Bond Addresses A&T Audience

By Carles Blackwell

Hundreds of faces gleamed as Georgia State Senator, Julian Bond entered Harrison Auditorium last night. Bond addressed his audience with a brief speech entitled "What Next?"

Opening his speech, the senator said that there were three reasons why he was glad to be on A&T’s campus. The first reason given by Bond was that he was a politician and politicians are not often well accepted by the public.

Next, he said that he was always glad to visit college campuses like A&T because he, as a student, had attended colleges similar to A&T.

Finally, Bond reminded his audience that the fight for equal rights was started here in Greensboro by A&T students.

However, the senator’s speech mainly concentrated on what Blacks have gained in the past 15 years and how far Blacks still have to go.

According to Bond, although Blacks can sit on the front seats of city buses and vote in national elections and are no longer “called” slaves, they are still not free.

Bond emphasized that his major criticism is that “too many people believe that Blacks have equal rights and are free.” Yet, he said, “Blacks are still the last hired and the first fired.”

Continuing, the senator said that for years Blacks have tried to improve their situation through prayer, protest, and politics. These things, Bond said, are not enough, and may never be enough. Bond said a combination of these things may help, but still Blacks must pursue civil rights, and attack the amount of crime that exists among them.

Furthermore, Bond said, the Black people’s struggle to be free has been like “climbing a molasses mountain dressed in snow shoes.” For every step a Black man makes forward, he is pushed two steps back, implied the senator.

Commenting on Richard Nixon, Bond said, “What Nixon”

A&T Board Of Trustees Approves New Dormitory

The A&T State University Board of Trustees at its meeting Wednesday approved the construction of a new dormitory, announced an increase in student fees for next semester, and okayed several new programs.

The new dormitory, according to Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy, will have accommodations for 500 female students. Dr. Dowdy said the university currently needs 373 spaces for female students.

The trustees increased the advance room deposit from $15.00 to $50.00. The board also approved an increase from $9.00 to $15.00 per semester for summer school fees and increased the summer school lodging fee from $8.50 per week to $12.75 per week. Outside summer school tuition was increased from $25.60 per semester hour to $35.00.

Dr. Dowdy said the Board of Governors has approved, for implementation, new programs in transportation, industrial engineering, adult education, biology. A&T has also been approved to plan new programs—B.S. degree programs in reading and junior high school education.

The other increase approved by the board was for $40.00 per year in student fees. This increase, said Dr. Dowdy, was made necessary by a continuous rise in the cost of goods and services, and the necessity of salary increases for auxiliary personnel.

Under the plan, the health services fee will be increased by $10.00; the book rental fees by $2.00; the student union fee by $5.00; board by $10.00 per year and lodging by $15.00 per year.

Dowdy said the increase in advance room deposit was made necessary because of the increasing number of students who reserved rooms in the past, but who did not claim their rooms in the fall. Dowdy said the $50.00 room deposit will be credited toward the student’s boarding and lodging bill. Provisions will be made for a refund of the $50.00 should the student notify the university in time that he does not intend to occupy the room.

A&T To Host Conference On Career Awareness

A Career Awareness Conference is scheduled to be held at A&T on April 13-14. The conference is being sponsored by A&T in corporation with the National Urban League.

NUL representative Ms. Yvonne Bertie was scheduled to meet with a 16-member faculty-student committee today to discuss plans for the proposed conference. W. I. Morris, director of the career planning and placement center will chair the committee.

Faculty representatives on the committee are Dr. Abbas Abeli, School of Engineering; Dr. Sidney Evans, Department of Economics; Dr. Wendell Jones, Department of Mathematics; Ms. Vivian Logan and Leon Warren, of the placement center; Richard Moore, director of information services.

Marines Want Cases Removed From Corps

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ten Black marines, involved in a Ku Klux Klan controversy at Camp Pendleton, want their assault cases removed from the jurisdiction of the Marine Corps.

Attorneys for the men say the corps is too involved in the matter to be objective. The men are charged in connection with a November 13 raid on a barracks room of whites holding a beer party.

The Blacks say they thought they were attacking a KKK meeting and got the wrong room. Six of seven whites involved were hospitalized.

Attorney Leonard Weinglass, heading a team of volunteer lawyers for the Black marines, said earlier this week that similar and KKK activity at Pendleton will be issues in their court martial. He said the Marine Corps cannot offer unbiased judgment on the issues.

