NCATE Team To Evaluate Teacher Education Program

A&T State University will face a milestone in its development this weekend when its programs in teacher education are evaluated in an effort to gain national accreditation.

A nation-wide evaluation team of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education will arrive here Sunday, November 7, and spend three days in the evaluation process. The team will be headed by Dr. W. Clem, dean of the School of Education of Prairie View University in Texas.

Also to be evaluated for national accreditation will be A&T's programs in industrial technology and media education. The technology programs will be evaluated by the National Association of Industrial Technology and the media education programs will be evaluated by the Association of Educational Communication and Technology.

"We sincerely welcome this assessment of our teacher education program," said Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T. "A&T has committed itself fully to teacher education from its inception. A sound teacher education component has always been an integral part of the university's overall organization."

A&T faculty members and students, directed by Dr. S. J. Shaw, dean of the School of Education, have spent much time preparing for the NCATE visitation.

Shaw said both the basic programs and the advanced programs in teacher education will be evaluated by the team.

He said the team will consider such standards as the design of the curricula, competencies and utilization of faculty, student participation in program evaluation and development, library resources, evaluation of graduates, long-range planning, retention of students, counseling and advisement, physical facilities, and practicum.

The advanced program will also be evaluated for graduate credit, preparation of faculty, research and advanced curricula, composition of faculty for doctoral programs, retention of students and physical facilities.

A&T, founded in 1891, currently offers baccalaureate degrees in early childhood education, in 16 areas of secondary education and in the special areas of art, educational media, health and physical education and music.

In the Graduate School, master of science degrees are offered in agriculture, education, chemistry, education, engineering, food and nutrition, and industrial education. The Board of Governors recently approved a new master's degree program in adult education.

A&T Researchers Compile Report

A report compiled by two A&T State University researchers has been accepted for publication by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The report, Factors Influencing the Success of Company-based Carpooling Programs, was written by Dr. Alice Kidder, acting director of the A&T Transportation Institute, and Chi Fai Pun.

The report was an effort to measure workers' interest in carpooling before, during and after the energy crisis. The research was conducted among workers of five companies in the Greensboro area.

In general, the report noted that the percentage of carpoolers increased from October, 1973, to May, 1974, during the height of the gasoline crisis.

In the five companies surveyed, the percentage of carpooling rose from 10.8% of the work force in February of 1973 to 14.4% of the work force in May of 1974.

The report added that all of the companies except one exhibited a pattern of carpool expansion.

The A&T researchers also concluded that carpooling is preferred as a means of transportation in the event that a person can't drive to work alone. Time savings, low cost to riders and convenience were cited as major advantages.

Research Project Designed To Improve Driving Skills

A new research project at A&T, designed to make high school students improve their automobile driving skills, has been funded for $50,000.

The grant, made by the Governor's Highway Safety Program and the State Board of Education, was announced by Dr. Isaac Barnett, director of the Safety and Driver's Education center at A&T.

Barnett has a theory that if high school students who have an overwhelming interest in wanting to drive the family automobile, can be motivated to like their other high school courses, they can become better drivers and improve their overall academic grades.

The pilot study will extend to twenty local school systems in the Piedmont and Northwest sections North Carolina.

"What I hope to do," said Dr. Barnett, "is to see whether the courses of high school curricula can be used to contribute to the vast pool of knowledge necessary (See Safety Page 3)

Aggie 'Fashion Show' Is Highlight Of Homecoming

By Mary Partlow

Once again the Aggie Fashion Show or what is generally known to the public as A&T's homecoming game became the highlight of the celebration.

The Aggie spectators at Saturday's game started to become restless before half-time because the Aggies had not scored.

All of a sudden, the Aggies began their fashion parade. The styles were an array of the latest clothes that the fall season had to offer.

The spectators were clad in casual jean outfits to dressy three-piece suits.

The ladies showed a wide variety of styles. Some wore the classical rendition of the man's three-piece suit complemented with the satin tie blouse, clutch purse, felt hat, and three-inch heels.

