Civilians Induct 24 Members

By Maxine McNeill

A&T's newly established Collegiate Civitan Club inducted 24 members at its charter banquet held in Williams Cafeteria Thursday. A&T's chapter is the first predominately Black chapter in the Southeastern District. The Collegiate Civitan Club is an international service organization. The purpose of the club is to work with campus projects and promote citizenship on campus.

Dr. Jesse E. Marshall, vice chancellor for student affairs, who was the keynote speaker, described the event as the most momentous during the course of time at A&T. He said it was no occasion for a keynote address and attention should be focused on the students who were being chartered.

Cornell Architect Stresses Landscaping

By Rodney McCormick

Paul Friedburg, a landscape architect, spoke on Urban Planning in Carver Hall last night. Friedburg, a graduate of Cornell University, is a senior partner in his architectural firm, director of the Urban League planners at CCNY, and author of several publications, dealing with urban planning projects.

He stressed the idea that the landscape architect should utilize the environment to its fullest potential and adaptability. For those who don't know, landscape architecture is the profession concerned with the planning of outdoor areas and communities. Landscape architects are needed wherever people use areas of land. Friedburg said that this field is up and coming. For both men and women, a career in Landscape Architecture holds many rewards. Because of the

Three Will Not Share Rooms

By Mary Williams

There has been the question in the air concerning three people in a room next year. This issue is now under investigation and in the process of elimination.

Dr. Jesse Marshall, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, stated, "From the experience we have had with personal problems and psychological arrangements under which students were compelled to live, we don't plan to consider future arrangements for three people in a room. This will not be considered unless it is specifically requested by the occupants."

Mrs. Lucille Piggott, dean of women, stated that there is no intention of placing three girls in a room for 1977-78. There has been a certain number of rooms obtained for freshmen students. William Gamble, director of admissions, said out of the 2100 students selected, 1200 will be admitted to comprise the freshman class. Out of this number eighty percent will live on campus in the dormitories.

"We are using the fifty dollar deposit for rooms to estimate how many students will stay on campus," Gamble said.

The student will be expected to sign a statement explaining the conditions and his request if he so desires to live with three occupants, he explained.

This problem has never existed within the male dormitory, and we don't expect three in a room next year," said William Goode, dean of men.
ACHA Announces Internships

The American College of Hospital Administrators (ACHA), based in Chicago, Ill., has announced the establishment of a summer intern program for minority students in health administration. The program is designed to address the issue of minority involvement in the health administration field.

Dent is president emeritus of Dillard University in New Orleans, La., and was the first Black administrator in ACHA. Announcement of the fellowship in North Carolina was made this week by the N.C. Health Manpower Development Program (NCHMDP) in Chapel Hill. NCHMDP is an inter-institutional program of the University of North Carolina system that was organized in response to the acute need for more minority and disadvantaged health professionals in North Carolina. A&T will serve as the contact agency in the state for students interested in the fellowship.

The fellowship, which carries a stipend of $3,000 was launched as a result of a 1973 ACHA task force on minority health administration. Findings of the task force showed a great need to correct the underrepresentation of minorities in health administration positions.

The fellowship will be part of ACHA’s commitment to increase, train and retain minority health administrators.

Candidates for the fellowship must:

1. Complete a summer internship as a participant in the National Work-Study Program administered by the Association of University Programs in Health Administration and the National Association of Health Service Executives.

2. Be a student in good standing in an acceptable undergraduate or graduate program in health or hospital administration. Students in undergraduate programs must show proof of acceptance in the fall term in a graduate school in hospital or health service administration.

3. Produce two letters of endorsement from persons who will attest to the potential and sincerity of the candidate to pursue his or her career goals.

4. Be able to relocate in Chicago for the 11-week internship from June 13 to August 26. Married candidates must assume responsibility for their families during the internship period.

Deadline for submitting applications is March 15.

From Ralph Bakshi, master of animation, comes an epic fantasy in wondrous color. A vision of the world, 10 million years in the future, where Wizards rule the earth. And the powers of magic prevail over the forces of technology in the final battle for world supremacy.

Who Is Conspiring?

