"COMPLETE AWARENESS FOR COMPLETE COMMITMENT"

VOLUME XLVIII NUMBER 46 NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY, GREENSBORO MARCH 25, 1977

HEW Requests More Time

WASHINGTON(AP)-The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is asking for 60 days to prepare desegregation guidelines for six southern states that still maintain dual systems of higher education.

Under a plan outlined by HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., in a letter to a federal judge, the states would be required to produce desegregation plans based on the government guidelines by this fall.

The states involved are Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Califano made his proposal to U.S. District Court Judge John H. Pratt, who ruled in Washington on Jan. 17 that the federal government must require new desegregation plans from the six states.

In his letter to Pratt, Califano noted he had been in office only two months. "In that time I have not been able to consider fully and carefully the far reaching social and educational ramifications raised by this case. I need time to consider and decide department policy and to discuss this policy fully within the government," he said.

Saying he was "deeply committed" to enforcement of a provision in the 1964 Civil Rights Act barring discrimination in higher education, Califano proposed this timetable:

HEW would issue its guidelines within 60 days and allow a 45-day period for public comment. Within 45 days of the closing of the comment period, the department would send the guidelines to the six states involved, which would then have 60 days to submit desegregation plans back to the government.

Califano said his proposal has the backing of Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell.

Under federal law, failure to comply with desegregation guidelines could result in a loss of federal funds.

The issue of guidelines arose under a 1970 suit filed by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. The suit calls for enforcement by the courts of the 1964 Civil Rights Act under which federal funds can be withheld from state universities if the systems are found to be discriminating on the basis of race.

"I have repeatedly stressed my intent to give HEW's civil rights effort a renewed sense of purpose and a renewed sense of commitment," Califano wrote. "Most importantly, I want to implement the will of Congress in a manner that is understood and respected by the American people."

The secretary proposed a time schedule under which it would be seven months before the University of North Carolina Board of Governors would have to draw up its own revised desegregation plan of action.

Fall Preregistration Will Begin April 4

Starting Tuesday, March 29, students will be able to pick up class schedule bulletins from their department heads.

In a memorandum released Tuesday, March 22, by Dr. Rudolph Artis, director of registration and records, it was noted that the necessary materials for preregistration will be available early this year to "insure that all students may have an opportunity to meet with their academic advisors and select appropriate class schedules" before preregistration. Preregistration will begin Tuesday, April 4, and continue through Friday, April 8.

Also effective this semester, a housing card will be provided for all students in each department. If a student desires on-campus housing, the advisor will then place the card at the back of the student's set of course cards. Those students not planning to reside on campus next year will not have to go through this procedure.

Each department chairperson is requested to see that each student who attempts to preregister is provided an opportunity to get a complete schedule of classes consistent with his or her trial schedule.

The class schedule bulletin contains detailed preregistration instructions which appear on page six.

And now, the 10 in the side pocket.

Dr. Robinson To Speak About Black Culture

Dr. Edward W. Robinson, vice president of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, will be the guest speaker at A&T's 85th Founder's Day Sunday.

Robinson's speech will center around Black Culture. According to Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T, Robinson is a "dynamic speaker and an excellent singer."

Other than being a vice president of an insurance company, Robinson is also a noted producer of films on African and Afro-American history. He is the co-author of a book on Black history.

Students Give Opinions Of SGA President

By Carol Holiness

Tony Tyson, president of the Student Government Association, will be leaving office soon. Various students on the campus were asked how they felt Tyson had fulfilled his position.

Clark Magoo McGriff, chairman of the Social Affairs Committee, said, "Tyson didn't go into the election with the idea of becoming president. He just wanted the position and was not prepared. Tyson had no credentials. He bit off more than he could chew. Tony was a big disappointment to the senior class and student body."

Cynthia Steward, an accounting major, said, "Tyson didn't have enough support. One man can't do the job for the entire student body. Students wouldn't come to the meetings."

Michael Byrd said, "I'm looking forward to the next person."

Mark Melvin, from Fayetteville, said, "Tony tried hard to right the wrongs of A&T; but, without the support of some apathetic students, he was not able to do it. Thus many students say that he did a poor job. We've got to realize that he couldn't do it by himself."