Another outfit that the ladies wore was the gaucno, complemented with the bulky sweater, cowl turtleneck, dark hose, three-inch heels or the leather boots.

As always, the casual jeans outfit and the trench coat were present at the game but it did not overwhelm the audience as the midi-shirts and sweaters.

The men, on the other hand, were dressed casually or either in the classic three-piece suit.

The men complemented their leisure attire with bright print shirts, tie-up shoes, boots, and the classic loafer.

The men also wore the classic three-piece pin stripe suit with light colored shirts and bold colored ties. The accessories that some used were the cane, boots, pendant watches, and the traditional loafers.

Endowment Gives UNCF $300,000 Contribution

NEW YORK, NEW YORK—The board of directors of Lilly Endowment, Inc. of Indianapolis has approved a grant of $300,000 to the United Negro College Fund (UNCF). The grant was announced October 28th by the UNCF.

Christopher F. Edley, UNCF executive director, pointed out that the grant was a $60,000 increase over last year's contribution.

"We are extremely heartened by this increased vote of confidence on the part of the Lilly Endowment," Edley said. The money will go towards enabling UNCF faculty members to study for doctorate degrees with paid leave time and for the general operating expenses of the UNCF.

The College Fund raises money to help operate 41 predominantly Black member institutions. All are private, fully-accredited institutions, with enrollments totaling some 50,000 students.

The Lilly Endowment's latest grant continues an association stretching back to the UNCF's first national campaign in 1944. During that time, the Lilly Endowment has given the College Fund $1,210,000.

"The Lilly Endowment has been one of the UNCF's most consistent and generous supporters," Edley said. "Its actions are a model for what we would hope to be a general trend among American philanthropy."

The UNCF is seeking a 1976 national goal of $15 million. Last year, the Fund raised $12.2 million to help its member colleges. The Fund's slogan is "A Mind Is a Terrible Thing to Waste."

I HAD CANCER AND I LIVED.

Marvella Bayh

I have had breast cancer and a mastectomy to cure it. But it didn't change my life—or my femininity. Of course, right after surgery, I was discouraged. But then I received a visit from an American Cancer Society volunteer. She gave me a ball and a rope. And she showed me how to use them to strengthen my arm. She gave me information about breast forms and how to fit my clothes. Then she told me that she, too, had had a mastectomy. That's when she gave me faith. I knew then, if other women could do it, so could I. I did.

If you know a cancer patient who needs help, call your Unit of the American Cancer Society. We can give people information and counseling on all kinds of cancer. We can also give them hope. I know. Because I had cancer and lived.

Nelle's Corner

By Lynelle Stevenson

Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn will headline a Country Music spectacular on Saturday evening, November 6, in the Greensboro Coliseum.

For a few decades, people of many different lands and cultures have enjoyed his voice, his writings and his talents.

The man who was born as Harold Lloyd Jenkins has made his mark in American music history by the name of Conway Twitty.

Twitty made his mark with the release of "Hello Dalin" in 1970. Twitty also won countless awards from radio stations and trade magazines and was certified gold. He was selected in the top five finalists of the Country Music Association Awards for Single of the year, Album of the Year, Song of the Year, and Best Male Vocalist.

In 1971 a new segment was added to the life of Conway Twitty. For it was in that year that he teamed with Loretta Lynn, the top female artist for MCA. Together they have won MCA's Duo of the Year for four consecutive years.

Loretta Lynn has, in a little more than a decade, risen from obscurity to the top of the world in Country Music.

Loretta was born in Butcher Holler, Kentucky, the daughter of a coal miner. She began entertaining at the age of thirteen in school socials. Now she does over 200 concert appearances a year in cities all over the world.

Loretta has also appeared on several popular television shows including "The Dean Martin Show," "The Midnight Special," "Merv Griffin Show," "Dick Cavett Show," "Ed Sullivan Show" and many others.

When Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty get together on the stage, two of the brightest stars in the country music galaxy will perform a very special brand of music.