Since Friday's edition of The Register, this writer has heard that Ms. Tommie Young, director of the library, is trying to get rid of one person. It hardly seems likely that someone would leave his job in an effort to ruin the career of another—especially when a good job is hard to come by. If that had been the case (conspiracy), then Ms. Young could easily tell this reporter that information last week.

In the editorial that appeared in the last edition of The Register, entitled “What Is The Library Hiding?”, this writer stated that the total number of resignations was 17. Well, bright and early Monday morning, one library staff jovially corrected me. The count stands at 19. Now ask yourself, would 19 people put their jobs in jeopardy in an attempt to get rid of one person? It hardly seems possible.

One of the most recent persons who have resigned said Monday that he had a statement to make. That person said that what he has to say is something that everyone should know, especially the student body.

When the final story comes out, we will be able to tell what is fiction and what is truth.

Stop Abusing Laundry Machines!

Editor Of The Register:

If you are a resident of Scott Hall, I am sure you are faced with the problem of washing and drying your clothes. Since, the students continue to beat and wreck the washers and dryers, Scott Hall will soon be faced with the problem of a shortage of washers and dryers for its residents.

The ratio of residents to machines already is about 200 to 1. Now that the students themselves are tearing up the machines, robbing them of petty cash, showing no respect for other people's property, the odds will surely increase.

In talking with other students, we all share the same opinion, that what is happening really doesn't matter to any one person. The university provides us with washing facilities on campus instead of using these facilities, we abuse them.

Maybe one Saturday morning when you go down to the washroom, see no washers and dryers and have to wash your clothes in the shower, you'll understand.

Stealing Has Stiff Penalties

By Maxine McNeill

The rising crime rate involving A&T students can never be overemphasized. Students do not realize the predicament they place themselves into when they steal, that is, until it is too late.

If these students do not care that they are placing their school's name and their peers into jeopardy, they should think about what they are doing to themselves. Whether they realize it or not, there are certain jobs that students with criminal records are not eligible for.

The Career Planning and Placement office is circulating a list with these jobs on it. Students should not be suckered into stealing these petty items by their friends. A true friend would not ask you to do anything that would hurt you.

Maybe some students steal to belong to a certain group, like a sorority or fraternity. They should realize that no sorority or fraternity is worth ruining their lives to pledge.

If pledging means that much to you, develop your own fellowship. You can entitle it "Individualist Phi Individualist." This is not an indictment of fraternities and sororities. There is nothing wrong with them. There is something wrong with the person who is not strong enough to defy an order like shoplifting.

Local District Court Judge Robert Pfaff does not plan to play nice with A&T students. If you are found guilty of shoplifting in the future, be prepared to suffer some stiff consequences.
Towns Helps All Sunday Schools

By Lynelle Stevenson

Dr. Elmer Towns, director of Sunday School Research Institute in Savannah, Georgia, will be in Lexington, March 4 and 5. The purpose is to hold a Sunday School Growth Seminar at Sheets Memorial Baptist Church, Cotton Grove Road, Lexington.

The Research Institute lists the largest Sunday Schools and fastest growing Sunday Schools each year in "Christian Life Magazine." Because the innovations among the largest Sunday Schools are predictive of new trends, Towns is able to help all Sunday Schools grow.

As he prepares for the Sunday School Growth Seminar, Towns feels that the newer evangelical denominations show Sunday School growth in attendance, offering, budgets and new construction for classroom space.

Some of these are the Nazarene, Assembly of God, Church of God, Free Will Baptist and Independent Baptist Churches.

At the same time the old-line denominations have fully put skids to their downward decline. These are such groups as United Methodist and Presbyterians.

The Southern Baptists slowed in growth during the late 60's but once again have picked up momentum.

The seminar includes two days of study where delegates analyze and apply growth patterns to their home churches. Dr. Towns will address a series on the Aggressive Laws of Sunday School Growth which features 242 principles of growth. The delegates then work in groups to develop a 5-year plan for their church.

Towns has written 27 books in the field of religious education and served as President and Academic Dean of a college. Many sources call Towns "Mr. Sunday School" although he doesn't prefer the title. He sees his role as a college educator, researcher and writer.

