"COMPLETE AWARENESS FOR COMPLETE COMMITMENT"

VOLUME XLIX NUMBER 12 NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY GREENSBORO, N. C. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1977

Board Meets To Discuss Bookkeeping Problems

By Margaret Brown

"We are pleased to note that the audit report did not report any funds missing," said Otis Tillman, acting chairman of the A&T board of trustees in a budget and finance committee meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the fiscal affairs and bookkeeping problems found in the auditors' report.

Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy announced that he has taken a step to correct the problem by establishing a special task force consisting of Marshall Bass, chairman of the budget and finance committee; Worth Keypley of the state auditor's staff who participated in the audit; Bruce Harrington of the division of state budget and management; Hugh Buchan, associate vice president-finance of the General Administration of the University of North Carolina; and Dr. Otis Tillman.

"This special task force is familiar with our institution and with the legal administrative requirements of the framework within this institution," said Dowdy. "This group will work on developing a positive response to the specific audit expectations that were noted in the report."

The $17,000 paid to Zeigler out of state funds for sick leave will be replaced by special non-state funds, said Dowdy.

Dowdy continued, "No one is more interested than I in the specific identification of these problems and their resolution."

"The audit report didn't point to specific personnel but to various areas," said Dowdy. Tillman said some of the problems that auditors identified last year had been corrected.

Dowdy said, "I have no criticism of the media for directing these problems to the community and the State because this is a state supported institution spending taxpayers' dollars."

When the question, was asked was the audit fair, Tillman responded, "I feel that the audit was fair. It just got played up too much by the media."

Register Gets New Equipment

By Robert E. Beasley

The A&T Register will soon enter the world of computerized technology in phototypesetting with a system called the Compugraphic EditWriter 7500.

The 7500 unit will replace the modern, but worn, IBM Magnetic Tape Selectric Typewriter (MTST) composer now in use.

The EditWriter differs from the IBM unit in that it is a phototypesetting machine.

Limitless in its capabilities, the EditWriter can be programmed to execute functions ranging from regular news copy to headlines and advertisements. Unlike its predecessor, the EditWriter has a video display terminal which allows the operator to proofread any displayed copy before it is set.

Computerized phototypesetting has

"The new dormitory is now in the semi-planning stage. There are no final plans, design or a firm location for the new dormitory," said Dr. Marshall.

All capitol improvements such as residence halls must be approved by the State and the Board of Trustees. These additional improvements will be paid for out of student fees. The new dorm has not been decided as to whether it will be exclusively male or female. The new dorm may be coed. It will accommodate approximately 450 to 500 persons.

It has been said that a new female dormitory is in the near future plans of A&T's construction. Dr. J.E. Marshall, vice chancellor for student affairs, found this statement to be not quite accurate.

Peppers To Serve As Language Consultant

By Maxine McNeill

"I'm not at all amazed by the number of Johnnys who can't read; I'm surprised by the number who can." That statement was made by Wallace Peppers in response to Morris Kline's book "Why Johnny Can't Read."

Peppers has been chosen to serve as Linguistic Consultant for the Conference on Problems which will be held at the Hilton Inn October 10-14. he will address an audience composed of speech, hearing and reading teachers in the Division of Youth Services of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources. Peppers plans to speak on the illiteracy question, among others.

Dean Shaw Addresses Teachers

By Delilah Perkins

The Student Teaching conference was established for students to enable them to become acquainted with their co-operating teachers before starting student teaching. The program was sponsored by SNEA and the department of education.

The visiting teachers were from Reidsville, High Point and Boscoe.

S.J. Shaw, dean of Education, greeted the audience and stated, "that all of us have something to learn, that is institutional cooperation is very essential in student teaching. If there is any place in the world for us as student teachers, let it begin with us, as teachers."

"The student teacher learns the most when he pays close attention to his own self-development," stated Dr. Shaw.

Dr. F.W. Jones, co-ordinator of student teaching, spoke on three subjects, school placement, calendar, and evaluation. There are 38 student teachers placed in a fifty-mile radius. They begin their practicum on October 10 and return on December 9. There will be nine weeks of student teaching.

The evaluation will be based on the following: application of academic and professional knowledge; control of the classroom; professional abilities and personal and social characteristics.

Blacks Receive Charge For Slayings Of Five

SMITHFIELD - Murder indictments against two Black men in the slayings of a Four Oaks policeman and a Benson truck driver could be quashed if defense attorneys persuade the judge that Blacks were excluded from the grand jury at returned the charges.

David E. Stewart, 26, and James H. Smith, Jr., 29, both of Benson, are charged in the slayings of Dennis W. Allen, 24, a rookie Four Oaks policeman, and Linwood Lee Johnson, 51, a truck driver from Benson.

The killings were June 3, two days after the legislature enacted a new death penalty law. It was the first capital crime to fall under the new law.

The case has drawn interest from civil rights activists and death penalty opponents. Stewart's attorney is Jerry Paul, who defended Joan Little in the stabbing of a jailer. Smith is being represented by Charles L. Becton, who was involved in the Wilmington 10 case.

In a hearing Thursday, L. J. Worthington, 75, chairman of

Thornton Releases Proposal For Homecoming Dinner

By Bonnie B. Newman

Mrs. Laura Thornton, director of food services, has released a proposed menu which she feels "will add to the homecoming '77 festivities."

