Graham States Reason For Veto Of Five Bills

By Larry Jenkins

Tony Graham, SGA president, vetoed five bills that the student legislature passed at its last meeting. He stated that these bills "caused a great concern" among the students on campus.

Graham vetoed the following bills: the president and Miss A&T will not automatically be admitted to Who's Who; vice-president of SGA will receive full tuition: four student body meetings must be held each semester by the president; a candidate running for president must have one year of student legislature experience or SGA experience; and, that juniors who are former vice presidents of the SGA will only be able to run for the office of president their senior year.

Graham stated the SGA has no jurisdiction as to who enters Who's Who. In the past, it was a tradition to enter Miss A&T and the president's name in Who's Who Selection Committee.

The legislature approved several resolutions submitted by Graham. The first resolution allowed rising juniors with 64 semester hours, a minimum GPA of 2.50, and at least one year of SGA experience to run for president of the student government. All future presidential and vice presidential candidates must, however, run on a ticket.

The duties of the treasurer were redefined and several new provisions were initiated. Future treasurers must have at least six hours of accounting background.

The legislature created the new position of business manager. "The sole responsibility of the business manager will be to initiate concerts on schedule," stated Graham.

Graham said that he would veto any bill that did not grant all or none of the executive officials a stipend. He stated that he would not approve the full tuition of the president and Miss A&T without some type of stipends for the others.

Article VII Section 1 under Administrative Sanction in the Student Legislature Constitution states that "all action taken by the student legislature is subject to review and/or ratification by the (1) dean of student affairs before it becomes law, (2) University Council (3) president of the university and, (4) Board of Governors.

The next regular meeting of the student legislature will be Monday, January 9, 1978.

Manpower Class Hears About N. C. Job Problems

By Sheila Williams

Jerry Anthony, a representative from the Employment Security Commission in Greensboro, spoke with some members of the Manpower Problems and Prospect class Monday. They discussed the current employment problems in North Carolina so as to enlighten students about the program.

"We are a local labor exchange, trying to find the right jobs for the public and ato help employers find help," said Anthony. "We advertise openings through the media and radio stations, and have placed over 100,000 people in various job locations."

They also work as a job information service. For those who are not ready, the employment council will make vocational decisions with aptitude, proficiency and interest tests. They also have vocational training in schools and on the job training.

Anthony also stated, "We work closely with veterans, welfare recipients and the handicapped so that they can be placed into various job opportunities.

The Employment Security Commission is related with part of a state project and it is federally funded and works with other local agents to place individuals when jobs are offered.

The procedure for applying would be to get in touch with an Employment Security Commission officer and

ICARE To Help Flood Victims

By Anthony Boyd

The student organization ICARE, which was founded for the purpose of upgrading the campus surrounding and community relations, has launched a campaign to aid victims of flood ravaged Western North Carolina. The flood, which began its destruction November 6,left 11 people dead, and caused tremendous property damage. The flood left a trail of widespread desolation in the mountains. The ICARE campaign will solicit food stuff and clothing for those who survived the ordeal. "We work with everybody who comes in, stated Anthony; "we want to help as much as we can with those who have skills to offer. If not, we will help you try to acquire the skill."

They don't create jobs but they work with the community to make people available for jobs. The jobs available at this time are for skilled workers, auto mechanics, Atlantic has released some information on Ray Charles in conjunction with his recently released album, "True To Life".

Ray Charles performed on a limited schedule of U.S. tour dates, including Miami's Dade County Auditorium.

Charles also performed on "The Beatles Forever," a Thanksgiving Day Special on the NBC network. Starring along with Charles were Paul Williams, Diahann Carrol, Tony Randall, and Bernadette Peters.

On January 16, 1978, "The Barry Manilow special featuring Ray Charles" will be broadcast over the ABC network, and the same month Charles will appear live at the Greek Theater along with Gladys Knight & the Pips, which is a cablevision release.

Herbie Mann and Carmine Calabro received recognition of theircontinuningwork for UNICEF, culminating in the 1977 annual Halloween "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program, which raised $ 3.8 million through the efforts of 300,000 children last year.

Mann and Calabro of Fire Island were awarded Certificates of Appreciation at the United Nations. Calabro was named Deputy Ambassador for Good Will.

Atlantic recording group, the Temptations are on tour promoting their first single for the label "In A Lifetime" and "I Could Never Stop Loving You." Both sides are taken from the album "Hear To Tempt You."

The Temptations have also videotaped "In A Lifetime" for the NBC network's "Chuck Barris Variety Hour," which also stars Redd Foxx, the Bay City Rollers, Michelle Phillips and others, which will be telecast in January, 1978.