CADA Worker
Speaks In Merrick
On Transportation

By Margaret L. Brown

Andrew Barnes, a 1976 graduate of A&T came to Merrick Hall to speak on "Transportation and Opportunities It Has."

Barnes is employed by CADA (Choanoke Area Development Association). The program came to Murfreesboro in 1952. It is named for Chowan and Roanoke Rivers.

CADA works to develop the four-county area of Bertie, Hertford, Halifax and Northampton. They hope to help work some of the economical problems of the area. CADA recruits students from low income families during the summer months to work on PACE, NYC (Neighborhood Youth Corps) and internships. It also provides trips to various sites for school children and gives them free meals.

In providing transportation, Barnes said, "Don't overschedule, over plan, over crowd because it's hard on the maintenance of the bus."

Survey Shows Illiteracy Rate

RALEIGH (AP) - A new state survey used driver's license applications to find out how many North Carolinians can read. Now the state senator who ordered the survey wants to use the same applications to reduce the state's illiteracy rate.

The survey by the Highway Safety Research Center of the University of North Carolina simply recorded those license applicants who had to take an oral test instead of a written one. The test revealed that 8.3 percent of the state’s adult population is illiterate, that illiteracy is greater in eastern counties than in western and that non-whites were more likely than non-whites to be illiterate.

Senator MeNeill Smith, D-Guilford, said he planned to introduce a bill that would require driver's license applicants to be able to read.

“The ability to read is more important now because of complex traffic instructions,” said Smith.

But the authors of the survey, Patricia Walker and Robert O. Hall, indicated they weren’t sure Smith’s plan was a good one.

“Certainly any precursory across-the-board implementation of such a program would work serious hardship on many and possibly achieve no real benefit,” they said in their report.

They also said any such requirement should be combined with remedial reading programs and they noted a careful study should be made to link safety and reading ability.

March 2, will be the last day to apply for SGA offices, Miss A&T, and all class offices and offices. Applications can be picked up in Room 212 of the Student Union. There will be a meeting of all eligible applicants March 10.

Campaigning will begin on March 21. Speeches will be held April 7 in Harrison Auditorium from 8:10-9:00 p.m. Elections will be from 8:00-5:00 p.m., April 8, in the Student Union ballroom.

Any one interested in tickets for Alex Haley’s appearance at War Memorial Auditorium on April 24 at 8:15 p.m., is asked to contact the Student Activities office.

The tickets are $2.50 for students and $400.40 for faculty. There are only 360 tickets available so please act promptly.

The Men’s Council is sponsoring a dance Friday, March 4, in the Student Memorial Union Ballroom from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

Tulcog student Nurses’ Association will sponsor a recruitment program Thursday, March 3, at 6:30 p.m. in the reading room of Noble Hall. All seniors, sophomore and junior Nursing majors are encouraged to attend. Find out what your Student Nurses Association is about. Prepare to make it your association.

The Brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity will sponsor a Health Day in the Memorial Ballroom, March 3, from 12:00 noon until 5:00 p.m. Valuable information regarding sickle cell anemia, hypertension, heart attack, and venereal disease will be presented. All students are urged to attend.

All active reporters, and all persons wishing to join the staff of The A&T Register are asked to meet at the newspaper office building Wednesday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m. A workshop on writing will be held. Remember, if you are a reporter, you must attend!

On Sunday, March 6 the Music Department will hold its spring concert featuring the University Choir in Harrison Auditorium at 6:00 p.m.

The sixth annual MEAC tournament was not a success. It was not a success in terms of finances, gate, media coverage, or organization.

From a spectator's view, the games in this tournament were some of the best played and most exciting that the tournament has witnessed in its six years.

Why, then, didn't the tournament draw any more than the 10,000 or so fans in those three days while the Division II oriented CIAA drew nearly 40,000 fans in its venture in Hampton, Va.?

The reason is that A&T seems to have to have the prime responsibility in seeing that the MEAC tournament is a success.

Most of the MEAC schools, if not all of them, will try to acquire this point, but they will do so in vain.

A&T sold more tickets to the tournament than any other member school. Ticket sales were not even comparable.

The A&T organization coordinated the bulk of the promotion in the triad area while the other six members merely sat on their hands during the winter months.

