Are Living Quarters Safe?

By Anthony Boyd

A fire broke out in Curtis Hall September 21. The incident was marked by much hysteria, and a few minor hospitalizations. When the excitement settled, many questions were raised concerning the general safety of students on campus.

Curtis Hall ironically was found to be without a fire evacuation plan. The building is without a fire alarm; and, at the time of the fire, a frightened cry was the only warning given. Fire extinguishers, requested at the beginning of the semester, have yet to be installed. Mrs. Nancy Young and Miss Denise Cathy, dorm counselors for Curtis Hall, contradicted a statement made by Chief of Security Norwood McMillan concerning locked doors.

According to the counselors, the girls were lucky the fire did not occur after 1 a.m. because the doors can not be opened from the inside.

The fight to keep the campus safe is an on-going battle between students and campus officials. Students have been reported using the safety equipment provided for decorations, fights, and a variety of detrimental activities.

The department in charge of overall campus safety has been divided since I.S. Bull left the head position. Director of the Campus Safety Program at the moment is Norwood McMillan, who also heads campus security.

McMillan and Officer Sichmall have the responsibility of insuring that all buildings have adequate safety protection. The objective of this office is to provide for the health and safety of the campus community.

In addition to these duties, McMillan has the responsibility of traffic and occupational safety. Providing evacuation plans and worker safety instructions also fall under his direction. As of this year, however, no inspections or upgrading of equipment has taken place.

In the area of traffic safety, McMillan stated that there was too much traffic on campus. Many students, he added, are just going across campus adding unnecessarily to the traffic problems. Jay walking is another serious problem. Students tend to walk outside of the crosswalks. Drivers also add to the problem by not recognizing the pedestrians' right-of-way.

As for employee safety, McMillan says they are warned that safety comes first and that they should wear the necessary safety equipment.

Night always presents a big problem. Here on campus many streets are pitch black. This, according to McMillan, is attributed to vandalism and students' wishing extra privacy with loved ones. McMillan warns that students, especially women, should be wary of strangers and travel in pairs.

Crime, astoundingly high for such a small university, has dropped considerably this year. This sudden drop is attributed to the new crime awareness program. The instructing of incoming students about problems to be encountered helped also.

McMillan, swamped by his many duties, emphasized the fact that he could not do his job alone.

Dr. Mazingo To Visit Campus

By Patricia Owens

Dr. Sherrie Lee Mazingo, news editor for NBC Nightly News, will be visiting the mass communications classes during the week of October 24-28. She joined NBC Network News in New York in September 1976 under a management development program.

From 1963 to December 1971, Dr. Mazingo was a reporter for "The Minneapolis Star," winning several national awards. While a graduate student at Syracuse, she served as the news director for WAER-FM and also produced a weekly public affairs program. As a high school student, she worked for three years as a columnist for the "Minneapolis Spokesman" and "St. Paul Recorder" covering community news events.

Dr. Mazingo was awarded a Ph.D. in Communications from Michigan State University last year under a dissertation award from the National Fellowships Fund and a University Fellowship from the American Political Science Association.

While studying for her doctorate, she taught a variety of communication courses. In 1971, she received an M.S. in public communications from Syracuse University and a B.A. in English and journalism.

Dr. Mazingo who was born in Spokane, Washington, is co-author of a chapter on minorities and the mass media in the 1976 book, "Towards the Elimination of Racism," published by the Society for the Study of Social and Psychological Issues (Program Press). She wrote numerous papers on the media during her Ph.D. studies including "Toward Determining the Effects of Media in Behavioral Settings," "Implications for the Study of Mass Media Effects," and "Television as a Mass Media Agent of Political Socialization."

Dr. Mazingo is listed among Who's Who in American Women. She is a fellow of the Washington Journalism Center and a recipient of an award by the American Political Science Association for distinguished reporting of public affairs.

Although homecoming '77 wasn't what was expected, many of the people said that they enjoyed themselves.

During coronation Thursday night after the crowning of Miss A&T, Melba Moore put on a terrific show, even though it was thought that she wasn't to perform until 10 o'clock.

Melba also sang her top ten song "This Is It."

Then to start the weekend excitement, here was a Pre-Dawn dance with performances from Crown Heights Affair and Undisputed Truth.

