Councils Elect Queens For '77-78 School Year

By Larry Jenkins

Regina Lee, a biology major from Virginia, was elected Miss Men's Council at a meeting last night. Evelyn Reed, a nursing major from Reidsville, was elected Miss Women's Council in May.

"I am surprised to become Miss Men's Council," Regina stated. "In any way that I can, I intend to promote a better relationship among the students here at A&T. I have always wanted to attend A&T and now I feel that I am really a part of this university."

Regina represented Section C of Scott Hall. The other contestants in the running were Angela Monroe, Miss Scott A Hall; Deborah Hawkins, Miss Scott B Hall; and Ann Murray, Miss Alex Haley Dorm.

Miss Men's Council will participate in the homecoming activities and the Spring Ball sponsored by the Men and Women Councils. She is the official female representative of all the male students on campus.

Richard Gordon, president of the Men's Council stated, "In past years, the Men's Council has not been functioning to its full potential and we can get a lot accomplished with the right support. We feel that, since it's the third largest organization on campus, that it can be a positive force in making needed changes in campus life."

Women's Council is planning many activities this year and would like all female students to participate.

The warm weather we enjoyed outside will soon be over.

For Who's Who

A&T To Submit Nominations

A&T State University has been invited to submit nominations of students to be listed in the 1977-78 Who's Who publication. The quota for A&T will be established by the Who's Who agency. Eligibility for nomination is restricted to students who have completed at least 96 semester hours or produced certification from the Director or Records indicating their eligibility to graduate during the next commencement.

Selections are made by a committee of students, faculty, and staff on the basis of information secured from the nomination forms. Features considered are comprised of the student's scholastic standing, service to the University and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities.

Nominations may be made by students, faculty members or administrators. A student may nominate himself or herself. Nomination forms and guidelines are available in Room 102, Murphy Hall. The nomination forms must be completed and returned to Room 102, Murphy Hall on or before Thursday, September 29. The subsequent processing by the Selection Committee is extensive but must be completed before a deadline imposed by the Who's Who headquarters; therefore, A&T will be forced to adhere to the September 29 date for receipt of nominations.

After the publisher of Who's Who has confirmed the nominations selected and has notified Mrs. Lucille Piggott, dean of women, the list will be sent to the A&T University Information Service and The Register for release.

Legislature Has First Meeting

The first meeting of the Student Legislature was held last night in the Student Union. Toby Bryant, vice-president of the Student Government Association, presided over the meeting.

The main purpose of the meeting was to introduce different committees and organizations to the new representatives. This year the SGA has organized three new committees: the housing, publicity and food committees. Bryant stated that the housing and food committees are basically grievance committees.

Michael Davis, attorney general, outlined several activities for this semester. An essay contest will be held October 25 and a fall debate, December 1.

Tony Graham, president of the SGA talked about homecoming activities. He stated that students may purchase booklets for the homecoming shows starting this Friday. The booklets will continue to be sold until October 9. Students may purchase as many booklets as they wish. These booklets allow students to attend all shows sponsored by the SGA during homecoming week.

Ward Captures Election With Total Of 78 Votes

Out of approximately 1700 freshmen enrolled at North Carolina A&T, 179 voted during Friday's election. Dennis Ward was elected freshman class president with 78 votes.

"I would like to thank all freshmen who ran for office but weren't elected," said Ward. "I hope this will not stop them from participating with the freshman class as a whole." Ward also said that he has a very active year planned for the freshman class.

Toby Bryant, vice president of the SGA and organizer of the freshman election committee, said this year's election turnout was very poor.

"I feel that the response of the freshman class to their class election which was held September 16 was very poor," Bryant stated. "I hope that this low turnout will not be an indication of the participation of this class throughout the 1977-78 school year."

Cafeteria To Repair Rail

By Karen Williams

The employees of Williams Cafeteria have been complaining about students losing their trays in line three.

Actually, the problem stems from the lack of a base to support the rail and there are a lot of loose screws.

Laura Thornton, director of Williams Cafeteria, stated that "the work requests were sent out on July 13, and the rail was anticipated to be fixed by the first of August."

Since the job was not completed at that time, Thornton implies that there was actually nothing that could be done. Therefore the fault does not lie with any particular person.

However, the problem has been brought to the attention of Irvin Hodge, who is in charge of workers at the physical plant.

According to Hodge, the rail should be fixed within the next couple of days.

In addition to the rail, other improvements such as installing aluminum screen doors, fly fans, and fly grids are to be installed. After the improvements have been completed the cafeteria will undergo another inspection by the Health Department.