Tony Council, mechanical engineering major, said, "He (Tyson) tried and didn't have the

Producer David Wolper Hosts 'Roots' Reunion

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chicken George and Kizzy didn't make it, but most of the other characters from "Roots" attended the reunion party for the people who created television's most-watched show.

The invitation for the dinner, hosted at The Bistro in Beverly Hills by executive producer David Wolper, said it was "the first opportunity for all of us and our friends to get together since that wild week we made television history."

Leslie Uggams, who played Kizzy, and Ben Vereen, who had been Kizzy's son Chicken George, were absent, but everyone present from author Alex Haley to LeVar Burton, who played the young Kunta Kinte, shared the joy.

Before the dancing, Wolper conducted what resembled a witness session at a gospel meeting. Actors, writers and directors took the microphone to testify what "Roots" had meant to them.

The most moving speech was by author Haley, who told of his 12-year quest for his origins and how the TV dramatization evoked "a national, galvanic response." He concluded: "The Lord may not come when you expect him to, but he will always be on time." A reporter asked several participants the question: "How did "Roots" affect your lives?" Here are the responses:

Wolper: "I had expected to have an easy year after selling my company to Warner Brothers. Now I'm busier than ever trying to keep up with the response to 'Roots,' including thousands and thousands of letters. And I'm starting on 'Roots II.'"

LeVar Burton, Kunta Kinte: "It has assured me that I can do anything I want to do for the rest of my life—creatively or otherwise." Chuck Connors, who played Massa Tom Moore: "After 23½ years in the business, producers are telling me, 'Hey, I didn't know you could act!'"

George Stanford Brown, Tom the blacksmith: "The fun was in the doing. I haven't felt the aftermath yet. They aren't writing parts for Black actors yet."

Scatman Crothers, Mingo: "I suppose the show brought more notice to my career. I didn't see it. I was involved in a tragedy, the suicide of Freddie Prinze, his fellow actor in "Chico and the Man" ."

Students View Wedding

By Mary Cropps

Have you ever attended a wedding that began at six o'clock in the morning and concluded at six o'clock in the evening?

Some A&T students and faculty and some people from the community got a chance to experience such an event vicariously, Wednesday night in the lobby of Zoe P. Barbee Hall.

An authentic Indian wedding was presented through slides as part of the International Week's festivities featured here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Zinod Doshi, both graduate students here presented the slide show. Mrs. Doshi was dressed in an authentic wedding sari made of red fabric interwoven with gold threads. Mr. Doshi wore an Indian costume which consisted of a loose fitting white shirt and white trousers.

The slides depicted what happens during the whole ceremony which begins early in the morning. After many rituals and several changes of attire for the bride, the couple is finally united at the end of the day.

The wedding presented was an elaborate affair. The bride changed her attire several times for different aspects of the ceremony. The bridegroom carried a coconut and they both had to be welcomed into each other's homes.

Those attending the Indian wedding seemed to enjoy this excursion into another culture. They were also treated to some Indian sweets and to a display of handmade jewelry. The jewelry will be on sale during the festivities Saturday.

Dining Center Will Sponsor Coffee Hour

Dowdy is urging the entire student body and faculty to attend the 11 a.m. convocation in Moore Gym.

A coffee hour for parents and guests will be held at 9 a.m. in the F. A. Williams Dining Center, followed by the 9:45 a.m. salute to the parents by the university's Air Force and Army ROTC units.

Weather

Extended outlook Saturday through Monday—Fair with a warming trend. Highs in the 60's, except some low 70's Sunday and Monday. Overnight lows in the 40's, except some 30's Saturday morning.

Former Instructor Succumbs At Cone Hospital

Lenwood Smith, 33, a former biology instructor at A&T for three years, died Thursday morning at Moses Cone Hospital.

He was on leave from A&T to study for a doctorate in microbiology at Atlanta University. He formerly taught at Guilford College.

Smith held a bachelor and masters degree in biology from North Carolina Central University in Durham.