In a legal brief submitted to the Secretary of the Navy, attorneys for the 10 Blacks said that the Navy be given jurisdiction in the matter.

"In order to remove the processing of these cases of all taint of unfairness, the convening authority should be someone other than the Navy," the legal brief said.

At pre-trial hearings, the presiding officer ruled that membership of Marine officers in the KKK was not material to the assault cases.

Weinglass told a news conference that the 10 men who hope to be tried together, will claim that they were provoked into the assault by violent activities of white KKK members at the huge military installation.

Attorneys for the 10 released photographs which they said depicted KKK members at Pendleton holding clubs and knives in threatening poses aimed at a member who was drawn up to represent a Black. They said the pictures were taken Nov. 12, 1976, the night before the attack on whites.

Weinglass said the 10 Blacks are scheduled to be court martialled Feb. 11.

State Senators Argue Over ERA Amendment

RALEIGH (AP)—A dispute between friends and foes of the Equal Rights Amendment as to whether former Sen. Sam Ervin, Jr., should be invited to testify on the issue continued in the Senate yesterday.

Ervin, a staunch foe of ERA, already has sent members of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee a statement outlining his position.

Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, a leader of the ERA foe, said he would offer a motion when the committee meets next Wednesday that it invite Ervin to testify at a special hearing Feb. 9. He said the senator had indicated a willingness to appear.

But to Rep. John Gamble, chairman of the Senate Committee on Constitutional amendments, Davenport was merely engaging in a delaying action.

Gamble said he considered Davenport's proposed motion inappropriately and said he intends to follow through with his announced plans to have his committee vote on ERA Wednesday and bring it to the House floor the following week.

Dr. Gamble said Ervin had been given an opportunity to appear and state his position Wednesday when opponents of ERA met here. He said that Ervin had already "sent a copy of his speech to every member of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee indicating his thoughts on the matter."

"If we did, indeed, reopen the door and continue the hearings for people on both sides of the issue, this matter could continue intermittently," Gamble said.

In discussing his proposed motion to have Ervin invited, Davenport said, "If Dr. Gamble doesn't want to invite him, I'm going to try to get Sen. Ervin up here anyway. There's more than one way to skin a cat."

Schools Seek Carter's Help

ATLANTA (AP)—Federal regulations "seem to endanger the very quality of higher education in this country," Southern educators said Wednesday in a resolution asking President Carter and Congress to rid the system of some of the rules.

The College Delegate Assembly of the Southern Association of College and Schools passed the resolution after a study showed a widespread drain on the manpower financial resources of member institutions.

"Attempts to comply with regulations often seriously undermine the achieving of the very goals" the regulations are designed to help schools reach, said the assembly.

Rental Service Saves Money

By Maxine McNeill

"The bookstore is here for convenience purposes, not to save students money," said James Meachem, manager of the A&T bookstore.

Meachem said that the prices for the paperback books are invoiced and the bookstore only guarantees sale of all books in inventory.

Students buy the books in by having two or three placed on reserve in the library. "If I had guaranteed sale of all books in the bookstore, then we could give a discount. If departments paid for the books, the bookstore could operate off a 10 per cent discount."

"The pencil and paper items are sold at a higher cost because they are items that students can do without, he said.

According to Meachem, the school's way of helping students save money is the book rental service. All discarded books, paperbacks, and texts, are placed on a 25 cent to one-half price discount.

The dazzling, new 107th Edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will be coming to Greensboro in February. Internationally-acclaimed circus attraction include: The Carrillo Brothers, in their death-defying highwire hijinks, the Stephenson Family displaying the world's most accomplished and educated dogs, the marvelous monkey-rites of the Mickey Antalek Chimpanzees; the impure artistry of the Flying Farfans and the Flying Seguras; and a constellation of other stellar attractions.

Five new lavish and splendidly costumed production spectacles are featured in the 107th Edition, including a brilliant circus Mardi Gras, and a wild way-out elephant disco extravaganza highlighting the world of rock music.

In this edition incredible animal master Gunther Gebel-Williams presents the debut of a unique act which required years of training: the deadly combination of 20 leopards, black panthers and pumas. No act of this kind has been presented in this country in recent decades. Unquestionably, a three- time winner of the circus world cocor adds yet another credit to his reputation as the most astounding animal trainer in the world.

In addition, The Greatest Show on Earth presents the world's wildest and wittiest collection of clowns. Featured are Ron and Sandra Severini, advance clowns for the circus. Both Ron and Sandra are musicians-he, on almost any given instrument, and she on the guitar, clarinet and trumpet. Both are talented gymnasts, graduates of Ringling's Clown College, and six-year veterans with The Greatest Show on Earth.