To take place in Williams cafeteria Thursday, October 13 is the special homecoming dinner which will precede the coronation of Miss A&T. From 3:30 p.m. until 6:00 p.m., this dinner will consist of barbecued ribs, baked chicken, country style steak, and an array of other vegetables, desserts, and beverages.

Hot dogs, prepared by SGA, will be served at the bonfire, Friday, October 14.

Following the pre-dawn dance, a pre-dawn breakfast will be served in the cafeteria at 5:00 a.m. Saturday, October 15. The menu will include ham, sausage, eggs, grits and cereal. Also pop tarts cheese, hot biscuits, toast coffee, tea, juices, and milk will be served.

help from those who know, said the three-year veteran English professor. "They don't do this. This is partly the fault of the linguists because they haven't developed communications with others."

Peppers who emphasizes to his classes "you should wear your language the way you do your clothes," said that sometimes when teachers are supposed to be teaching children to read, they teach the word phonetics instead.

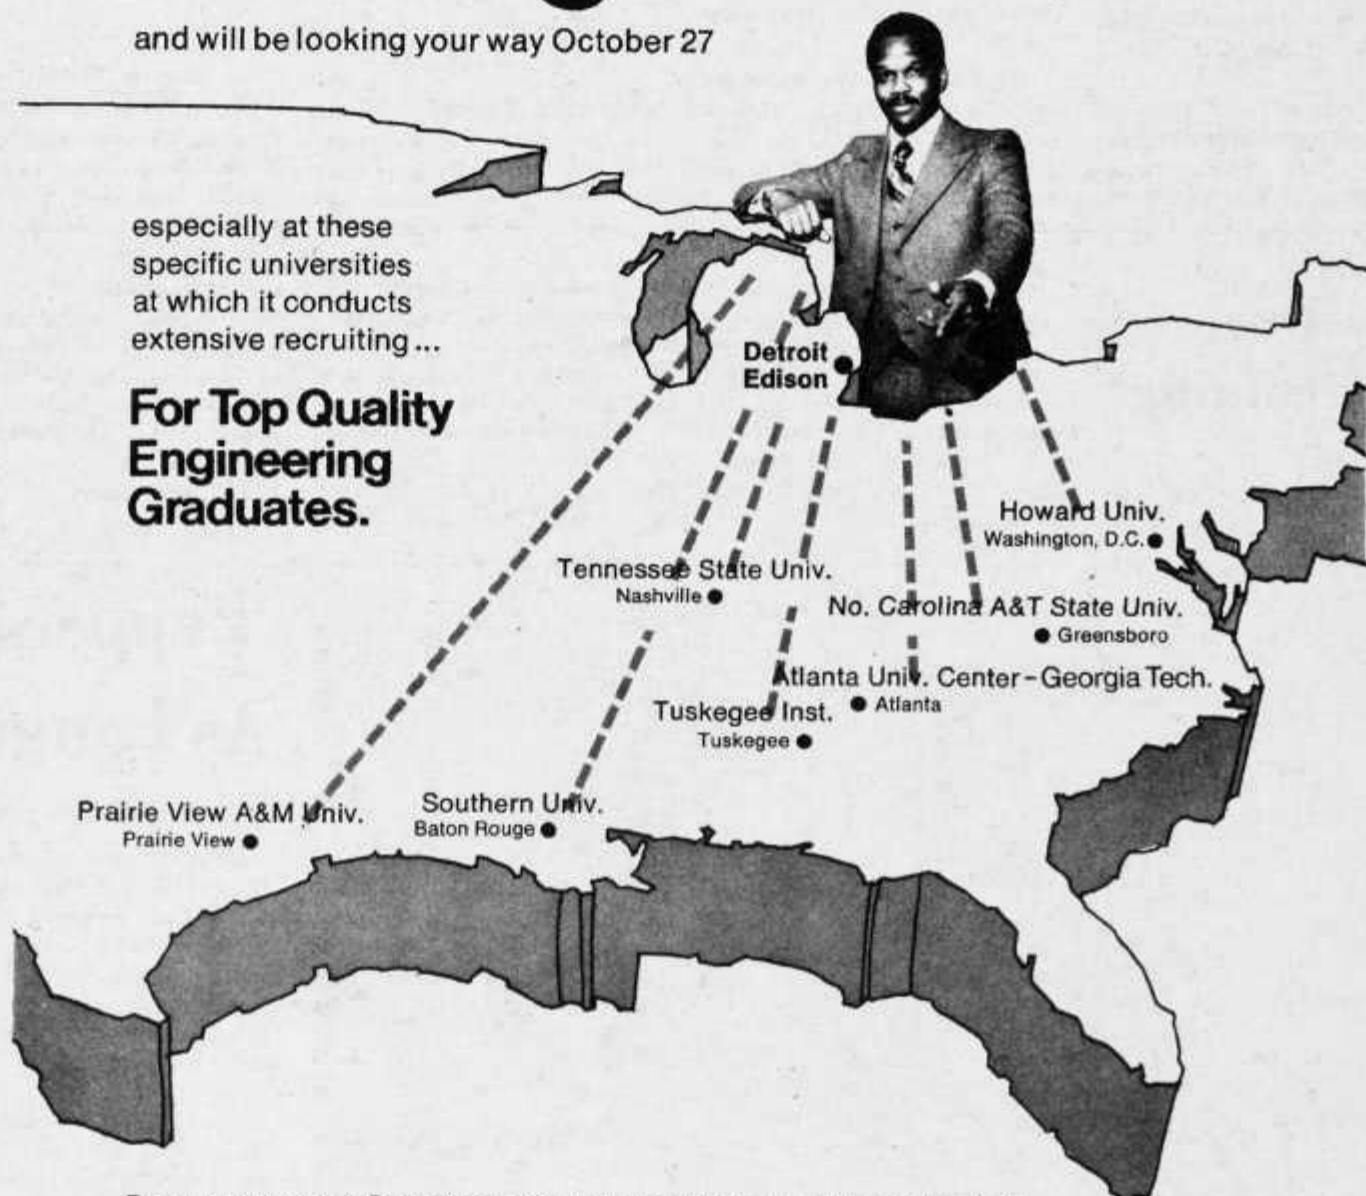

According to Peppers, "teachers do not know enough about the individual differences to teach reading." Also, one method of teaching reading will not work for everybody.