A native of Creedmoor, Smith was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith. He was the husband of Mrs. Gloria Hester Smith.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Jenee Smith; four brothers, Clyde Smith and Nathaniel Smith of Creedmoor, L.C. Smith of Raleigh, and Walter Smith, Jr., of Irvington, New Jersey; two sisters, Ms. Doris Clemons, of Durham, and Mrs. Mary Bullock of Creedmoor.

Funeral services will be held Sunday, March 27, at 2:30 p.m. in Shiloh Baptist Church.

Entertainment

Nelle's Corner

By Lynelle Stevenson

Hey Aggies, I've got some information that I want to share with you.

It's been over a year since Theodore (Teddy Bear) Pendergrass cut his ties with Harold Melvin & The Blue Notes and vanished from the eye of the public. Now he's back as a solo artist and he is smoking!

During his absence, Pendergrass did a lot of soul searching about his career as a solo artist. His first step was to create his own management and production company, Teddy Bear Productions. Next came his reunion with producers Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff of Philadelphia International Records. Finally a band was selected and a totally new stage performance was created.

A more versatile Pendergrass has re-emerged and his debut album entitled "Teddy Pendergrass" will surely establish him as one of the dominant forces in today's music world. His treatment of the sweet ballad, "AND If I Had You" shows a more subtle side of Pendergrass while the disco-oriented "Be Sure" reflects his famous gutsy gospel/rock sound.

Pendergrass grew up in Philadelphia and was inspired by various gospel groups. As a teenager, he formed his own gospel group before becoming involved with a group of rock 'n rollers known as the Paramounts. The group cut one record with a producer who disappeared with the record and the promised cash.

At age 16, Pendergrass joined a band as a drummer. After touring Canada with the group, he became uninterested with the group's direction and returned to Philadelphia.

The next gig that Pendergrass hooked up with was a local group known as the Cadillacs. During that time, Harold Melvin was putting together a new back-up band and hired Pendergrass as his drummer. Six years later the Blue Notes signed with Gamble and Huff and Pendergrass became lead vocalist.

The first release, "I Miss You" went gold and a string of Blue Notes hits followed: "If You Don't Know Me By Now," "The Love I Lost" "Bad Luck," and "To Be True" all turned gold. Pendergrass' last album with the

SGA Needs Support

The past four years of student government leadership can best be termed as sub-par productivity. However there have been moments of success. The leaders of the student government can not accept all the criticism for the bad nor all the praise for the good.

A working student government is based on the ability of those persons seeking responsible offices. Those persons selected by the student body should be able to live up to the responsibilities they have accepted.

A working student government is based most of all on the ability of the student body to stand behind its student leaders. The lack of support of the student body has been a major factor these past four years. If this lack of support continues, then all factions of student life will remain as they are now.

As elections for student government positions near, one can't help but wonder who will take on the responsibility of uniting the university community. It will be a long, uphill journey for anyone desiring to become president of the SGA or for any position. That journey can be made a lot easier if there is active support from everyone, including the administration.

The administration must be able to demonstrate leadership-ability by being flexible. It must be willing and ready to meet reasonable student demands.

It all boils down to total cooperation between the university administrators, the student leaders and the student body. The only way the student body can reverse the trend of the past four years is through active cooperation.

Committee Makes Study

By Maxine McNeill

The ad hoc Committee, a temporary addition to the University Senate, was appointed in September to study and draft a report concerning the deficiency study entitled, "A Comparative Study of the Five Historically Black Constituent Institutions of the UNC System."

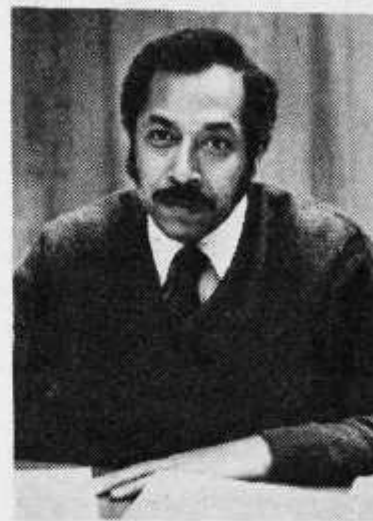

Dr. William DeLauder, chairman of the ad hoc Committee, presented its counter study at the University Senate meeting Tuesday. The Senate will study the committee's report and respond to it at its April Senate meeting.

