose (6-3, 225), guard Keith Napier (6-2, 230), and tackle Talbert Hutton (6-3, 235) are all conference squad. The tight end spot has been a question mark thus far, but a number of persons may see action there.

Defense was having its problems this season as it did last season. The biggest breakdown seemed to be against the run. Although the Bison have been anything but strong against the run, they maintain a steady pass defense.

Tackles Devin Cunningham (6-8, 230) and Ricky Pryform (6-1, 260) will pose a problem for the Aggie offensive wall.

Ends Paul Ball (6-3, 215) and Tommy Spears (6-6, 275) are capable of turning things inside for Coach Porter.

Linebackers will be one of the weaknesses in the Bison zone defense and this is where the Aggies can take advantage. The secondary is entirely new and may lack some overall speed. But the size of the Howard defense has been the offsetting factor for the lack of speed.

The kickoff for this crucial MEAC affair is set for 1:30 p.m. at RFK Stadium.

Offensive Linemen Hold Most Unpopular Position

protect the backs."

The job as lineman may be an unpopular position for many spectators simply because it involves blocking. But, according to Greg Roberts, "We have ways of getting our own satisfaction.

The Aggie offensive line undoubtedly is the best offensive line in the MEAC.

"Togetherness, hard work, desire, and determination make us the best line," according to the interior linemen, headed by Aikers.

"To me its fun being an offensive lineman because its my position. Its' rough, but I make it fun," said Bloomfield.

According to Brown, "It isn't exactly fun but its a job that has to be done."

The offensive line goal is to hold a defensive man up at least three seconds, but "we block until the whistle blows," said Charles Roberts, the only walk-on on the offensive line.

Greg Roberts noted, "There is a great deal of unity between us, and we must communicate during the course of a game because of running different plays."

According to the interior lineman, we want to win the MEAC crown. "Perhaps no other unit on the Aggie squad wants to do so more than the offensive line," said Roberts.

Up to this point, the Aggie offensive line has done a remarkable job in protecting Turner, thus engraving them with the title as the best offensive line in the MEAC.

Aggie Defense Does Wonders

By M. Tyrone McLean

The Aggie defense did the job on U.M.E.S. Saturday night in the Greensboro Memorial Stadium. Defensive co-ordinator Wylie Harris said, "We played our best defensive game of the season giving up only 144 yards total offense to Eastern Shore, most of which came through passing."

Coach Harris said that Eastern Shore's two touchdowns resulted because of a mental breakdown in the defense.

"We let some of the new guys see action Saturday night; and, by their not being able to adjust themselves to the task, they made mistakes that resulted in two touchdowns for the Hawks," said Harris. "We feel that everyone who participates in practice should play in the game. The opportunity came for them, and they were called upon to respond to the task."

Now comes Miller time.