In conjunction with her first album released in nearly two and a half years, Roberta Flack opened an extended engagement at the Aladdin Hotel in Las Vegas, November 6-22,

Flacks latest album is "Blue Lights In The Basement," including the singles "25th Of Last December," and "Why Don't You Move In With Me."

Flack began her recording career on Atlantic in 1970 and has received, among numerous other awards, a pair of Grammys in 1972 for "Record of the Year" and Best Pop Vocalist by performing a duet with Donny Hathaway singing "Where Is The Love."

Declassified Documents Reveal Political Activity

The Campaign to Stop Government Spying today made public 67 recently declassified CIA documents which reveal the Agency's interest in political activity on American college campuses. The information contradicts claims that the Agency's involvement in dissident activities on campus was limited to the investigation of foreign ties and protecting the physical safety of campus memos, reports and lists as showing the CIA's "deep interest in the political activities occurring on US college campuses in the late 1960's and early 1970's."

A memo by G.W.M. Janney, CIA Director of Personnel, sheds new light on the Agency's recruitment practices. It reveals that unnamed Placement Officers at some of the 250 campuses listed had contractual relationships with the CIA. Although an "appropriate senior official" at each university was notified of this relationship, students and faculty were not. Many of the requesteddocuments were heavily censored or completely denied. Halperin and Marks are continuing to litigate the propriety of some of the CIA's deletions.

The documents were obtained from the CIA as a result of a Freedom of Information suit brought by Campaign Chairperson Morton Halperin and John Marks, of the Center for National Security Studies. Then suit was filed to obtain secret materials provided by the CIA to the House and Senate Intelligence Committees and the Rockefeller Commission. An article in the November issue of Campaign newsletter Organizing Notes describes the letters,

Is It A Drainage Problem ?

We all realize the rainy weather is not a human controlled element but it seems that the drainage could be controlled.

Anytime it rains, puddles form on the sidewalks and make it difficult for pedestrians to pass without the water covering their feet. It is not unusual for us to see rain puddles, but the problem is that the puddles stand, it seems, until the sun evaporates them.

There are several places on campus where this problem is visible, but one place in particular is on the sidewalks outside Scott Hall. Most of us have to pass by Scott at least once a day, either going to classes or to lunch. On rainy days we see the line form when two people meet on the sidewalk at Laurel and Willie Grimes intersection.

We realize that this drainage problem, like the majority of the other problems we complain about, cannot be solved overnight, but this reporter begs the people who can reconcile it to let the students at least know that they realize the problem exists. Eventually, when the list of inadquate facilities is shortened, maybe this problem can be resolved.

If this reporter's assumption that A&T has a drainage problem is not accurate, she will accept her mistake. If the drainage is not the problem then what is? This reporter would seriously like to know.

Meeting Lacks Attendance

By Catherine Speller

This writer attended amen's council meeting last night and witnessed an obvious lack of attendance by the men on campus.

The council meeting was not cancelled because of the lack of participation. Plans were still made for possible solutions to student problems and other meetings.

This is not the only meeting that is getting poor attendance this semester. Many other clubs and organizations are feeling the pinch also.

Those clubs and meetings are for you fellow students not the advisors or the officers. The meetings can give you a chance to be active among your peers in the community and even job opportunities may be available.

This reporter realizes that everyone has other things to do than go to every meeting a club has but a few hours a month won't hurt anyone.

The meeting tonight was just one example of how many other meetings go unattended; don't let the meetings that you can be a part of go unsupported.

Two Weeks To 'Catch-Up'

By Sheila Williams

This week marks the beginning of the rise to second in the MEAC, argued end of the fall semester. It marks the time when students have only two weeks to "catch up" on late work or try to improve on your present grades. This semester has gone by so quickly that many of us have wondered where it actually went. We have seen "actual" SGA meeting, wondered what happen-and pondered over the A&T-UNC-G merger and become frustratedoverthe problem about the lack of financial aid. Campus life and conditions should look better and student apathy may approve. This reporter even sees an MEAC Basketball championship in the making.

Manpower Research Center Provides Job Opportunities

By Catherine Speller

The Manpower Research and Training Center has been active at A&T for eight years and is designed to provide job opportunities for minority students.

This year, November was dedicated to the recruitment of students for the Manpower program.

There is not a Manpower major as such; but, if a student is majoring in economics, psychology, industrial education and technology or sociology and social service, he may have a concentration in Manpower.

Ms. Jewel Funderburke, a graduate of A&T is the new Manpower coordinator for the center. Ms. Funderburke received her M.S. in Administration from the University of Pittsburgh.