The deficiency report, which was sent to the five historically Black institutions of the UNC system from the office of Dr. William Friday, president of the UNC system, contains two major statements the Committee felt it should address.

"There is no discrimination in the patterns or levels of State budgetary support that is adverse to the historically Black institutions" is the first principal conclusion of the deficiency study Dr. DeLauder commented on at the Tuesday Senate meeting. He argued that the deficiency study did not prove Black institutions are not being discriminated against by the State with regard to the allocation of funds. He said that is one of the flaws in the study.

Also, the second statement made in the study reads, "The dominant, distinctive characteristics of the traditionally Black institutions thus relate to their faculties, their overall academic performance requirements, and to their students, rather than to their programs or to any pattern of financial deprivation on the part of the State." The study described the traditionally Black institutions as "open door" institutions. It said that most of the students who apply are accepted at these institutions.

According to William Gamble, director of admissions, A&T does not employ an "open door" policy when admitting students. He said some students are refused enrollment on the basis of their SAT scores and high school ranking.

The study said that two of the "distinctive characteristics" of the Black institutions are that they spend "considerable" time teaching their students at the precollegiate level. Also, it was said that the academic performance of students at the Black institutions is not a good determinant of their career preparation. These conclusions were drawn from the study of the students' performances on the law, nursing and education examinations.

The Committee addressed that contention by saying that one of the strengths of Black institutions is that they accept students who are economically disadvantaged and unprepared for college and help them develop into productive citizens. It was recommended that a follow-up be done on A&T graduates.

If the Committee's report is approved by the Senate, it will be submitted to the Faculty Forum. Hopefully, after the Faculty Forum studies the report, it will be presented to Dr. William Friday.

Attend Founder's Day

By Mary Cropps

A&T will have its 55th Founder's Day observance Sunday. This is an occasion that occurs every year and commemorates the founding of this university.

Founder's Day is also an opportunity for students' parents to come to visit A&T. Dr. Edward Robinson, vice president of N.C. Mutual Life Insurance Company, will be the guest speaker for the occasion.

Founder's Day is a day dedicated to A&T and consequently to us, the students. We make A&T and this is our day. In the past, students have not attended the Founder's Day activities very well. Let's make this Founder's Day different. Let's get involved.

Dr. Robinson's talk will center around Black culture, our culture. We owe it to ourselves to encourage each other and our parents to attend his address. Dr. Robinson is a well-known speaker and everyone should enjoy his address.

It is time for A&T students to realize that programs of this sort are just as much a part of their education as going to class everyday. Our culture and our past is a very important part of our education.

Founder's Day is our day and we should take advantage of the opportunity that it gives us.

Participate In The Drive

By Maxine McNeill

A drive has been underway for sometime now to establish Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday as a national holiday. We all should be dedicated to that purpose.

There is no protesting or rioting involved in this drive. All you have to do is take a few minutes and sit down or stand, if you prefer, and write a short letter to Congressman Charlie Rose. Ask him to vote

"yes" to Bill HR 1665. The address is: Congressman Charlie Rose, 218 Cannon HOB, Washington, D.C. 20515.

If you do not want to write Congressman Rose, there is an alternate address you can write. That address is: U.S. House of Representatives, Post Office and Civil Service Comm., Washington, D.C. 20510.

This method of request is, in fact, what Dr. King himself advocated. It is a peaceful means of being heard. If you believe in Dr. King and his quest for equality for minorities, do something in honor of him. Tell yourself, you owe it to his memory.

Adams Wants To Attract Blacks

Samuel Adams, associate professor of journalism at the University of Kansas and minority division head of the Association for Education in Journalism, will address media students here, March 30-April 2.

Funded through a grant from the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation, Adams travels around the country to conduct workshops for minority students. Adams said in an interview with the Kansas Publisher that the program's objectives were to attract more qualified Blacks into journalism study by making them aware of the opportunities and advantages in newspaper newsrooms.

In addition, he hopes that the program will help to enrich and provide "cross fertilization" of existing journalism instructional programs and to give journalism students personal contact with successful minority professionals.