You could probably compare expenditures by this university to make the tourney a success and the rest of the MEAC to be no comparison.

There is no other place in the world for this tournament to be successful except in the city of Greensboro because no other communities support black institutions except the communities like Greensboro. They are very few.

The Greensboro followers are loyal to the MEAC but there is one important exception. They are followers of A&T first.

A&T did not have a good year basketballwise. Matter of fact, it was the worst record in the school's history and there is no other place in the world for this tournament to be successful except in the city of Greensboro because no other communities support black institutions except the communities like Greensboro. They are very few.

Warren Reynolds is a success. He stands on very shaky ground. Reynolds made a statement last week that Aggies "have been spoiled for promotion in the triad area while the other six members merely sat on their hands during the winter months."

When they fail to do so, the result is as it was last week, a well-conceived attempt but with inevitable failure.

Morgan Wins MEAC Tourney

By Craig R. Turner

There has been a drought throughout much of the west this year, but not throughout Baltimore, Md., ended Saturday night as Morgan State staged a movie style come-back to win the MEAC championship $57-77 over Howard.

Trailing by as many as 16 points in the second half, the Bears erupted for 27 points in the last eight minutes to claim its first championship after four straight years in the semifinals.

Howard, playing in its second MEAC title game, appeared to have the game well in hand after running to an impressive 45-38 halftime advantage.

Morgan stayed that close only on the super effort of Eric Evans who pumped in 19 points.

inside down when needed, and is a very good scorer.

Others adding depth are Tammy Garner, Syrta Belotach, and Ivy Moody. Garner is a good hustler and has the ability to score. She plays good defense.

Belotach, senior guard, is a good ball handler and hustles on defense. Moody, a junior guard, is a good outside shooter. Her scoring from the outside provides added depth to the team.

The Aggiettes are loaded with talent and with nine freshmen, two juniors, and two seniors, this is only the beginning of success.

The only thing they lack now is the combined insight. Coach Spillar is in search of that now.

Being the top-seeded team, the Aggiettes find themselves as being the team to beat. The other teams are number 2 seed Morgan, number 3 seed Bennett, number 4 seed Eastern, number 5 seed Morgan, number 6 seed Wipston-Salem, number 7 seed Bennett, number 8 seed Morgan.

The games will be played at Pembroke State University. The Aggiettes hope to bring home a championship. If they should fail, it has been a good year. They have the talent to capture it in the years to come.

ever growing need to use land. Landscape architects are constantly needed for recreational purposes.

Program last night is the first in a series of lectures centered around a general theme, "People and Plans." The next lecture is scheduled for March 21. Anyone who would like more information on landscape architecture, should go to room 331 in Career Hall.

In the initial period, Howard increased its advantage by outscoring Morgan 8-2 to take a 56-41 lead with nearly 15 minutes left in the game.

It was then that Morgan pulled itself together as it had done the night before against front runner S.C. State in the semifinals.

Forward Anthony Young took it upon himself to quieten the Howard collapsing zone for eight straight points while getting both of Howard's big men, Dorian Dent and Mike Presley into serious foul trouble.

Morgan pulled back into the game at the 5:59 mark when Evans hit a 15 foot jumper to cut the margin to 64-60.

From there, sophomore guard Darrell Davis and junior Maurice Jennings dashed through and around Howard's tandem of David Whitehead and Gerald Gaskins.

Morgan regained the ball from a missed shot and decided to play a stall for a high percentage shot.

Reserve Jim German was called for a charging foul at 1:06. and Howard had its last chance at victory.

If you want an incredible slide rule calculator that's programmable, then this is the one for you. There're 74 preprogrammed functions and operations. And it has AOS. TI's unique algebraic operating system, the underlying reason an SR-56 is so powerful. You'll let you handle problems with as many as 9 sets of parentheses. Talk about memory. An SR-56 has 10 (11 if you count the T-register.). And you can do arithmetic with all of them.

Chances are you'll soon discover how easily it is to program. An SR-56 has 100 steps. Six logical decision functions. Four levels of subroutines. Decrement and skip on zero. Compare a test register with the display to make a conditional branch. And this is just the beginning.

Think about it. Can you really afford to put off getting your SR-56 now?