Peppers received his undergraduate and master degrees from UNC-CH. He is presently completing his dissertation in linguistics at the university.

Although special menu items have been featured for past homecoming events, Mrs. Thornton said students will be delighted with this year's food preparations.

Newell Speaks At Health Fair

By Delilah Perkins

The Health Fair was an all-day program concluding at 6 p.m. with a discussion by Dr. McArthur Newell.

The topic of discussion was the proper use of contraceptives such as pills, diaphragms, jellies, cremes, and condoms. The overall discussion was geared toward young men and women who had questions concerning contraceptives and also descriptions of the various diseases that women have before sexual relationships and after.

Questions concerning problem pregnancy and how it affects both men and women were discussed. Women and men both need to know the types of contraceptives that are essential to them before engaging in intimate relationships.

Dr. Newell stated that "the more one knows about the functions and needs of your body, the more one is able to care for and protect it," also, Newell added that the male role is essential in his needing to know the correct method in using contraceptives.

Newell, is a graduate of A&T and a member of the Mu Psi Chapter. His office is located on East Bessemer Avenue.

The Leach Line

By Albert Leach

Homecoming has been one of the most looked forward to events at A&T.

Many students would probably like to know what homecoming activities were like nine years ago.

Starting in 1968, homecoming activities included such events as the Black Arts Festival and a talent show. Various other events included a saying from Rev. Really called "The Good Thing."

Then, in 1969, the Aggies got a chance to sing and dance to the tunes of the Delfonics. This was before the Aggies had a chance to get off with pre-dawn's guest Carla Thomas.

Now, moving to 1970, the Aggies jammed to the sounds of the "King of Soul," James Brown. This event also included James Brown's band and dancers.

Homecoming 1971 was A&T's step forward as far as homecoming events are concerned. The Richard B. Harrison Players performed "The King and I," which included a cast of 50 persons. There were also the annual homecoming parade and the Alumni Ball at the coliseum exhibition hall.

The 1973 events were not as open as the 1971 events but the students got off to the Funkadelics and Black (See The Leach Line Page 5)

Fashstep Models To Sponsor Workshop

By Sheila Williams

The Fashstep Models of A&T State University will be sponsoring a workshop this Sunday, October 9, in the Student Union, Room 213, at 2:00 p.m.

The models are a non-profit organization, with group activities which include exposure to the proper use of make-up, hairstyling, clothing co-ordination, posture, physical hygiene and proper etiquette.

Dot Timmons, a sophomore, said, "I feel that the models should have confidence and try to look their best. I am participating in this organization as a stepping stone hopefully into professional modeling or an acting career."

"A young lady asked me to join, and it's something new which more men should get into," says Freddie Nix, one of the freshmen male models. He says that more men should come out and participate in the organization.

J.C. Presley from the Psychology Department at A&T is advisor. Officers are Marvin Willoughby, president; Patricia Stover, vice-president; Brenda Jefferson, secretary and Janice Frink, treasurer.

Press Distorts A&T Issue

As usual, A&T is in the news and that warrants negative publicity. We hate to present the image that we've paranoid but it always seems that way.

Last Friday, when the press conference was held to give reporters a chance to talk with Matthew King, business manager, concerning the audit report on A&T, King asked them a very interesting question. He asked them if they planned to give any other school the attention A&T received. One reporter said if any other school's audit report looked like A&T's that they would.

With the past comments concerning why A&T should merge with UNC-Greensboro, it seems that our brothers and sisters of the diverged culture have great timing. Every year they rack their brains out thinking up comments that would embarrass A&T.

Maybe some of you feel that this newspaper contributes to A&T's negative publicity. In a sense, maybe it does.

Though we are at times critical of the administration, we feel it's our prerogative. Unlike the other presses, we want to see A&T prosper. We want A&T to remain A&T forever.

The issues we report on are detrimental to the university family. They need to be discussed.

Admittedly, it does appear that the presses oriented from the diverged culture do want to see A&T become UNC-G west campus, but we do not. We, along with countless others on this campus, want always to be able to visit our "roots" in their original state.

Apathy Dominates Homecoming

Editor of The Register:

In the past, apathy has been like a second skin to a number of students on A&T's campus. Well, once again apathy is being donned as the homecoming festivities for 1977 approach.

Various comments as to this year's activities are constantly being heard. Even though a number of students are happily anticipating homecoming, there are still those "party-poopers" that express indifference, dissatisfaction, or a general "I-don't-care" attitude about the whole affair.

Then again, to look at these same students, one sees those that constantly complain that "Nothing is ever happening at A&T."

For once these students have been proven wrong in saying that nothing ever happens at A&T.