Undisputed Truth performed some of its hit songs plus some off of its latest album.

Crown Heights Affair performed songs from off its album "Do It Your Way." The group also performed two of Stevie Wonder's songs, one of which was "I Wish."

During the parade Saturday, there were performances from three high school bands and many of the A&T organizations.

After the parade there was the homecoming game, where A&T beat UMES 49-0. The real excitement, however, came during the halftime activities.

The A&T Blue and Gold Marching Machine literally walked over Maryland-Eastern Shore's Band.

Saturday's Show Turns Out To Be Illusion

By Lanita Ledbetter

Grand Illusion and Brainstorm entertained students, alumni, and friends last Saturday night in Moore Gym. True, the show was an illusion, but a grand illusion is all a matter of opinion.

To start with, the tickets purchased for the show clearly and precisely stated that Michael Henderson and C.J. and Company would perform. Saturday night in Moore Gym at 10 p.m. Friday, around 4 p.m., we received word saying that "due to personal reasons, Michael Henderson nor C.J.

The Ebony Fashion Fair is being sponsored by the Greensboro Alumni Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. It will be held in Greensboro Memorial auditorium 8 o'clock p.m. November 1. Student fee is $5.00. Tickets can be purchased from Mrs. Eula Vereen.

The Program of the Year isn't on TV. It's in the Air Force ROTC.

Look into Air Force ROTC. And there are 4-year, 3-year, or 2-year programs to choose from. Whichever you select, you'll leave college with a commission as an Air Force officer. With opportunities for a position with responsibility... challenge... and, of course, financial rewards and security.

The courses themselves prepare you for leadership positions ahead. Positions as a member of an air crew... or as a missile launch officer... positions using mathematics... sciences... engineering.

Look out for yourself. Look into the Air Force ROTC programs on campus.

Put it all together in Air Force ROTC.

All It Takes Is To Graduate

This semester, thus far, we have continuously complained about student apathy. Well, there was a lot of enthusiasm around here during homecoming week but it was not due to any great ingenuity on the part of the students.

The shouts, cheers and overall excitement exhibited this past week (actually it started around Thursday) was due to the arrival of A&T's cherished alumni.

At Saturday's game, it was evident that A&T's victory meant more to the alumni than it did to the students. The band performance, according to some alumni, was superb. A few did complain, however, that the band needs new uniforms. One alumni male who was, to his admittance, not a spring chicken anymore, said the uniforms looked like the same ones the band used during his day. He said "I sure will be glad when they get some new ones."

All in all, the alumni made the major contribution to the homecoming event. If they had not returned, it is highly possible that the campus would have retained the unlively atmosphere to which it has now regressed.

Who knows, when these alumni were undergraduates they might have also been apathetic about the events that were happening around them. The campus may have been unlively or, if you like "dull" during some of their days at A&T too; but they will never admit that to us.

This reporter firmly believes that, when the students presently enrolled at A&T graduate, they will return with the same lively charisma that this set of alumni displayed. Maybe, all it takes is to graduate.

Boards Or Stadium?

By Margaret Brown

As one looks around campus from the outside, one would say A&T has some beautiful buildings on its campus.

This reporter would be inclined to agree.

If anyone ever had classes in rooms 129, 221, and 317 of Merrick Hall, he would wonder just how beautiful this building is from the inside.

When one goes to class and the instructor puts notices on the board, he is expected to be able to see them. Well the boards in these rooms are so worn in the middle that the chalk will not stay on them. One suggestion is to take the erasers and beat them on the board, then take your finger and write on the board. (One could see the notice better.)

Library Closes Early

By Catherine Speller

F.D. Bluford Library has posted its opening hours as 8 a.m. till 12 midnight Monday through Thursday and many students find those hours conducive for late night study.

But last night, as this reporter was meeting with a group of classmates to complete a project, we were told that the library was closing and it was not yet nine o'clock.

When the student worker was asked why the library was closing so early he replied, "I don't make the rules I just follow them." Then he said that the heat wasn't on and the library was closing because it was cold.

As this reporter walked from the library, she observed many other students who were going to be disappointed upon their arrival at the library and find it in the process of closing.