Stroud Accepts Position As Acting Chairman

By Robert Blackwell
Dr. V. C. Stroud, a native of Greensboro, has been named acting chairman of the Political Science Department.

Dr. Stroud is no newcomer to this university. He received his B.S. at A&T and was an instructor here from 1945 to 1950.

He attended New York University from 1950 to 1954 where he received the M.S. and Ph. D. degrees.

Later he returned to A&T as chairman of the Political Science Department from 1954 to 1960. From 1960 to 1976, he was an instructor and now he has accepted the appointment as acting chairman.

Dr. Stroud's plans are to develop an advisory system, whereby each student will be under the supervision of an instructor. "Our hope is to enrich this program by bringing speakers and lecturers of national reputation, and to provide practical experience as far as it is feasible for our students," says Dr. Stroud.

Dr. Stroud is the author of a much used reference book here at A&T, In Quest of Freedom, and articles such as "The Negro Voter in the South" and "A Political Maneuver That Backfired."

Freshman Class Fails To Vote

Bryant said he can not explain the reason why more freshmen did not vote. According to him, the freshman elections were well publicized.

The freshmen Bryant talked with said they did not vote because it did not matter with them who won the elections.

"Although the response was poor, I still encourage each class member to get involved and attend regular class meetings."

Bryant concluded.

The other freshman class officers elected Friday were Faye Foster, vice-president; Michelle Huntley, secretary; James Cook, treasurer; and Luana Goodall, Miss Freshman.

Toby Bryant Unhappy With Turnout

Bryant was disappointed in the turn out of the student legislature meeting. He said that the next meeting will be held Monday, October 3, at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Room 212. He added that representatives missing meetings unexcused will be determined from the organization.

Gospel Groups Perform At A&T

By Albert Leach

Voices of Peace, The A&T Fellowship Gospel Choir, The Angelic Gospel Singers and The Gospel Keynotes and many more groups performed in Moore Gym Friday night.

Because of the death of their mother, the Walter Hawkins family did not appear but there was a special prayer said in her honor before the performances began.

"The Voices of Peace" from Durham was the first choir to perform singing "Revive us Again," "Rejoice," and "Praise Our Name."

The A&T Fellowship Gospel Choir which consisted of 55 members performed next singing, "America the Beautiful," as its first selection.

The best part of the gospel concert began with the Angelic Gospel Singers of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The Angelic Gospel Singers' selections were "I Hope It Don't Be This Way Always," "Touch Me Lord Jesus," "Jesus will Never Say No," "I Got to Move" and "Bound for Mt. Zion."

One of the Angelic Gospel Singers wrote, "We love all the people of Greensboro. May God Bless you all." The Angelic Gospel Singers J. McDowell, M. Wallison and B. Coie.

Last but not at all least, were the Gospel Keynotes from Tyler, Texas. Three of the Gospel Keynotes are from Greensboro. They are Val Alexander, lead guitarist; Geno Smith, baritone; and Clayton Studevart, valet.

The group has received two gold albums for "Ride the Ship to Zion," and their latest album "Tonight's the Night."

Even though the stars of the show were unable to make the gospel concert, it turned out to be a big success.

Running Off At The Mouth

Just when this reporter was beginning to give A&T's football players credit for having a little common sense, a report, by another staff member disillusioned that thought.

It is a well-known fact that, when the football players lived in Scott C, they often chose at random a female walking by to degrade publicly. This, according to them, was their way of helping the females better themselves.

Since these athletes moved to Kent Court, they had been basically quiet. The most uncouth incident heard of involving these males until Sunday was their forming their line outside the cafeteria.

It was reported that Sunday in the cafeteria some of the football players chose one female to make a spectacle. Thus, they once again lived up to the image that most people have of athletes already. That is, all muscles but no brains.

Nobody has to degrade these football players because they do it to themselves. All they do is run off at the mouth off the field when so far they have not been able to win one game on the field.

Drivers Will Not Stop

By Margaret L. Brown

Have you ever tried to use the crosswalks on Laurel and Bluford Streets? Well, you may find it impossible because some of the drivers will not stop.

Could it be that the drivers don't know they are supposed to stop? This reporter believes that the driver's manual says that pedestrians always have the right-of-way.

Even when it's raining, the drivers do not take into consideration the students' health. A majority of these drivers are students. Yet, they can complain about parking spaces and the towing system.

This reporter would like to advise student drivers to park their cars in one place, and walk across campus to classes. This will save them gas and time.

Although these streets are not the property of A&T, drivers should respect the right of others.