Show time is at 8:00p.m. and tickets are priced at $4.50, $5.50, and $6.50. They can be purchased at the Coliseum Box Office and Belks, in Four Seasons Mall, and Friendly Shopping Center.

For those who like country music, check it out, it'll be worth your while.

Carter Plans To Seek Action

PLAINS, Ga. (AP)—Jimmy Carter, whose Baptist Church canceled services rather than admit four Blacks, says he will "seek church action" to guarantee that "those who share our religious faith" are allowed to worship there.

The confrontation outside the Plains Baptist Church on Sunday, just two days before the election, prompted allegations that the incident was staged in an attempt to embarrass the Democratic presidential nominee.

But the Rev. Clennon King, a 60-year-old Black minister and political activist who once sought the presidency through the Republican and Afro-American parties denied that political motives caused him and three other Blacks to seek entrance to the church.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Bruce Edwards, blamed the incident on "Republican politics," and he said, "I am sure it is an attempt by enemies of Gov. Carter to sabotage his campaign."

Spokesmen for President Ford denied any involvement in the incident, but they used it as an occasion for criticizing Carter.

Meanwhile, the church deacons, who had decided to enforce a 1965 resolution excluding "Negroes or other civil rights activists," voted Sunday to recommend that the Rev. Edwards be fired, a published report said Monday.

The pastor, who said he disagreed with the resolution, had told reporters at a news conference earlier in the day that the phrasing of it banned "niggers and civil rights activists" from joining the church.

The deacons were upset because the quote had been publicized throughout the nation, the Atlanta Constitution reported. The newspaper said the move to fire the pastor would be made at a church prayer meeting Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards was not immediately available for comment on the report.

Carter and his family have expressed opposition to the 1965 resolution, which reads, according to a typewritten copy the deacons gave the reporters:

"The ushers refuse to admit any Negroes or other civil right agitators to all worship services in this church."

Carter's mother said later in Washington, D.C., that she had invited Blacks to worship in the church "and given them a seat on the front row." She said she wished they could become members.

When the Rev. Mr. King—no relation to the late Dr. Martin Luther King—showed up with his companions at the church on to aid the youthful driver in making better traffic decisions and simultaneously enhance his academic performance in all courses taught at the high school level.

In the interdisciplinary curriculum, traffic safety concepts will be interfaced in classes.

Barnett feels that, if more students are motivated to like those other courses, they can also be motivated to learn and become safer drivers.

He said proof, or disproof, awaits a comparative analysis of the older conventional driver education method and the newer interdisciplinary concept.

Barnett said orientation workshops will be held to assist the participating high school teachers in interfacing Safety and Driver Education concepts into their respective courses. He said this approach was conceptualized to challenge the natural motivation of the students' interest in the car to other courses taught in the high school.

We Will Let You Know!

An article entitled "Lack of Concern Seen In University ministration" that appeared in the October 29 homecoming edition of The A&T Register is drawing a lot of oohs, and ahs from a number of students. This writer was told that a number of alumni were very upset over the many discrepancies that appeared, in A&T's financial report compared to the state auditor's report.

Another question that this reporter has always wondered about is the scarcity of washers and dryers in Scott Hall. There are more than 900 residents in Scott who must be content with using six washers and dryers. Most of the time fewer than five of them are in any type of functional condition.

The article appeared right on time--just in time for all the alumni to see. A large number of that special publication were distributed in area hotels where the alumni stayed over the weekend.

If the alumni of this university refuse to contribute another penny to this institution, I for one could hardly blame them. First of all, I would want to know exactly what my hard earned money is being used for.

If there is any question as to the authenticity of the figures published in Friday's paper, let me put your mind at ease. Each figure is documented. Each figure comes from the state and the Dudley Building.

Another fact that is of particular interest to this organization is implication that The Register could spend $10,000 in one day (June 30, 1973--July 1, 1973). It would take this paper approximately two and one-half months or more to spend that much, including break downs in equipment which occassionally happen.