Again this reporter asks why the library doesn't have heat.

Saturday's 'Big Show' Fiasco In Moore Gym

Editor of The Register:

The "big show" Saturday night in Moore Gym was a fiasco. It all began with the announcing of Michael Henderson and C.J. and Company to star in the show. But, to the surprise and disappointment of many students, neither showed.

In their place, we were told, would be Brainstorm and The Tramps. The night of the show, however, there was yet another change. The performers were Grand Illusion who performed what seemed like their entire repertoire, and Brainstorm who sang a mere 45 minutes.

Band Members Miss Crowning For Practice

Editor of The Register

A&T's Homecoming '77 was a big success. There were many interesting activities going on all week and I'm sure that everyone enjoyed them - everyone except the Blue & Gold Marching Machine members, that is.

The band members practiced from 5:00 p.m. to at least 8:00 p.m. everyday during homecoming week. This meant that most members missed most of the activities provided for the students. They were even unable to see their queen crowned.

The members of the band weren't terribly upset because they missed these activities because they knew, when they joined the band, that they would have to give up many things.

All the band members really want is the applause of their fellow Aggies for their half-time show. But it is seldom that they get this satisfaction.

The Marching Machine put on a fabulous show for Homecoming. They played "Disco Lady" as a fanfare and did a downfield drill while playing "Dusic". In concert formation, the band played "Don't Ask My Neighbor" and they did a dance routine to "Boogie Nights".

After all this, only the parents of a few band members applauded.

It is awful how much the band is ignored and not appreciated. Many hours of hard work go into each half-time show. But, when the band doesn't do such a good job, they are loudly and cruelly criticized. When they do a good job, they are ignored.

(See Band, P.6)

Granted, both groups were good, but what happened to The Tramps?

Neither the M.C. (who never made himself known) nor anyone sponsoring the show had the common courtesy to announce that The Tramps would not be there. But it was well understood when the lights started blazing at 2 a.m.

I feel that this particular homecoming event reflects poorly upon the person or persons behind it.

When you take away the uniform and the lifestyle what have you got?

The Job.

The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.

The Pay & Benefits.

As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

Our Representative will be here 10/25/77

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.

The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.

As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable.

Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.

Band Member Urges Support

Aggies should wake up and realize that the band works hard and is just as important as the football team. Many people come to the games just to see the band.

I urge all Aggies to support and stand behind the band. After all, it is a part of A&T too.

Weather

Extended outlook Wednesday through Friday—Chance of rain Wednesday becoming fair Thursday through Friday. Highs in the 60s except some 50s in the mountains. Lows in the 30s in the mountains to the 40s in the interior and the 50s near the coast.

Editor's Note: My deepest apologies are extended to Sandra Renee Finch whose poem appeared on the cover of the homecoming poetry supplement. was supposed to have read:

Homecoming! Coming home with
Just a touch of pride
With a little dazzle in my smile
And a soulful glide in my stride.

Coming home with love
Check me out if you can
Awaken all who are sleeping
To relate to inhabitants of Aggieland.

Coming home with dignity
And confidence enough to spare
With chimes of victory ringing out:

Coming home with togetherness

For on today we're coming home

The Leach Line

One of the main attractions of the Maryland-Eastern Shore's Band was the approximately 5' Tuba player.

It seems that A&T's Band has really come a long way since the first show.

Later on that afternoon after the football game, the Greek Extravaganza which drew a very large crowd, had a contest to see which of the Greek sororities or fraternities could perform the best.

This was won by the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

But the big disappointment came during the homecoming show Saturday night.

What they did see was a local group whose name many people in the audience didn't know. The group played the kind of music that many of the people did not enjoy.

As far as Brainstorm is concerned it took an hour to get the equipment set up, but the group only sang two songs, and had a battle of the instruments for the rest of the show.

Except for Saturday night's show, homecoming turned out better than it has been in the past two years, and the Student Government Association and the Student Union Advisory Board went all out for the best.

Groups Fail To Show Saturday

and Company would appear." True, we were disappointed but we felt Brainstorm and The Tramps were as good a replacement as any.