Last semester, some of the campus policemen took it upon themselves to direct traffic during the changing of classes. This semester, let's attempt to correct this problem by not being in a hurry and obeying the law.

Voice Your Opinions

By Catherine Speller

In past years, life was simple. When equipment was broken or needed repairing, repairmen were called and everything was soon restored to working condition. It seems like today, however, that repairs won't ever get done around campus.

The main reason is that, before anything can be repaired, a repair request must first be filed with the physical plant. When the request has been officially made, all the red tape actually begins. This reporter, along with many other students, has experienced broken windows, leaky facets, shortages in light switches, broken washers and dryers.

The broken washer problem is one that is felt by all students, especially those with no means of transportation to go off campus to do laundry. We, as students, feel that the condition of the washers and other room maintenance problems should receive top priority with the administration and the physical plant.

Why should we have to suffer two months or more without washers and dryers until someone assigns maintenance personnel jobs for the week? This reporter feels that students should voice their complaints in their dorms, around campus, and to the administration in order to speed up some of the ridiculous red tape involved in a simple repair job.

Holland Seeks Meeting With Coach Mckinley

Editor's Note: The following letter was written by Coy Holland to Head Football Coach Jim Mckinley. It was recently reported that Holland had quit the football team.

This letter is in reference to our conversation on August 6, concerning my status as a player on the N.C. A&T State University football team. In your statements, you implied that I was to be moved from defensive tackle to offensive guard. Also you confronted me with the ultimatum of playing this position and this position only; if not, I would not be a member of the team. In our conversation I stated that I was once a tight end, then moved to a defensive tackle which was a new position; now after one ball game you want to move me once again to another new position (offensive guard).

I talked to you as a young man should attempting to relate to his coach. I commented that I felt I would not be able to give the team my total efforts and ability at that position. You, in reliance, stated I would have to play that position or no position at all.

I have tried to talk this over with you several times but it seems as though you are not willing to give me a chance to prove to you that I can play another position other than offensive guard and give the team my total efforts and be more helpful to the team. I even went so far as to try this position and found it to be very uncomfortable which I tried to talk to you about and you would not listen.

I did not quit the team, as you or someone has informed the media. I do not think this treatment is fair to me as a football player, as a student or as a fellow human being. I am not a quitter and I feel this is a violation of my rights. I am willing to play and give my total efforts as a tight end, where I made all MEAC second team or defensive tackle where I worked all spring and began the season.

It seems to me all I am asking is that my feelings be given some consideration in the matter. If we cannot get together as coach and player concerning this matter, I will have to turn it over to higher authorities.

I would appreciate a conference concerning this immediately.

Satisfaction Not Guaranteed

Editor of The Register:

Some say that we complain excessively about the troubles which surround us. Others tell us to look around, things are getting better.

I, however, cannot be content, and can't see how others can be also. It's like asking for a bed and not getting the mattress. No, it is not satisfactory. Neither is it reasonable to ask for exterminators to rid dorms of moths, roaches, and ants, and placate ourselves with empty promises.

True, students do not and cannot keep above par sanitary conditions. But does this give A&T the right to turn a blind ear to a civil request? Does this give any one the right to hinder the right to education by providing sub-standard living quarters?

Should we be forced to constantly interrupt valuable study time to swat, or stomp at elusive pests that can be easily controlled. Yes, friends these are but a few of the problems that we must face daily. You have a right to your opinion; complain.

Student Labels Campus Mood Apathetic

Editor of The Register:

In Tuesday's Edition of The Register an editorial entitled "A&T . . . Party School" stated "the atmosphere that permeates the campus these days is one of a serious mood." This statement was not quite to the point; the words should read "a pathetic mood."

As a sophomore, I find that this semester thus far, has been quite boring as far as school spirit and general participation is concerned. On-campus social functions have been limited to almost none. This time last year numerous block parties and discos were held. How many on-campus discos have you been to "this" year? Even the Holland Bowl activities are not drawing the masses they did last year.

I simply ask what's wrong, Aggies? Granted, we are all hitting the books, but we've suffered some major losses in many areas this year. There is "no" reason for us to be as nonchalant as we are.

Aggies, a final plea . . . get involved . . . let's bring our campus back together before this apathetic mood gets worse. And also let's show a little more "support, . . . and "spirit" because things could be worse.

The Program of the Year isn't on TV. It's in the Air Force ROTC.

Look into Air Force ROTC. And there are 4-year, 3-year, or 2-year programs to choose from. Whichever you select, you'll leave college with a commission as an Air Force officer. With opportunities for a position with responsibility . . . challenge . . . and, of course, financial rewards and security.