The purpose of this organization is to inform the university community; and, if anything new concerns this issue of university spending, we will be sure to let you know.

Letters To The Editor

Aggies Should Give Support

Editor of The Register:

"When the going gets rough, the rough get going", or so goes the old saying-and certainly this saying could be applied to A&T's homecoming game.

Never have I seen so many non-spirited Aggies as there were Saturday at the game. From the first kick off to the final seconds on the scoreboard clock, fans, alumni, students, and faculty members did not appear to be the least interested in the game nor the half-time show. No one cheered the team on as they tried unsuccessfully to fight off the Morgan State attack. No one applauded for the "Blue and Gold Marching Machine" band as they tried to present a homecoming show. But everyone was eager to leave when it started to rain, when the team appeared as though no victory were insight, and when the band did not play what everyone wanted to hear.

What does it mean to be an Aggie? Does it mean partying all week-end and getting too high to care what goes on or does it mean supporting the football team when they're losing, supporting the band when they play everything except what you want to hear?

It appears as though we have a tradition to live down, the tradition of walking out on the team and the band, forgetting how they must feel. I'm sure no one wants to lose a homecoming game or have the visiting band make more "noise" than we do.

It's up to the "Aggie family" to dispel this tradition and give much more support as far as "spirit" is concerned.

Doris Thomas Williams

It Was What You Made It!

Editor of The Register:

I would like to comment on the way many people reacted to our homecoming. I know all of us were disappointed in losing the game, but that's not the whole picture of the spirit of homecoming.

I hear students complaining that homecoming was "lousy", but no one thinks to admire or speak up for the decorations or the long hours spent working on the beautiful floats that were entered in our parade. This (homecoming) should be the true spirit of being an Aggie, what it means to you, making each of us proud to see our alumni come back home to tell of their lives and what part A&T played in it. It will be said again and again. If you feel that it wasn't a good homecoming, remember homecoming can only be what you make of it.

L. Gore

Where's The New Stadium?

By Bonnie Newman

Well, another homecoming has passed for the Aggies. Many felt the majority of planned activities and events went well, with of course the exception of Saturday's game. Coach Hornsby Howell stated that the Morgan State Bears gave the Aggies "an old-fashioned butt kicking".

Not only was the loss of the game a disappointment for the fans and spectators, but also the crowded conditions at Memorial Stadium. With a crowd of 21,000 the stadium simply could not accommodate everyone, not to mention the problem of parking.

This is a problem which should have been eliminated by now with the long-awaited new stadium. With all the pushing and shoving going on along with uncomfortable restroom facilities, one wonders that fans didn't lose interest long before the game was over.

Few other problems were encountered around campus with homecoming and the increased population of alumni, parents, and students generating spirited atmosphere.

Homecoming Was "Unfortunate"

By Maxine McNeill

A&T's homecoming celebration proved to be less than a lot of people expected. It is unclear exactly what the cause was.

The student interest and participation were felt, but some students felt there were no events scheduled for them to participate in. If that is true, it is not saying much for our elected student government leaders.

Tony Tyson, SGA president, said in an interview earlier this semester that his administration attended summer school so that they might eliminate the pressures of homecoming this semester. Tyson said he would have time to work on other problems confronting students.

While his early preparation for homecoming was a good idea, he fell short of his intentions in the eyes of some students.

There is nothing else that can be said about the unorganized events and other disappointments of homecoming week. There is nothing that can be done now.

It can be said though, that the future homecoming shows, events and football games cannot prove to be any more unfortunate than this one.

There are said to be 2 million comets in the solar system. The most famous, Halley's Comet, will next be seen by earthlings in 1986!

Board Cancels Church Services

Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Edwards told him that "There will be no services today."

The Rev. Mr. Edwards said the board of deacons voted Tuesday night, 24 hours after the Rev. Mr. King applied for membership, to enforce the 1965 resolution. He said they later decided to cancel worship services Sunday to avoid possible trouble.

"I felt that, under the extreme tension we would be under, it would be impossible for us to worship," the Rev. Mr. Edwards said.