Adams travels in a special van designed for his purpose. The technology van is a mobile laboratory used to teach students and others about the modern electronic technology of newspaper production.

Adams was formerly a reporter for a Florida newspaper and was twice nominated for the Pulitzer Prize. He won the Green Eyeshade Award for Journalism in 1969 and was cited in 1965 by the National Lane Bryant Awards for organizing a volunteer country wide educational program in St. Petersburg.

Brig. Gen. Alfred Cade Will Address Banquet

Brig. General Alfred J. Cade, deputy comptroller of Headquarters DARCOM I in Alexandria, Va., will address the annual A&T State University ROTC cadet officers' banquet and ball Saturday March 26, at 7 p.m. in the Royal Villa.

Annually one of the social highlights of the university, the ball and banquet will feature the crowning of the new "Miss Army ROTC" and "Miss Air Force ROTC."

Dancing to the music of the Brief Encounterband will follow the banquet.

Cade, a much-honored combat veteran, is a graduate of Virginia State College and holds the master of science degree in business administration from Syracuse University.

He commanded the V Corps Artillery of the United States Army in Europe and the 210th Field Artillery Command. He also served as director of Army Budget in the office of the Comptroller of the Army in Washington.

Cade had additional military commands in Europe and Vietnam.

Other participants on the program will be Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T; Lt. Col. Lawrence A. Lipscomb, professor of military science at A&T; and cadets, Jennifer Hunter, Stanley V. Cash, and William Simmons.

Jazz Trio

Will Present

Concert Tuesday

The Revolutionary Trio, an avant-garde jazz trio, will present a free public concert in the Richard B. Harrison Auditorium Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p.m.

The group, which recently completed a successful tour of Sweden, is now touring the nation with its unique styling.

The ensemble comprises three musicians, Leroy Jenkins on violin, Jerome Cooper on drums and piano, and Sirone on bass and trombone. They have been working together for almost 10 years.

Bassist Sirone comes from Atlanta, Georgia. He has been in New York since the 1960's and has recorded with Marion Brown and Pharoah Sanders.

Violinist Jenkins has been heard on records with many people, including Roland Kirk and Alice Coltrane. He was also a member of an aggregation called the Creative Construction Company.

Percussionist Cooper hails from Chicago and he has played and studied in Europe and Africa. He has worked with the Art Ensemble of Chicago, Alan Silva and Steve Lacy.

The Revolutionary Ensemble is about a revolution in ideas and consciousness.

Festivities Provide Culture

By Johnny O. Hunter

"The biggest criticism of last year's festival was the number of American students who didn't attend. So we thought of a solution: take the events to the students...in their dorms."

Anne Graves, director of the International Students Office, was discussing plans for the International Week's activities which began Monday March 21, and will end Saturday, March 26.

For the past four years foreign students have set aside one day for their international bazaar which featured traditional entertainment from their respective countries. However, this year they had an entire week to present the many facets of their cultures which make their lives different from Americans'.

The week-long celebration was made possible through grants from the North Carolina Arts Council, The National Endowments of the Arts, along with the concerted efforts of the campus Heritage Center, and the

Mrs. Graves described the first three nights of the festivities as "mini-extravaganzas which were held in the dormitories. They were designed in hopes that they would excite the student's interest in the festive occasion. Each night's activities were a small portion of what they will get on Saturday.

"The mini-extravaganzas began Monday evening at the Heritage Center's 'Open House.' Wednesday night, was an "Evening in India." It was held in High Rise Dormitory. Senior Dorm will host tonight's Intercultural Forum."

Saturday, an all-day bazaar will be held in Moore Gymnasium. A&T's foreign students will show exhibits from their native lands. There will be a World Fashion Safari. The bazaar will culminate with an international dinner.

When the questioning was turned to the hopes of the International Students Office, Mrs. Graves confessed that she would like the office to "serve as a cultural resource...for American students. The students served (by the office) could be the best educational resources for the Aggies to learn of other cultures besides their own.

Mrs. Graves believes that, if students participated in and attended this week's festivities, they learned from their association with the international students that "We're really more alike than we are different."

Irvin Names Two Coaches

By Craig R. Turner

The transition within the A&T athletic department was completed today as athletic director Cal Irvin named the Aggies' new head basketball and football coaches for the upcoming seasons.