Saturday night the gymnasium was filled and the crowd sat impatiently waiting for the show to begin. All of a sudden, the time arrived for the group to play. The lights began to flicker and flash and the band was announced "Grand Illusion!" The crowd in awe and anger shouted, "grand who? Grand who, Grand who?" This Illusion performed approximately two hours to an unresponsive crowd. When the announcement was made that the group's last song was about to begin, the audience came alive, cheering and rooting.

After about a 30-minute intermission, Brainstorm was introduced. A little more enthusiasm was displayed, though not much.

Brainstorm performed approximately 45 minutes or less. The highlight of its performance was the hit song "This Must Be Heaven." The crowd cheered, the girls screamed, and the band played on. Shortly afterwards, the show came to its conclusion. It was evident that the crowd felt somewhat short-changed.

Who was to blame? Certainly not the students. If the SGA advertised to have a particular group to perform, the SGA should have done what was expected of it.

With A&T's reputation on the decline, the last thing needed to be said is that A&T can't even live up to its promises. False advertisement is against the law and if this wasn't a bad case of it displayed, what is?

Perhaps the SGA has learned a lesson from this episode. "When in doubt, don't." Some people accepted the show as it was but others felt they had been grandly disillusioned.

"It seems like we roll on those homecomings," said a happy Jim McKinley in reference to spoiling Norfolk State's homecomings and completely trouncing U.M.E.S.

It was one of those games when everything attempted was successful. Even the weather - bright, sunny, and glary - was conducive to the highly emotional Aggies from far and near, who came home "With-A-Touch-Of-Class."

An excited well-dressed, enthusiastic fan-club of about 20,000 packed Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon and witnessed a finesse thrashing, 49-0.

"The defense was absolutely fantastic," said McKinley. "They wanted a shut-out and this was the way they sacked themselves up."

Whether or not they wanted a shut-out or a fight-out, Saturday afternoon the Aggie defensive unit could have easily broken the right shoulder of Billy Kilmer of the Washington Redskins.

They were blood thirsty, mean, brutal, and aggressive, as the Hawks passed the 50-yard line only once.

"I'm very surprised at the score," said McKinley.

He may have been surprised, but the weak Hawks looked like the Washington Redskins...pitiful!

In the MEAC this past weekend, S.C. State pushed their overall record to 5-0 by blowing away Morgan State, 63-13.

The word around the MEAC this year is whenever you play S.C. State, make sure the team bus is near because Willie Jeffries and the Bulldogs are ripping and tearing opponents apart.

My heart goes out to poor U.M.E.S. whenever they play S.C. State.

Hawk soup!

It's the final game of the world series tonight and the season.

The old rivalry between the L.A. Dodgers and N.Y. Yankees has not terminated.

For the Yankees and their "big mouth millionaires," coming home to Yankee Stadium and leading the series 3-2 should all but spell the N.Y. Yankees, the best in baseball for the '77 season.

*****

A quick look at the pro football scene-the ancient, non-talented Washington Redskins had the nerve to schedule the Dallas Cowboys on live television. The old-man-Billy Kilmer-keeps telling himself he's not washed up.

But, it's time for him to get the heck out of "Dodge"!

Aggies Thrash Hawks 49-0

By Craig R. Turner

"I was really surprised at the score. In all of their games this year, no one had moved the ball the way we did against them," said A&T mentor Jim McKinley.

McKinley sat quietly in the locker room of Memorial Stadium following A&T's 49-0 thrashing of Maryland Eastern Shore last Saturday afternoon.

"A win like the one we had today builds more confidence. Everybody can see now how the system works. We just keep getting better and better every game."

Despite the final score, the rout could have admittedly been more if McKinley had not abandoned a potent passing attack late in the third quarter.

"They gave us man-to-man coverage on passes and running plays as well. We decided to go with the option because a veer will kill "man" coverage. All of our passes were play action. It fell into place," he said.

A&T wasted little time in opening up on the out-manned Hawks. Following a Tony Currie interception at his own twenty, the offense took control.

The 80-yard drive took only eight plays as quarterback Ellsworth Turner threw a 17 yard scoring strike to favorite receiver Allen Thomas at 7:52 in the first quarter. Nolan Jones added the first of seven extrapoints.

A&T came right back with a 43-yard drive with Bill Joyner taking a 16 yard touchdown jaunt on an option play.