The Rev. Mr. King who makes his home in Albany, Ga., about 30 miles from Plains, said he would return to the church next week.

Float Committee Selects Winners

By Maxine McNeill

The float committee met Saturday morning to determine the winners of the dormitory and float decoration contests. LeRoy Holmes, chairman of the Art Department, was in charge of the committee.

Vanstory Hall won the award for general appeal. Its theme was, "Love is coming back to Aggeland."

Mrs. Mary Marks, a counselor in Vanstory, said Helen Bryant, a senior resident of the dorm, was chairman of the decoration committee. "Helen did such a beautiful job," said Mrs. Marks.

The award for best interpretation of the homecoming theme will be given to Morrison Hall. "Love is A&T, You and Me," was the winning theme for Morrison.

For the float contest, several winners were chosen.

Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity will receive the Chancellor award. This award is administered to the most beautiful float.

The recipient of the Alumni award will be the Esquire social fraternity. This award is given to the technically outstanding and artistic float.

The unique float was chosen to be the Argicultural Education's. It will receive the Student Government award.

The Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity will be administered the Homecoming Committee award for the best interpretation of the homecoming theme.

Sullivan Welborne, director of the memorial union, worked with the committee. He said, "Overall there were beautiful floats in the parade. In fact, they were some of the most beautiful floats we had in years."

The winners for the dormitory and float decorations will receive the Paul Revere Silver Bowl award.

Campus Haps

The Providence Youth Fellowship and members of the A&T School of Nursing are sponsoring a free hypertension-diabetes clinic at Providence Baptist Church, 1106 Tuscaloosa Street, on Saturday, November 13, from 10-6 p.m. in the fellowship hall.

Teloca Student Nurses Association will meet Tuesday, November 9, at 6:30 p.m. in Noble Hall.

A female model is needed for Dr. Theresa McGeady's Monday, Wednesday and Friday 10-12 art class. All interested females may contact Dr. McGeady in Room 206 Frazier Hall. A fee will be paid.

Thursday, November 4, will be the last day to drop a course without grade evaluation. Pre-registration for the spring semester is November 2-5.

For Seniors who were unable for one reason or another, to have class pictures taken as scheduled, this is to inform you that provisions have been made for you to have pictures made with the Junior Class. Since the Junior Class will have black and white photographs, you too will have black and white photographs, with your pictures being placed at the end of the senior class pictures taken on time. These pictures will not be in alphabetical order.

The Junior Class pictures are scheduled to be taken on November 8, from 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.

The Angels of the Elmore M. Kennedy Squadron will have an "Angel Slave Rally", Nov. 1-7. During this time, Angels will type, wash cars and do various other jobs at inexpensive rates. Ask any Angel Flight member or inquire at Campbell Hall for details.

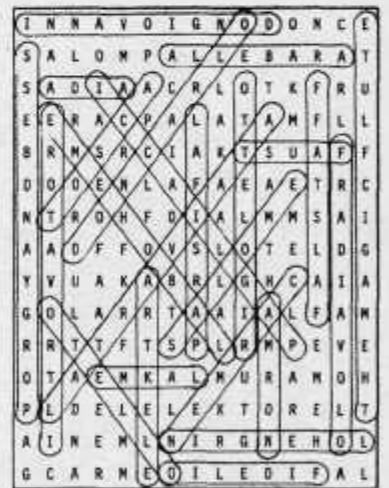

Co-op Club Committee will meet at 8:00 p.m. Thursday nights in Merrick Hall and all interested persons in Co-op are welcomed.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

The Aggies got blown out at homecoming this week. So what else is new? Actually nothing is new. The game followed the usual course.

A&T muffed a couple of plays and Morgan took them and capitalized for a couple of quick scores.

Then there was the instant comeback that has typified all of the Aggie games up until this week. Ellsworth Turner calmly picked Morgan's secondary apart. And, yes, was by magic A&T was suddenly in the game again.