The efficient handling of homecoming arrangements by the Student Government Association should convince any student that his/her peace of mind is of vital concern to the Student Government; and, that homecoming '77, "Coming Home With A Touch of Class," is indeed worth checking out. Also the special purchase of ticket books at $5 for all events leaves nothing to be desired.

With such noted guests on campus as Dr. Pouissant, Melba Moore, and several other well-known performing artists, students should not show apathy towards these guests.

Aggies should be grateful that homecoming is an event to be looked forward to this year.

The skin of apathy should be shed with students' getting out there and participating in all or as many activities as possible! By doing so students will be showing alumni that they are indeed "Coming home with a touch of class!"

Bonnie Newman

A&T Loses Community Appeal

Editor of The Register:

What's happening to A&T?

"A&T, A&T," this was once the cry of every Black high school senior. Lately, this cry has begun to diminish from the lips of the community. I would like to know why.

A&T was once a strong institution, recognized throughout the nation. Gradually, A&T has been seen losing its academic significance who is to blame? The board of admissions? The administrative department or the students themselves?

I would first like to attack the students. We, the students of A&T have a responsibility of maintaining the academic standards of this school. Many of us were accepted into this university with deficiencies, deficiencies which we are committed to clear up by means of tutorial assistance or other means designated by departments. Many of us are not living up to our commitments making our university look bad as a whole.

I say to you "If you're not going to work, go home". In other words "shape up, or ship out!" When we receive diplomas in our various fields, this indicates that we have completed and received satisfactory works in all the courses required of us by that particular school.

If we fail to attain the knowledge which was laid out, it's no one's fault but our own.

When we leave this campus, the impression we display to the public is reflected upon the school which we claim to love so dearly....A&T.

It is said, you can tell a tree by the fruit it bears....what kind of tree is A&T?

I don't mean to sound hypocritical, but does it not upset you that our college rating is much lower than UNC-G's? You can do something about that.

I am very much concerned about how the public will accept me and my fellow classmates when we graduate from The outside world is literally "blind to individuality." One bad apple could spoil the whole bunch!

It's up to each and everyone of us to strive to attain the best possible average and to develop strong personality traits to display to the outside world.

Remember Our Motto

By Sheila Williams

Is A&T really losing its quality, significance and importance as one of the best predominantly Black schools in the state? This reporter often wonders, with so many "problems" seemingly occurring on campus.

The media in the area are blowing incident after incident all out of proportion.

A&T's audit situation has become ridiculous. The media gave front and inside pages about the fact that A&T was using state funds to pay an "ill" employee. And, yet, when there is something important sponsored on campus, such as a speaker or featured guests, we get inside news so small it has to be deciphered with a microscope.

This reporter often ponders over the thought of who is behind the destruction of A&T. A&T State University is a very important school to many of us. We chose to come to a predominantly Black school; we were not forced. A&T must be performing some great cause for "these people" to want to destroy what we are accomplishing.

But there is our motto which this reporter feels that we should carry in our battle to the end: "I'm an Aggie born and an Aggie bred; and when I die, I'll be an Aggie dead."

Alumni Support Homecoming

By Sheila Williams

The A&T State University Alumni Association is once again sponsoring an array of activities for returning alumni.

"A&T has one of the best homecomings in this area of the country, and this year participation has increased significantly" said Joseph D. Williams, Sr., director of alumni affairs here at A&T. He feels that this year will be the best homecoming ever.

"In fact one of the headquarters for the alumni had already been booked solid three months in advance," said Williams.

This year there will be no inducting of new Hall of Famers, but instead there will be a Reunion Roast honoring all present members. Since the new football stadium is scheduled for completion by the fall of 1978, they will wait until then to enshrine any additional selectees into the A&T Sports Hall of Fame.

Williams said, "parents of our students are welcomed to attend all alumni events. "You don't have to be an alumnus or an alumna to attend."

The information centers for the alumni will be located at the Hilton Inn and the Royal Villa.

Ivory. That year's activities included a Mardi Gras which was held in the National Guard Armory.

As far as 1975 was concerned, there were performances from Mint Bant, The Controllers, Bloodstone, Parliament, Funkadelics, The Magnificents, The Majors, The Dynamic Superiors, and Donald Byrd and the Blackbyrds.

The movie "Texas Chain Saw Massacre" was shown in Harrison Auditorium before the pre-dawn show. The 1975 homecoming gave students a variety of music and activities to choose from.

The 1976 homecoming activities included Tavares and many jazz groups. Students complained that homecoming 1976 was very defunct.

This year's homecoming will present C.J. & Company, Michael Henderson, Undisputed Truth, Ronnie Laws, and Crown Heights Affair.

It is expected to be the best Homecoming A&T has presented in the past two years.

Three SUAB Members Attend Conference

By Terrence Marable

Mrs. Margaret Faust and three students from the Student Union Advisory Board attended the Southeastern Regional meeting of the National Entertainment and Campus Activities Association (NECAA) Conference in Charleston, S.C.

The three students, Terrence Marable, George Gore, and Chester Bobo, and Mrs. Faust were at the conference Oct. 1-4.

The group was exposed to many forms of entertainment such as bands, dance groups, hypnotist and so forth. While at the conference the group was informed of a new copyright law that is trying to eliminate entertainment on campus sponsored by student organizations such as the Student Government Association and the Student Union Advisory Board.

Many sessions were held to inform students how to present successful events on their campuses.

Margaret Faust
SUAB Advisor

Although A&T was the only Black school represented at the conference, many things were learned about improving the social life at Black institutions.