The Aggies closed out the quarter another 16 yard touchdown run on the same type play near the end of the stanza by Joyner again.

Turner, having his first day thus far this season, struck for his fourth touchdown pass. This time it was Thomas Frazier hauling in the 31-yard air reel.

McKinley called off his first team offense but continued to use his starting defense throughout the rest of the game to preserve a shut out. It payed off as Gerald Johnson picked off an overthrown Hawk pass and raced 42 yards for the Aggies' final score.

"Our biggest concern was staying mentally up after getting the big lead. Our kids put it together and all we, as coaches, had to do was try to keep the score down."

"No question. This was our best game so far. I didn't know if we were up to it or not. A lot of teams show emotion, ours doesn't. We don't go for a lot of that rah-rah stuff."

"I don't believe our guys will have any problem coming down for Howard this week. We know we have tough games from here on out and we'll be prepared for them."

Former Athletes Meet To Celebrate Banquet

By Archie Bass

Despite the distance traveled and the time lost, A&T's former athletes gathered at the Hilton Inn Friday night to celebrate the seventh annual Sports Hall of Fame Banquet.

The hall of famers came from far and near to celebrate their former heroics on the gridiron, on the court, on the diamond, and in the boxing ring.

The purpose of the Hall of Fame is to honor those former athletes and other persons who have brought esteem, recognition and fame to themselves and to their alma mater.

Thirteen Hall of Famers were roasted by former teammates, coaches, or friends, that provided fun, thrill, and delight to the crowd of about 220.

Among local famers that were honored - Joe "Big Joe" Williams, director of alumni affairs; J. Niel "Mex" Armstrong, director of Summer School, and Dr. Bert Piggott, professor of physical education and former football coach.

"Being an Aggie, athlete, and a Hall of Famer is --simple and super," said (See Hall, P.8)

Aggies To Host Howard

A&T State University, impressive winners of their last three football games, will play host this Saturday to Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference rival Howard University in a key matchup.

The kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 at Greensboro

Memorial Stadium.

The Aggies, who got off to a slow start, dropping its first three contests, have bounced back well and have adjusted to the veer offense installed by first year coach Jim McKinley.

Howard University was ranked as one of the pre-season favorites in the conference at the start of the season. Last Saturday the Bison posted their most impressive victory of the season in defeating Virginia State 33-0.

The Bison are coached by Doug Porter.

Hall Dates Back To 1960

Jimmié I. Barber, president of the National Alumni Association.

A&T's Hall of Fame dates back to the 1960's, when some A&T Alumni, cognizant of the lack of recognition accorded Black athletes and realizing the need of assistance by the athletic department, set up the Athletic liaison Committee.

"We really know who we are, where we have been, and where we are going," stated Richard Moore, director of Information Services.

Even though the program was highlighted by male dominance, Mrs. Catherine Bonner broke the chauvinistic parade, as she received a special award for 30-years as the secretary in the athletic department.

"I didn't know that I was going to receive this award; but it's always a thrill working with such good people (coaches)," said Mrs. Bonner

The program was concluded by a memorial ceremony for deceased Hall of Famers and then a spiritual uplifting by the singing of the alma mater.

Five Du Pont plants depend on me for design of electrical equipment and instrumentation.

—Rodney Haynes BS, Electrical Engineering

"I've been an energy control design engineer since shortly after my graduation in 1974 from Lamar University. At the moment, I'm working on projects totaling almost a quarter of a million dollars.

"What I like most about my work is the variety...getting into other phases of engineering...plus the responsibility for everything I do."

Rodney worked part time while in high school in a Du Pont-sponsored Minority Manpower Resources Project. Today, he is helping to recruit blacks through the MMRP at Texas Southern.

Rodney's story is typical of many Chemical, Mechanical and Electrical Engineers who've chosen careers at Du Pont.

We place no limits on the progress our engineers can make. And we place no limits on the contributions they can make— to themselves, the Company or to society.

If this sounds like your kind of company, do what Rodney Haynes did: talk to the Du Pont representative who visits your campus. Or write: Du Pont Company, Room 25243, Wilmington, DE 19898.

At Du Pont...there's a world of things YOU can do something about.