Well, A&T's guardian angel must have been asleep in the second half because a devil by the name of Mark Durden did something very rare in these days and times.

He single handedly beat the entire A&T secondary apart.

Never have I ever seen a defensive unit so helpless against the pass as I did last Saturday. The Bears beat A&T for short yardage, long yardage, hitch passes, and yes, even broken plays.

Now don't place it all on the defense. The offense can't run its way through a wall of onion skin typing paper. The only team A&T seems to be able to run against is the one in the mirror.

Pass defense is often times subject to break downs. But if missed tackles are part of the pass defense, then we must lead the nation there.

Is the season over? As far as the MEAC championship is concerned, yes. But as far as the winning or reestablishing some pride, no.

We still have something to prove this week when we meet Grambling in Pontiac, Mich. Delaware State has never beaten the Aggies and well I don't have to explain what the Central game is all about. That confrontation is legendary.

A&T let homecoming get away, again, but there still is a lot at stake for this football team. There is only one question that remains. Are we Aggies or will we take the pill to call its quits? I hope not.

College Football Sees Surprises

By Craig R. Turner

There were a great many surprises on the scene in Black College football this weekend. The most astounding news came from New York and Greensboro.

Norfolk State's Steve Graeff threw two touchdowns and LuRue Harrington ran 44 yards in the fourth quarter for an upset of BethunCookman, 23-14, in the Urban League Charity game in New York City.

Morgan State bombed A&T 45-16 as quarterback Allen Rose three three touchdowns to Mark Durden. Rose three for 217 yards in a 17 of 26 completion performance.

South Carolina State stands just one victory away from winning its third straight MEAC title as it blitzed North Carolina Central 30-0. Central was held to eight yards rushing as the Bulldogs registered their sixth shutout.

Delaware State and Kentucky State battled to a scoreless tie and Fort Valley State destroyed Maryland-Eastern Shore 21-2. Howard proved its worth by blasting CIAA leader Hampton 28-7 to ruin the Hampton homecoming.

In other action Johnson C. Smith defeated Winston-Salem 12-7.

Livingstone outdueled St. Paul's 41-20., and Elizabeth City upset Fayetteville 14-12. Also Virginia Union knocked off Virginia State 18-7.

In SWAC battles, Alcorn stopped Bishop 38-3, Grambling stunned Texas Southern 50-14, Mississippi Valley held off Prairie View 19-12, and tough Tennessee State wasted Southern 28-3.

The SIAC had its share of surprises also. Alabama St. upset Alabama A&M 17-15, Morris Brown struggled past Albany ST.

Julius Martin Marvels At New Tennis Courts

The biggest attraction to Julius Martin on returning to Greensboro last week was the tennis courts everywhere. The eight new courts at A&T, he just about drooled over, because he remembers a day, when they Ellsworth Turner, "The Miracle Worker", could not do the impossible Saturday.

Mistakes Were The Killer

By Craig R. Turner

The stage was set. There was a crowd on hand somewhere in the neighborhood of 21,000 persons in Memorial Stadium to watch the league leading A&T football team destroy Morgan State.

Well, surprise! A&T was blown completely and thoroughly out of Greensboro last Saturday by the Bears in a 45-16 rout. A stunned and disbelieving homecoming contingent watched Morgan as it jumped to a commanding 24-0 halftime advantage.

Mistakes were the killer for the Aggies as the first of several goofs took place midway in the first quarter.

In receiving a Morgan punt, Dexter Feaster in advertently stepped into the path of the rolling ball and it touched his knee. Morgan defenders pounced on the pigskin at the Aggie 19.

Three plays later, quarterback Allen Rose went in standing up on a five-yard run at 6:55 left. Duane Danner's point after was true for a quick 7-0 lead.

The second Morgan score was a result of Ellsworth Turner's fumble at the A&T 30. Just six plays later, Bobby McCleave dived in the endzone from a yard away. Danner was on target for a 14-0 lead with 2:12 left.