Gene Littles, an assistant for Appalachian State, former ABA standout, and All-America at nearby High Point College was named the new head mentor for basketball.

Littles comes to A&T after coaching and recruiting under Bobby Cremmins at ASU for the last two years. In that time, the duo transformed the Mountaineers from the doormat of the Southern Conference into a strong contender for the title. ASU finished second behind NCAA representative VMI.

The 35-year-old Washington, D.C., native expressed great optimism about the future of the A&T program and pledged himself to rebuild a competitive team from last season's dismal 3-24 record.

He starred at High Point College as a guard from 1965-69 and ranked among one of the all-time greats at the small Methodist school. He is the second all-time leading scorer there and was named NAIA

All-America two straight seasons and was the Carolinas Conference player of the year three times.

Following his collegiate career, he entered the professional ranks with the now defunct Carolina Cougars and led the league in field goal percentages. Later he was traded to the Kentucky Colonels and was an instrumental member of that franchise.

Football also received some regenerative blood as Jim McKinley stepped into the spot vacated by assistant athletic director Hornsby Howell. McKinley has just completed his third year as head coach of Central State University located in Wilberforce, Oh.

McKinley comes from CSU after turning around a disastrous team which finished 2-8 in 1972.

The Marauders have improved their record each season after McKinley's arrival and have just completed a respectable 8-2-1 mark. Central State is considered one of the finer offensive football teams in the mid-east. Central is also one of the largest teams in the nation thanks to superb recruiting.

McKinley stressed recruiting avenues, strong fundamentals, and precise execution as key ingredients to a winning program. The Western Michigan University graduate coached four years in the high school ranks in Michigan after ascending to the position at the young age of twenty.

After tremendous successes there, he moved on as an assistant coach at Western and moved into the position at Central in 1973. The 32-year-old coach is considered by his peers as a fine technician of the game and is also considered as one of the most promising collegiate coaches anywhere.

Both men enter the MEAC without a great deal of knowledge about the conference and its strengths and weaknesses. However, neither man felt it would be difficult to adapt to the new league.

Both Littles and McKinley come to A&T after the resignations of Howell and former basketball coach Warren Reynolds earlier this month.

Irvin, Howell, and vice chancellor Albert Smith expressed great confidence that both men would do fine jobs for an expanding A&T athletic program.

Aggie Baseball Enters Season With High Hopes

By Archie B. Bass

With the glitter and gleam of the spring sunshine, Aggie baseball enters another season.

Mel Groomes, the head general, enters his twenty-first season as coach with high hopes.

"We have some great material this year, and each player has the attitude and interest for baseball," said Groomes.

Groomes noted that this year's squad consisted of eight returnees and 18 freshmen.

In spite of a rebuilding year, we have more balance compared to last year in all positions," said Groomes.

Pre-season games are important in any athletic event. But, according to Groomes, "Because of the weather and spring vacation, we have not played any games."

"I am really enthusiastic about the entire squad, especially our new players," stated Groomes.

He listed Carlos Wilson and Gary Blackmon as the new catchers that he was pleased with.

"We had a shortage of pitchers last year, but this year we have Larry Dye, Clarence Riley, and Wayne Furnage whom I would put up against any team," stated Groomes.

Groomes stated the outfielders he was pleased with were Glen Hart, Timothy Jackson, and Nelson Farr.

The infielders, Raymond Crawford, and Chris Mileton, catch the eyes of Groomes.

"We're in the MEAC, but we unfortunately do not have a conference champion," stated Groomes. He said, "A&T is mostly involved with teams in the Carolina Conference which is one of the best conferences."

The Aggie glovesmen will open up March 30 against Catawba at Memorial Stadium.

"I'm hoping, for the number of games we're playing, that we can provide a fine showing," concluded Groomes.

A&T Aggiettes Place Third In Tourney

By Craig R. Turner

A&T placed a very respectable third place in the Second Annual Women's Invitational Track Meet last weekend at East Carolina University. Host team ECU captured first place with 70 points, followed by UNC-Chapel Hill with 53½, A&T with 30, and Howard with 23½.