The challenge.

This is a cryptogram, a form of code language, where letters of the alphabet stand for other letters of the alphabet. For instance, the words "A CAT" in a cryptogram might be "Q TQL," the "Q" always standing for "A," the "T" for "C," and the "L" for "T." Your challenge is to break the code of the cryptogram below, and discover its hidden message.

Occupancy Rate To Determine Need For Dorm

Depending upon the rate of occupancy, the new dorm may be delayed even longer because of the ever increasing number of students moving off campus. There is no great need for a new residence hall as long as there are vacant rooms throughout the campus.

Feature plans include completion of Murphy Hall (offices on the second floor) to provide additional services for the students. Special services offices will be relocated and services expanded to more students.

Office Functions As Mail Room

Richard Steele

The question has been raised countless times, "why there any student services in the campus Post Office."

Benjamin Wilson, campus post office clerk, "The post office functions not as such, but rather as a mail room servicing administration, faculty, and staff. It is under the title University Mail Center which is under the department of the physical plant." Students have assumed the mail center was a facility where stamps, envelopes, and money orders could be purchased, but such is not the case. The only student services offered are the collection of mail with incorrect addresses and insured parcel post packages.

The campus bookstore provides a stamp machine in which a quarter buys two $.10 stamps; the student loses five cents. This machine is serviced by the campus bookstore.

Wilson has submitted monthly reports to the physical plant, for the past year, requests for stamps to sell to students.

Also requests have been made to the Computer Center for a dormitory roster of the entire student body. These requests have not been granted.

Regarding the request for stamps, Gerard Gray, director of the physical plant, said, "The administration has not decided to do so at this time."

Keeping in mind that the University mailcenter (campus post office) is not a student facility, the best students can do is wait on the administration.

Wilson would like to ask students for their cooperation in addressing mail properly. By placing the correct return address on outgoing mail, the mail will reach its destination and received mail will not end up in the "dead mail" pile.

Attention! Freshmen Political Science majors, there will be a meeting at Hodgin Hall Room 303 on October 20. Please be present.

The deadline for removing incompletes received during the Spring Semester or Summer Session 1977 is Friday, October 14. A student does not have to be currently enrolled in order for this deadline to be applicable. University policy provides for an incomplete to become an "F" if it is not removed within the specified period.

Dr. Marion Phillips, recruiter for UNC-State Medical School, will be in Barnes Hall, Room 202, Thursday, October 13.

The yearbook office would like for all eligible upperclassmen who did not receive their yearbooks last semester to come by and get them. Approximately 1200 yearbooks are still left. If students do not get them, they will be sold during homecoming week.

Dr. Alvin Poussaint, a prominent Harvard psychiatrist, will be guest speaker at fall convocation Wednesday, October 12, at 10 a.m. in Moore Gym.

Council Advises Program Concerning Fellowships

The National Research Council will again advise the National Science Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation's program of Graduate Fellowships. Panels of eminent scientists and engineers appointed by the national Research Council will evaluate qualifications of applicants. Final selection of Fellows will be made by the Foundation, with awards to be announced in March 1978.

Initial NSF Graduate Fellowship awards are intended for students at or near the beginning of their graduate study. Eligibility is limited to those individuals who, as of the time of application, have not completed postbaccalaureate study in excess of 18 quarter hours or 12 semester hours, or equivalent. Subject to the availability of funds, new fellowships awarded in the Spring of 1978 will be for periods of three years, the second and third years contingent on certification to the Foundation by the fellowship institution of the student's satisfactory progress toward an advanced degree in science.

Applicants will be required to take the Graduate Record Examinations designed to test aptitude and scientific achievement. The examinations, administered by the Educational Testing Service, will be given December 10 at designated centers throughout the United States and in certain foreign countries.

The deadline date for the submission of applications for NSF Graduate Fellowships is December 1. Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20418.

By Catherine Speller

The "77" parade line-up of floats, cars, bands, groups and other participants will form in back of Scott and Cooper hall parking lots on Laurel Street. The parade will start at 9:30 a.m. at the corner of Bluford and Laurel streets Saturday, October

The last day to register a vehicle or unit for the parade is Monday, October 10 before 5 p.m. Applications are to be filed in Captain Leslie Davis' office Department Aerospace Studies Campbell Hall.

When Captain Davis was asked about the route of the parade he said, "It's the same route that the parade followed last year."

For further information on registration for the parade, contact Captain Davis or Major Bobbie Chavis of the Department of Military Science located in Campbell Hall.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Archie Bass

Evidence of tremendous improvement by physically thrashing J.C. Smith, the Aggie gridgers once again prepare themselves for another CIAA battle.

Not only will Saturday afternoon be a regular Norfolk St.-Aggie classic, but homecoming for Norfolk St. That figures to provide exciting fire-works for both sides.

The Spartans are coming off a tough-luck defeat to league-leading Winston-Salem St., 21-14. The way Winston-Salem St. has been knocking and socking teams around, if the margin of defeat is indicative of how tough a team is, then Norfolk St. has to be classified as a "toughie" for the Aggies.

Just for the records, the Aggies have not yielded to the Spartans since 1967. However, a lot can happen in ten-years; and, fortunately for Norfolk St., it has. They, perhaps, are witnessing the total soundness of their football program this year after several years of "guys in uniforms."

But now—"big beefy athletes that can play football!"

Nagging injuries seem to have hit the Aggie gridironers this past-week leaving four key starters ailing. William Harvey, Clayton Pride, Calvin Hawkins, and Lucien Nibbs all are ailing and expect to see limited action.