A&T could not muster a drive through its faltering ground game and the Bears gained control again. This time the big play was a forty-yard touchdown pass from Rose to splitend Mark Durden with 4:54 to go in the half. Danner was true again for a 21-0.

Danner later added a 44 yard field goal with just :27 seconds left.

A&T started the half as it had many others in that it trailed its opposition, with a scoring drive.

The Aggies went 79 yards in 14 plays as Larry Barham went over from two yards out. Glenn Holland ran for the two-point conversion.

Trailing 24-8, the Aggies quickly put themselves out of contention with a pass-interception. Morgan went the last eleven yards on a pass from Rose to that familiar number 23, Durden.

Morgan built its lead even more when Rose again found Durden for a beautifully

In Pontiac, Michigan

A&T To Tackle Grambling

By Archie B. Bass

Is luck a factor in an athletic event? If it is, then the Aggies don't have luck especially when they tangle with the Grambling Tigers. The Aggies gridders have played Grambling three times, and have failed to capture a victory in as many outings.

But this year is totally different in all respects. The Grambling Tigers are spinning this year with an overall record of 4 wins and 3 losses. But their record is not indicative of the incredible amount of talent Grambling possesses and their soundness as a team.

Grambling has lost to a tough Temple team by a mere margin, 31-30, at Temple. The only riot against the Grambling team was at the hands of tough Alcorn, 28-0.

According to Joe Faust, sports informational director, "Grambling had ten players to get drafted by the pros, and they beat us in the past by these players."

When the Aggies journey to Pontiac, Michigan to battle Grambling, the game will be played on neutral ground.

"A team like Grambling has a good reputation to be a prestigious victory for the Aggies if we defeat them," said Faust. He went further to explain, "There will be an expected crowd of 50,000 people and in that crowd will be pro scouts noticing how both teams will react from this fan pressure."

Faust noted the key clash of the game will be between the two field generals—Doug Williams and Ellsworth Turner. "They are the top two quarterbacks in the Black colleges, possibly the country," stated Faust.

Faust recorded Williams as a quarterback with a strong, powerful throwing arm, compared to Turner that throws short passes.

Both have excellent targets to throw too, in Peningwell for Grambling, and Feaster for the Aggies, who lead their respective conferences in receptions.

Grambling defensively is big again, according to Faust "They are young and tough against the run," added Faust.

The Tigers of Grambling College have one of the top rated defensive backs in the country in Mike Harris. Their defensive line is cued by Russel Hall, 6'8" 218 lb. line-backer, and Troy Thomas, 6'2" 220 lb., defensive end.

When Eddie Robinson, Grambling's head-coach, who is the first Black President of the National Coaches Association, brings his troops to Pontiac, his three consecutive triumphs over the Aggies may be in jeopardy.

executed 62 yard scoring strike that broke A&T's back.

A&T interrupted the barrage with a scoring play of its own when Ellsworth Turner ran for a yard touchdown and the conversion.

Morgan finally put the finishing touches on the upset with reserve Donnel Coleman hitting Craig Wilson for the final points of the afternoon on a 32-yard strike.

The loss virtually eliminated the Aggies from repeating as conference champions as South Carolina State now needs only a win over helpless Maryland Eastern Shore to wrap up its third consecutive title.

didn't have any, and he was at the university on a tennis scholarship.

Martin, a Wilmington native now of New York City, was one of four former Aggie stars enshrined into the A&T Sports Hall of Fame Friday night.

When I got to A&T, he recalled, "they didn't have any courts. We tried to play on the public courts and the cops would run us off."

Julius, or "Junebug" as he was then known, captained the A&T tennis team for four years, and won the CIAA singles and doubles championships in 1952 and 1954. He also won the intercollegiate division of the American Tennis Association in the same years.

As a youngster, the only way

Junebug and another youngster, Althea Gibson, got a chance to play tennis was on the court of Dr. Hubert Eaton, a Black physician in Wilmington.

"There was no place for a Black tennis player then," said Martin. "We played for watches, trophies and expenses to the next tournament."