The courses themselves prepare you for leadership positions ahead. Positions as a member of an aircrew . . . or as a missile launch officer . . . positions using mathematics . . . sciences . . . engineering.

Females Get New Dress Wear

By Richard B. Steele
The Air Force Uniform Board has authorized the optional pantsuit slacks and the lengthened overblouse to women cadets. According to Air Force

Capt. L. Davis, there are at present seven initial sets of uniforms. The balance of uniforms will be received during the month of October.

A definite date has been established by the Military Clothing Sales Office. The uniforms were purchased at $33 each from the AF Base in Pope, N.C. Approximately 100 cadets will receive new uniforms.

The cadets' impressions of the new uniforms were most favorable. As one cadet put it, "I can hardly wait" to try them on.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Archie Bass

Saturday night turned out to be a horrible, realistic dream for Jim McKinley and the Aggie gridironers as they were physically bombarded and completely mentally humiliated by S.C. State.

The lopsided score of 52-0 was in no way indicative of the trouncing defeat. "They just physically man-handled our defense up front," said a dejected McKinley.

S.C. State's offensive line opened up gigantic holes for its talented backfield of Burgess, Anderson, and Rivers, big enough to drive a big transfer truck through.

McKinley paced the side-lines with constant thought of total embarrassment and shame, that led him to say, "We are going to have to do something defensively."

Willie Jeffries, without question, has his team geared up to win another MEAC championship and the Mutual Black Network crown.

Around the city of Orangeburg, Jeffries is respected highly as an individual and as a coach. The television stations in South Carolina are all aware of his popularity; therefore, he makes commercials.

And, believe me, anywhere you go throughout the cities in S.C., the name of Willie Jeffries holds fame.

It was quite obvious Saturday night that Jeffries ran up the score on purpose. Jeffries didn't "call off the dogs" at any point in the game.

Even at half-time with the Aggies trailing 30-0, Jeffries came out the second half with blood in his eyes. Once again, he sent the "big boys" to work, trying to brutally crush the young Aggies.

Strange as it may seem, Jeffries tossed the ball only once before his offensive unit went on a romp, and fifteen times after the game was out of reach.

Maybe he thought that his Bulldogs were cheated last year in Greensboro. That was their lone defeat; but, anyway his thought of being robbed a year ago left blood in his eyes.

If there's any doubt in your mind about S.C. State's No. 1 ranking, erase it. State's team this year is ready for the "big boys"-Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame and the like.

If there's any question in your mind about S.C. State's romping us, McKinley has already answered your question. "They are a better football team than we are without question."

Billy Hayes welcomed McKinley to North Carolina football and Willie Jeffries welcomed him to South Carolina football; but, before the season is over, McKinley "might" have something to say. Well...Bethune Cookman is next and McKinley says they are a better team than S.C. State. Will the Aggies end the turmoil of embarrassment by defeating Bethune Cookman? Make your own decision, mine is already made!

Bulldogs Crush Aggies 52-0

By Craig Turner

Ever have one of those days when everything that will go wrong will? Well, A&T had that kind of feeling Saturday; and everything went wrong in a stunning 52-0 loss to South Carolina State.

A crowd near 13,000 looked on in Orangeburg, S.C., as the top-ranked Bulldogs rampaged their way through a bewildered Aggie defense.

The bulk of the damage was done by way of the running game. The State veer gathered over 150 yards on the ground.

A&T opened the game with what appeared to be a strong drive that saw the Aggies move inside State's forty before stalling.

It took only ten plays for Willie Jeffries club to strike. The big play was Ricky Anderson's 30 yard touchdown jaunt with 4:39 to play in the initial quarter.

Following an A&T fumble on the next series, State moved 18 yards in five plays with Nate Rivers scoring from two yards out early in the second quarter.

The Aggie offense received another blow on the next series when Ellsworth Turner's deflected pass was picked off by Dexter Clinckscales at the A&T 30.

This time All-MEAC halfback Charlie Burgers went to work as he shook free on a five-yard touchdown run to run the score to a 21-0 margin with over eleven minutes of the first half left to play.

Malcolm Montgomery added a 25-yard field goal, while Burgers and Anderson added two more touchdowns for a 38-0 lead and for all intent, the game as well.

State returned the same favor in the third quarter on touchdowns again by Burgess and Anderson to up the final count to 52-0.

"The score was indicative of what happened," remarked a dejected Jim McKinley. "I've never seen a team go through what we just have. Just about everything that could go wrong did."