Despite the injuries of key players on the offensive line, Jim McKinley figures to pass the ball a bit more. "This is the key game for us which decides whether or not we can possibly finish 8-3," stated McKinley.

Strong statements demand extra-extra, super-super efforts.

Strong...maybe he has confidence!

The Spartans have the beef to tackle the ancient Washington Redskins. They are engineered by tall Henry Sheldard 6'6", and hard-running Larue Harrington who, had a spectacular performance against Winston-Salem St.

"They are super-aggressive on defense and are very fast," said McKinley. "Their offensive line averages 250-260 pounds. I hope we can keep improving at the same rate that we have the last two games."

*****

The Aggies this weekend are out to make it two in a row, thus spoiling Norfolk State's homecoming. If there's nothing else to play for, the gridgers will be striving to hold on to their ten consecutive victories.

Homecomings are often spoiled and a spoiler this weekend could be in the making.

The Aggies are back, and spoiling festivities is a part of us. With this thought, I like the Aggie as spoilers this Saturday by 3 points.

See you on the 50-yard line!

Aggies Expect Stiff Competition

By Dennis Bryant

Several of the South's strongest women's collegiate volleyball teams will participate in the second annual UNC-Greensboro Invitational Volleyball Tournament scheduled for Oct. 7-8.

Ten teams representing three states and the District of Columbia have been invited to the two-day event, which began at noon Oct. 7 in Curry and Coleman gymnasiums on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Five of the teams were either nationally ranked or played in national tournaments last season. They were Duke, Wake Forest, High Point, University of Maryland and Louisburg Junior College. In addition, another entry, Mississippi University for Women, emerged as state champion.

The tournament will be divided into two sections. Teams in each section will play every other team in that pool. This competition within the two sections will begin at noon on Friday. The tournaments semi-finals will be at 7:30 p.m.; and the finals, at 9 p.m., both in Curry Gymnasium on Saturday. Admission will be charged to the tournament.

The tournament will include Duke University which finished first in Division I of the NCAIAW and first in the Region II of the AIAW. High Point College, which placed first in the NCAIAW Division II Small College Tournament and first among Region II Small Colleges in 1976, is ranked 12th nationally among small colleges.

Other entries are Louisburg Junior College, the top Junior College Division team in the state in 1976; Wake Forest, the No. 2 team in the NCAIAW Small College Division; University of Maryland, Maryland state champions; Mississippi University, Mississippi state powerhouse; Winthrop College, South Carolina State-runner-up; George Washington University, strong team in the District of Columbia; A&T State University and host, UNC-Greensboro.

A&T State University had a 15-11 record 1st year and finished fourth in Division III of the NCAIAW in 1976. The Aggies are presently 4-2 this year with victories over Queens College, Bennett College, Winston-Salem State University and UNC-Charlotte.

The Aggies, under Coach Sue Kascher, are very young. The team includes two freshmen, five sophomores and five juniors.

Lillie Pratt, Elmira Hall, Ann Price, Cynthia Young, Cheryl Deloney, Virginia Oden, Catherine Roseboro, Robin Williams, Alice Lyons, Sharon Foster, Sandra Judkins and Catherine Dickerson are members of the team.

Coach Sue Kascher said, "We should get a lot of experience from the teams. They have a pretty good chance, but it'll be hard to win. We play some of the top teams in the nation. I expect them just to play well. Some of the things we have been working on should help us."

Aggies Battle Norfolk In Inter-Conference Game

By Craig Turner

A&T will travel to Norfolk State this Saturday to do battle in an old interconference rivalry.

The Aggies are coming off a resounding 44-20 triumph of Johnson C. Smith. The Spartans are presently 3-2 despite last week's 21-14 loss to CIAA leader Winston-Salem State.

The Spartan head man is Dick Price, the mastermind behind Norfolk's last four CIAA championships.

Price will look to quarterbacks Tony Holloway (6-6,222) and Walt Mukins (6-2,205) both transfers from Virginia Commonwealth and Livingstone, respectively.

The top running back is 1,000 yard rusher Larue Harrington who gained 150 yards against Winston-Salem last weekend.

The top blocker 6-6,225 Ronnie McCoy has shown strongly after an early season injury.

The defense isn't particularly fast but Francis Powers (6-3,245) is a stalwart at defensive end.

"Most of Norfolk's general game plan is based on physical intimidation. They'll try to outmuscle you offensively and kill you with quickness on defense," stated A&T mentor Jim McKinley.

"They will probably be the second team in a row that we'll face with a basic passing philosophy. I'm sure that they'll test us fairly thoroughly. They aren't a panic type team like Smith."

The site is set for Foreman Field in Norfolk, Va., and kickoff is 1:30 p.m.

Board, Bess Receive Honors

North Carolina A&T defensive end Dwaine Board and South Carolina State cornerback Rufus Bess have been named defensive players of the week in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference.