She is also responsible for recruiting and placing interns, updating the interns handbook and is a specialist on the internship experience and program.

Once a student has successfully completed nine credit hours towards his minor in Manpower, he is eligible for an internship which provides on-the-job training in Manpower planning, administration and government. Only one internship is required, but a student can participate in three, which also includes summer internships as well as part-time.

Kelvin Russell, a senior economics major, spent his first internship in Dover, Colorado. "I worked as a management intern, in the United States Department of Labor office region eight, in Denver," stated Russell.

"The on-the-job training program lasted for 13 weeks and it was a very exciting job," said Russell.

Ms. Jewel Funderburke

Last summer the center placed seven students in various parts of the country. For further information contact Ms. Funderburke in Room 215 in Carver Hall or

To Last at Tiffany's

Puzzle

Sports Notebook By Archie Bass

With the football season over and the hawk ripping, athletics for A&T switch indoors for the roundball season.

As for the Aggie basketball team, its season will open Thursday night against nationally ranked Cincinnati.

"We can't get overly excited against Cincinnati," said Gene Littles, head coach. "We have to keep control of overselves, and just forget that they are nationally ranked."

Cincinnati, probably will look at the Aggies as a light scrimmage game; but, then, beating up on the Aggies might help them in the national rankings.

Being Aggie basketball fans, we can only hope that the game will not turn out to be traces of the Oral Roberts' game, where one player outscored the entire Aggie squad.

And, that can be embarrassing on NBC Grandstand.

The National Black Association for Women Sports (NBAWS) has polled the Aggiette basketball team No. 15 for pre-season rankings.

But, as of now, the Aggies have gotten off to a rocky start, 1-1, with a 23-point victory over hapless Fort Bragg, and a 39-point defeat a week ago to Pfeiffer.

Luckily, the Aggiettes were playing a weak caliber team in Fort Bragg, and not S.C. State, or High Point College.

Even though the final score showed a victory for the Aggiettes, 64-41, judging from last year, the team may not be as strong.

"We have to become more consistent, and we have to work on our inside game," said Joyce Spruill, head coach.

However, the lack of consistency could be due to the dismissed to two key performers Charlene Henderson and Lillian Pratt who were dismissed from the team because of disciplinary reasons.

"They are not participating in the program at this time," said Ms. Spruill. She added, "I have a coaching job to do and I don't have time to worry about personal problems with players."

So, there you have it: two players that can be largely credited with the rising success of women's basketball last year will have to sit back this year and watch others try to perform the task that they performed last year.

Aggiettes Defeat Shaw76-52

By Craig R. Turner

A&T played catchup in the opening minutes but released a strong running offense in the second half to squash Shaw 76-52 Monday night in Moore Gymnasium.

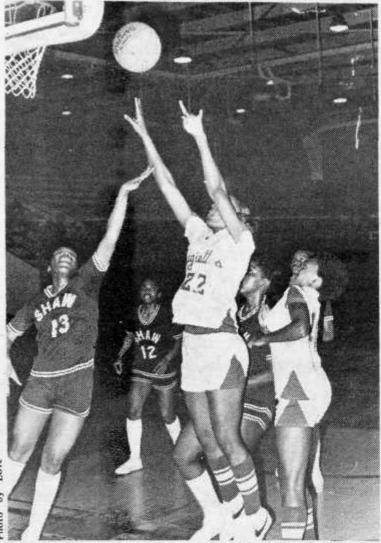

The Aggiettes found the going rather rough in the early going against the Bears' 1-3-1 zone and committed several turnovers trailing 10-5 with 13:24 to go in the first half.

However, A&T went to releasing its guards for full court passes and outscored Shaw 18-5 over the next six minutes. Shaw answered with a flurry of outside shots near the end of the half as the tempo slowed. A&T led 31-27 at the break.

The floodgates opened early in the second half though, as the Aggiettes utilized superior rebounding and sped to ignite a 16-7 spurt at the outset.

A&T remained in its 2-3 zone throughout the night capitalizing on its height and Shaw turnovers. The Bears went to backcourt pressure midway through the last stanza but A&T broke open the press on the long pass to the breaking guards continuously.

At the end, A&T simply outran the outmanned Shaw contingent and relied on a strong bench effort in the stretch to lock up its second victory against one defeat.

Leading the victors was 5-5 guard Mamie Jones with 16 points and fine assists along with Trina Graves with ten and Tami Gardner with 12. Shaw was led by Cynthia Jackson with 18 points.

The Aggiettes next test will come December 3 against Virginia Union in Richmond, Va. The next home contest is December 7 against North Carolina Central in Moore Gym.