McKinley was asked if Jeffries had decided to run up a large score on A&T because of last season's 15-14 win by A&T in a hotly contested game here in Greensboro.

"I was really surprised by the fact that he inserted his first string when we threatened them in the second half. We played very poorly and they played extremely well. That's one reason the gap was so wide," he stated.

McKinley, although visibly upset, was optimistic afterward. I still believe we have a quality places, and only five seniors on this squad."

"I can't believe that only five seniors came in with (Ellsworth) Turner. Sure, we've got great seniors, but five out of eighty guys is no picnic," he said.

The former Central State coach expressed the belief that several freshmen will see action against Bethune-Cookman this coming Saturday.

"Many will start for us, and we'll play as many people as the situation will allow us to," he remarked.

Howell Enters First Year As Assistant Director

By Archie Bass

With 27 years in athletics at A&T, Hornsby Howell enters his first year as assistant director of athletics.

Under the supervision of the director of athletics, Cal Irvin, the assistant director will provide help with the planning, development, coordination, and management of the administrative and program activities in the Intercollegiate Athletics Department.

As you enter Howell's office in the Memorial Union, you will find located on his desk, a picture of former coach Matthew Brown. By Coach Matthew Brown not being here last year, it really hurt," said Howell. "He was a dear friend and some kind of man. He coached me in college and he was a heck of a coach."

In nine seasons as head football coach at A&T, Howell compiled an impressive 54-34-3 record.

But now, football coaching is over for Hornsby Howell and the assistant athletic director embraces another responsibility.

"The hardest thing about my job is being sure that I'm able to help the student athlete grow, and help the coaches in any way possible," said Howell.

One of the responsibilities stressed highly by Howell was his duty to communicate with the student athlete concerning academics.

Making arrangements for traveling for both male and female athletics, serving as executive secretary of the Aggie Booster Club, and collaborating with the appropriate University officials to assure that the eligibility of each student athlete conforms to University, Conference, and NCAA regulations are the responsibilities that rest on the shoulders of Howell.

Winston-Salem Edges Central

By Archie Bass

The college football season entered the third big week of gridironing last weekend with relatively few surprises.

The Winston-Salem Rams, the spoilers so far in both the MEAC and CIAA, edged North Carolina Central, 21-13.

Elsewhere, in the SWAC, Grambling blasted Morgan St., 35-19. Morgan State was the pre-season favorite to battle tough S.C. State for the MEAC championship.

Alcorn got on the winning track after being completely destroyed by Grambling a week ago by shutting out Alabama St., 15-7.

Bethune-Cookman, coming off an upset to Texas Southern, bumped off Livingstone by a surprised margin of 14-7.

In other CIAA action, Virginia State crushed Elizabeth City State 31-12, and Hampton Institute, after a crushing defeat to Winston-Salem, bombed Shaw University, 32-7.

Tennessee St. got things rolling again defeating always tough Alabama A&M, 23-10.

Morris Brown, who were victims last week of Central State, cranked the machine up against Tuskegee and demolished them, 30-7.

Vaugh Instructs Class In Japanese Karate

By Sam Lomax

You've probably noticed from time to time some people running around campus in karate uniforms. Well, they are pupils of a Japanese style of karate called Goju-ryu. This is one of two forms of Martial Arts offered at A&T.

The head sensei (instructor) is Ms. Patricia Vaughn, who has taken the place of Gilbert Casterlow. The assistant instructors are Samuel Casterlow and Willie Hairston. When asked to define exactly what Goju-ryu was, Ms. Vaughn replied, "Goju-ryu is actually the hard-soft way or style of karate."

Assistant Samuel Casterlow was asked if he thought that Goju-ryu was an effective form of karate and overall self-defense. He replied, "I think Goju-ryu is very effective because it has proven itself in tournament situations, self-defense, physical and mental fitness and alertness." Casterlow went on to say "Ms. Vaughn has won trophies in every belt division in the history of A&T's Goyu-ryu class."

Unlike Tae Kwon Do, Goyu-ryu places its emphasis on 70 percent hand techniques and 30 percent leg techniques.

guess that's why I like my job" stated Howell. "I like doing things that will be productive for young people."

Howell noted that, for every sport that concerns A & T, eligibility reports are done in advance. "We are now doing baseball and track eligibility reports," aid Howell.

Says Howell, "I'm responsible for doing anything to help the athletic program prosper, grow and develop."

He has tutored some of professional football's greatest players and is dedicated not only to building athletes but the total man who will be able to cope with today's complex society.