The Aggie squad composed of eight participants did not capture a first place finish but were very representative in every event entered. In the field events Teresa Johnson placed third in the javelin with a toss of 72'8".

Students Give Opinions Of SGA President

support of the students and administration. He needed to sponsor more activities."

Diermone Dunn, from Greensboro, said, "Nothing was evident or obvious. I didn't see anything productive done by Tyson. The slogan that he chose, 'Unity Conquers All' didn't correspond with the actions."

Teddie Artis, Wilson, said, "He is a nice person. He gets along well with people and he's very broad minded. Tony listens to suggestions. Within his power, he did all that he could."

Anthony Fox, political science major, said, "The office of the Student Government Association is a serious and highly demanding one. It is a position that requires hard and diligent work. Therefore, to be critical of the man that holds the number-one position of the students is somewhat easy to do. Yet some actions merit criticism and this is one. To think that this administration is one that promised the world, but failed to deliver."

"However, the blame doesn't lie entirely on the shoulders of Tony Tyson, but on my fellow Aggies. It is time for us, the Aggies of A&T, to become more involved in the political activities of the school. Lastly, as elections approach, I think that we should select the next president on the job that he can do rather than the realms of popularity."

Rachel Thrower, editor of the yearbook, said, "In an attempt to evaluate and criticize, one should be fully aware of all surrounding circumstances that affected the overall finished product of the SGA this year."

Standing on the outside looking in, I could say things could have been better, but that is true in any situation.

"I can, however, be appreciative of the hard work, effort and time exhausted by members of the SGA and Tony Tyson. The SGA is only as good as we make it."

"Sitting in dormitory rooms, being critical and apathetic will not move the SGA in any positive way. So, before the student body says that Tony Tyson did not do anything, remember he is only our elected representative. If he stands alone, what can he accomplish?"

Madeline Claggion, nursing major, said that she believes that Tony Tyson and other officers of the SGA have indeed short changed the student body. "There seemed to be a lack of concern or better more concern about oneself. An SGA should be geared toward serving the students, their wants and needs, not self benefit."

These children have dreams of being another Evel Knivel.

Aggies Place Third In Events

Linda Price took third in the high jump with a leap of 4'4". Again it was Johnson who placed third in the long jump at 15'3/4" while Beverly Young finished second at 16'2 1/2".

The Aggies were the surprise unit in the track events as three meet records fell by the wayside. Gail Bargiron placed second in the 100-yard dash at 11.9, while Peggy Bullard ran third in the 880 30.07. Bargiron also managed a fourth in the 220 with a time of 27.00.

The mile relay brought a great deal of excitement as the A&T contingent grabbed third with a time of 4:27. In each of the field events the Aggies broke the meet record despite not finishing first.

Coach David Miller commented on the meet and what lies ahead for the women.

"They did well considering the adverse conditions they have to practice under. We had only one practice before the meet so I guess we are somewhat content for the time."

Miller said, "I see steady progress each day and I'm looking for bigger and better things. But, we scored a lot of points because we had only eight entries in 13 events."

NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY

A CONSTITUENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

PREREGISTRATION

1. Necessary materials for preregistration academic advisement will be available in each department effective Tuesday, March 29, 1977. This is being done to insure that all students may have an opportunity to meet with their academic advisors and select appropriate class schedules prior to, or during, preregistration week. Preregistration is Tuesday through Friday, April 4-8, 1977.

2. Effective this semester, a Housing Card will be provided for all students in each department. The department chairperson is to ask the student if she or he wishes On-Campus housing. If yes, the student is to sign the housing card and the chairperson is to place the card at the back of the student's set of course cards. If a student does not wish on-campus housing, there is no action to be taken regarding the housing card.

3. Each department chairperson is requested to see that each student who attempts to preregister is provided an opportunity to get a complete schedule of classes consistent with his or her trial schedule.

4. Detail preregistration instructions appear on page six in the Class Schedule Bulletin for the Fall Semester, 1977-78.

5. Students may report to their departments beginning Tuesday, March 29, 1977, to pick up Class Schedule Bulletins and are requested to go to their Academic Advisors to work out a trial schedule.