A&T Opens At Cincinatti

A&T's basketball team will open its 1977-78 basketball season this Thursday. against the powerful University of Cincinnati in Ohio.

The Bearcats are ranked in the top ten in both the Associated Press and United Press International preseason polls. The team will be paced by 6-10 All-America center Bob Miller and a host of returning lettermen from last season team which earned an NCAA playoff berth. The Aggies will be guided by first year coach Gene Littles, who comes to A&T after a pro career with the Carolina Cougars and the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA. Littles spent the past two seasons as an assistant coach with Appalachian State University. James Sparrow, the MVP in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference two seasons ago, returns to the A&T lineup. "Sparrow will play a different role in our offense and we will be asking a lot more of him this season," Littles said. "He has so much offensive potential. Sparrow has been designated as our leader and, with a young team like ours, he will have to do some things that were not asked of him in the past."

Also in the Aggie lineup will be 6-9 L.J. Pipkin, the team's leading scorer and rebounder a year ago. Pipkin has a good outside shooting touch and has picked up some weight which should be helpful as he tries to improve his rebounding average. Joining Pipkin on the front line will be 6-8 transfer Marvin Brown and 6-10 sophomore letterman Melvin Paimer. Both Brown and .Paimer looked sharp in the A&T Blue-Gold intra-squad game. "Palmer has improved since last season and will be our starting center this season," Littles said. "He has a good turn around jump shot and his defense has been good.

"Marvin Brown adds maturity to our team since he played against top competition while at Temple University in Philadelphia. He is a strong rebounder and has a good medium range shooting touch."

the Aggies will take a day off; then it's on to Cleveland for a game with Cleveland State.

Cleveland State features 6-5 guard Andre Battle of Yonkers, N.Y.

"It's tough opening up your coaching against Cincinnati and Cleveland State on the road," Littles said. "I want our players to get exposure to top competition early so that, when we enter conference play, we will have a lot of experience against some of the best college basketball being played in the country."

Bonner: Mother To Athletes For 31 Years

For the past 31 years, Catherine Bonner has served as confidante and friend to three athletic directors, honorary "mother" to hundreds of athletes, and number one supporter for all sports at A&T.

Although her work load and responsibilities have increased considerably since her first day on the job back in 1946, Mrs. Bonner approaches her duties with the same zest and vigor she displayed at the beginning of her A&T career.

And, according to many people close to the A&T sports program, she is just as responsible for the university's athletic success as some of the coaches.

tions abroad, an end to political spying and harassment in the United States and an end to the secret budgets and secret charters of the intelligence agencies. The Campaign works with students, faculty, and administrators across the country and encourages the adoption of regulations to control the activities of the US intelligence agencies on campus.

Education Dept. Has Information

Information concerning admission requirements and specifics about the degrees offered will be available at the Department of Educatior. here at A&T. The application deadline at Ohio State for fall quarter, 1978 is Vebruary 1. "Her expertise and experience have been of immearsurable help to me and the entire athletic department," said current A&T athletic director Cal Irvin. "She has always been willing to put out that extra effort necessary in building a successful athletic program." Mrs. Bonner, is now administrative assistant to the athletic director. Although she doesn't make as many games as she used to, Mrs. Bonner is a regular fixture at all A&T home games and still makes the "big" games away from Memorial Stadium and Moore Gym.

There have been many exciting football games during her tenure but the most exciting one she recalls took place in the early 50's in the then "Capital Classic" in Washington, D.C.

"The game matched the best school from the CIAA against a top school from another Black conference," she said. "One year A&T played Tennessee State and A&T lost the game with just seconds left.

"Red Jackson was playing for A&T then, and everyone just knew we had the game won. It was the most emotional game I have ever seen. Everyone cried when it was over."

But for Bonner, the highlight of her past years was working with the athletes. Some went on to pursue careers in their chosen fields.

No matter how busy, Bonner always took the time to talk to anyone who had something to say.

"I don't have any children and I just adopted the athletes here at A&T," said Bonner, who married her husband George in 1956.

Although a giraffe's body is smaller than that of the average horse, its neck can be longer than a tall man and its front legs may be eight or ten feet long. In the time it takes to drive your friend home, you could save his life.

If your friend's been drinking too much, he shouldn't be driving. The automobile crash is the number one cause of death of people your age. And the ironic thing is that the drunk drivers responsible for killing young people are most often other young people.

Take ten minutes. Or twenty. Or an hour. Drive your friend home. That's all. If you can't do that, call a cab. Or let him sleep on your couch.

We're not asking you to be a doctor or a cop. Just a friend.