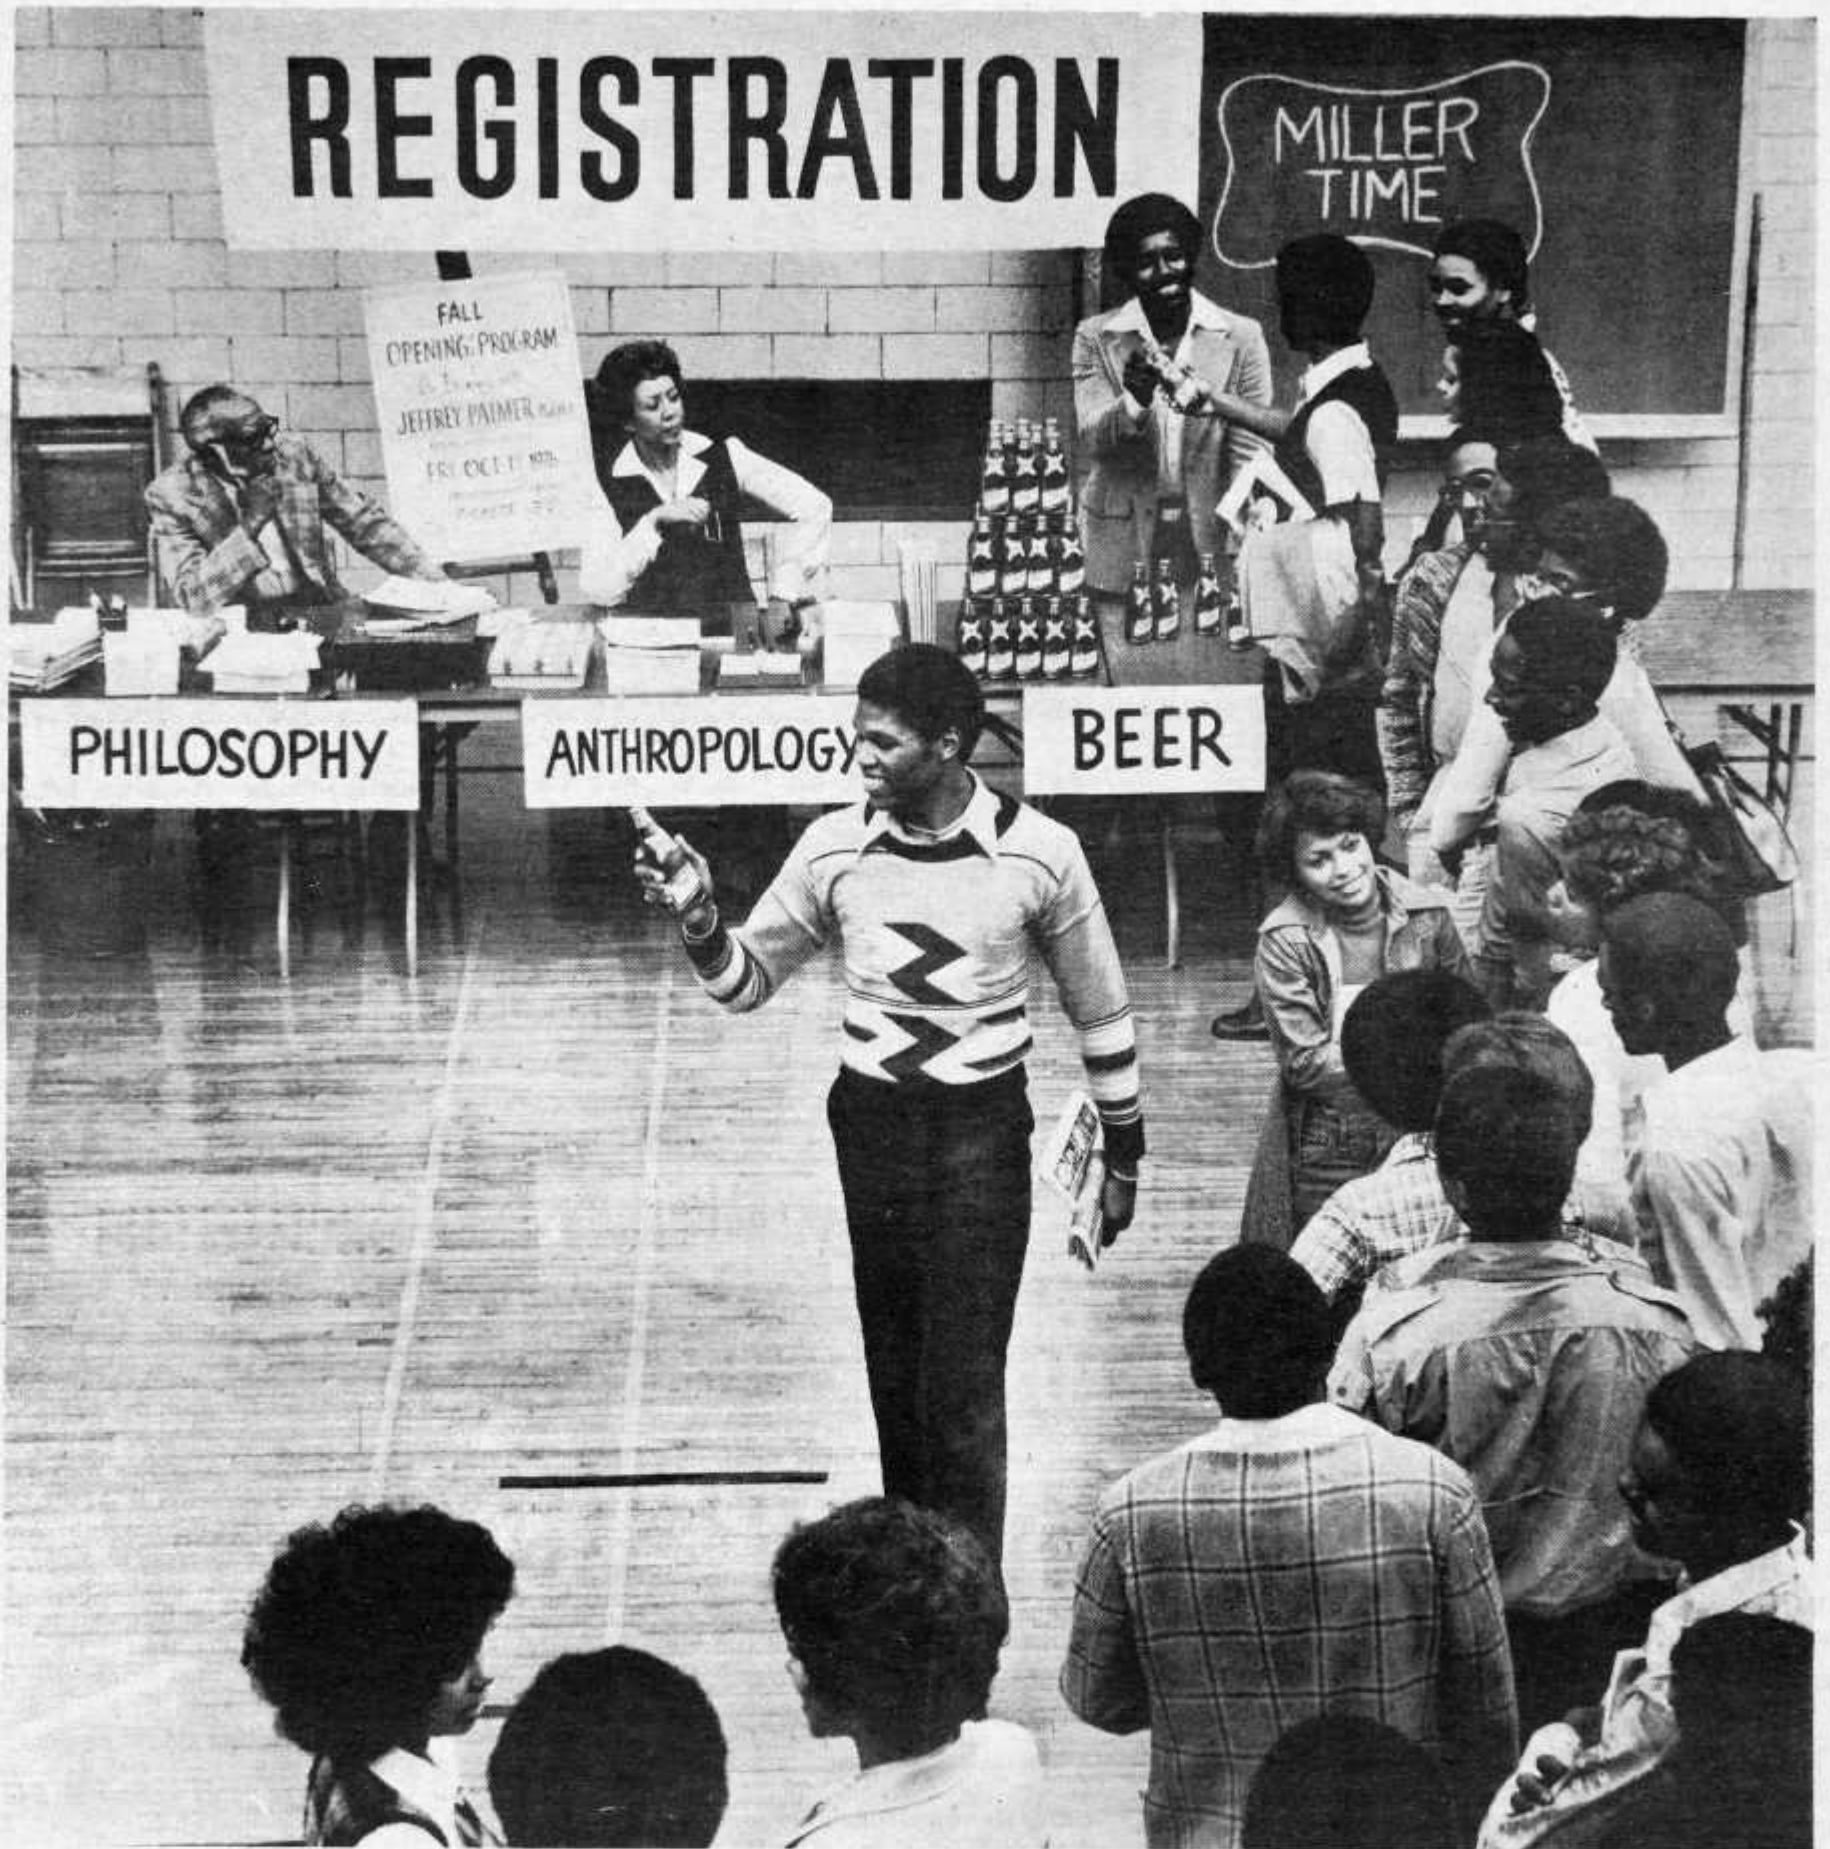

Board, a 6-5, 230-pound junior from Union Hall, Va., was credited with 13 individual tackles, four assists and three sacks in A&T's 44-20 win over Johnson C. Smith

Saturday.

Bess, a 5-10, 180-pound senior from Hartsville, S.C., intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble in the Bulldogs' 31-7 victory over Alcorn A&M.