The show will open at the Greensboro Coliseum on Tuesday, February 15th, for twelve performances through Sunday, February 20th.

Tickets can be purchased now at the coliseum box office, Belk's in the Friendly Shopping Center and Four Seasons Mall. Prices range from $4.00 to $6.00 with discounts available on certain shows for children.

Everyone loves the circus young and old, so go and see the greatest one on earth. You may not get another opportunity.

Legislator To Introduce Compensatory Legislation

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - An Alabama state legislator says he will introduce legislation to provide $100,000 compensation for "Scottsboro Boys" Clarence Norris.

Rep. Alvin Holmes of Montgomery said Wednesday that the state owes the 64-year-old Norris "something" for the 15 years he spent in prison "illegally."

Norris was charged 25 years ago, with eight other Black youths in Scottsboro, with raping two white women. Eight were subsequently sentenced to death, but their sentences were later reduced to life imprisonment.

Norris, last known survivor of the group, was paroled in 1946 and fled to New York City, where he now works as a laborer. He was later listed as a fugitive for three years until he returned to Alabama to formally receive a pardon last November.

Bond Urges Planning To Overcome Majority

(Continued From Page 2) did, but something he just did, but something he had been doing for the majority of his adult life.

Concluding, Bond said that during the past election, Blacks proved that they could elect a president, but they still cannot govern that president. Finally, he pointed out that the Black people's only hope for recovery from the majority is through careful planning and organization.

'Roots' Touches Public Pulse

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," says his book "touched a public pulse" by showing Americans that they all are immigrants.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK
By Craig R. Turner

After thumbing through this week’s newspapers I was beginning to wonder if A&T would have any kind of basketball success. Then I found an article on A&T’s women’s basketball team and its 64 record. The day seemed to brighten up considerably.

If you witnessed last week’s game between A&T and Bennett College, you saw basketball at its best. That is correct, Basketball.

No antecedent or descriptive term can identify A&T’s contingent. These women are gifted with a great deal of talent, both learned and natural.

They are capable of running anything that an expert could ever want to see in game from length of court passes to shot blocking.

I was surprised by the enormous zeal and serious display in the three or four games played before A&T audiences. Surprising too was the fact that 4,000 or so fans packed into Moore Gym to witness the A&T-Bennett clash.

Although part of that crowd can be attributed to the fact that A&T fans are in search of a winning team, it can also be said they enjoy the women’s play.

If the success that Joyce Spruill has experienced can flow into other areas of athletic interest, then perhaps the women’s program will have to be taken in a different light. That is a light of seriousness.

Women’s Netball Team
To Face Lady Bulldogs

by Archie B. Bass

The Aggiettes, coached by Joyce Spruill, will face a stiff test Saturday night as they play host to the Lady Bulldogs of S.C. State.

“They are tall, good ball handlers, and two excellent outside shooters in Gladys Elmoro and Roberta Williams,” said Ms. Spruill. “We feel, in order to stop them, two players must put pressure on the ball whenever Elmoro and Williams have the ball,” she continued.

The key to the Lady Bulldog’s attack is 6’ 3” center, Margaret English. “We are not going to over emphasize Margaret English, we’ll just play her head-up and force her to the outside,” said Ms. Spruill.

Offensive Coordinator Accepts New Position

by Craig Turner

George Wheeler, offensive coordinator for A&T’s football team during the last three years, resigned Thursday to accept the senior varsity coaching post at the University of Arkansas.

Wheeler had been visiting the Little Rock campus for the last two days according to head football coach Horstby Howell. Wheeler leaves A&T after a successful three year stint with the Aggies. Wheeler was considered the primary cog for the Aggies offensive success.

A&T led the MEAC in total offense for two consecutive seasons during which the Aggies captured a share of the 1975 MEAC title.

Wheeler leaves A&T to join new head coach Lou Holtz, formerly of North Carolina State and the NFL’s New York Jets.

No successor for Wheeler was announced by the Athletic Department as of publication time.

A&T To Oppose Chowan In Triangular Match

A&T will hold its first Triangular wrestling match of the year Saturday when they play host to Chowan Junior College and Howard University.

The Aggies are presently sitting on top of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference with a 6-2 record.

Coach Mel Pinckney’s squad will face some tough competition.
