Fremont Fresh black colleges defying trend

While many universities expect freshmen class sizes to drop this year, a number of historically black schools are reporting a boost in freshman enrollment since the 1970s.

Improved recruitment and higher visibility, as well as an increase in racial hatred on predominantly white campuses, have led some black institutions to establish their first walking tours ever.

For a number of predominantly black universities, the rise in applications and admissions brings a welcome financial relief after years of financial strain. In contrast, some predominantly white institutions are considering belt-tightening maneuvers like laying off staff and firing professors.

Student credit card offered with special advantages

Chase Manhattan, the nation's second largest credit card issuer, is offering college and university students Visa and MasterCard credit cards with a minimum annual fee of $500 and an annual fee for the first year of $99.

Typically, students need only proof of college or university enrollment. They are not required to have a prior credit history or parent guarantor and there is no minimum income requirement.

Chase Manhattan is developing long-term relationships with student credit cardholders serving all of their financial needs.

Millions advertised toward the fight against cancer

The National Cancer Institute has signed a seven-year contract to the Comprehensive Cancer Center of Wake Forest University as part of one of the largest studies ever aimed at preventing cancer.

The project was selected as one of three vanguard projects for the national study aimed at preventing colon cancer, the second leading cause of cancer deaths.

Thermal, headed by Dr. M. Robert Cooper, professor of medicine (hematology/oncology) at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, will test the effect of diet on intestinal polyps. Patients with polyps will be recruited by gastroenterologists in Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Charlotte.

Farrakhan to speak at A&T

The Epilson chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., of North Carolina A&T State University sponsored the Honorable Minister Louis Farrakhan in lectures from Friday November 9, 9, 1990 at 7:00 p.m. in the Corbett Sports Center, located on the campus of North Carolina A&T State University.

Mark Anthony Middleton, the fratation's national spokesperson, said the purpose of the program is to give students and the community the chance to hear what Minister Farrakhan is all about in a context speech.

He continued to say, "I hope that you find the conversation worthwhile and think about the words that he expresses and the man himself."

He goes on to say, "Getting Minis ter Farrakhan to come here was the easy part, all we had to do was negoti- ate a pay price and set up a time and date. Seeing him on the lecture circuit, he was more than happy to do it."

The hardest part was getting the University to agree to come and giving us a faculty for his speech.

The brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., want to stress to the students that no one is secre-tly perception of the opportunities and the work.

Are you an academically talented minority student in your junior or senior year of high school? Or do you have plans to enter college or medical school? Are you interested in a career in biomedical research?

The National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAD) in Bethesda, Maryland, has an initiative called the biomedical undergraduate research program. The program is designed to sign academically talented students of any race the opportunity to be part of research laboratory activities in the broad field of biomedical research.

NIAD, one of the thirteen institutes of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), conducts and supports research in order to evaluate immune, infectious, and inflammatory diseases and to develop better means of preventing, treating and controlling these conditions.

"This program offers minority students from across the country and in the Philadelphia metropolitan area the opportunity to receive training in the medical research field, and to work with NIH researchers and other NIH institutes. NIH scientists with a 3.0 or better GPA, must be recommended by deans and faculty. Selection is based on faculty recommendations and personal and academic achievements. If you are interested, you should contact the NIAD at 9090 Rockville Pike, Building 31, Room 7A-19, Bethesda, Maryland 20892, for an application packet.

The completed application packet must be received from your dean or chairperson at NIAD no later than November 16. Final selections will be an- nounced by December 8.
Fed up with racial slurs

On a recent trip to my hometown, my brother and I were frictioned by the use of racial slurs by an Asian American.

We both felt the situation would probably be less serious if the same incident had occurred in Europe or Africa. In Europe and Africa, we believe that people are less likely to use racial slurs. However, in Japan, we always expected that students would not use racial slurs. Unfortunately, our expectations were not met.

One incident involved a group of students who used slurs against a Japanese student. The students were observed by an Asian American who reported the incident to the school's administration. The administration responded by saying that they were investigating the matter.

The second incident involved a student who used slurs while addressing a group of Asian students. The student was observed by another Asian American who again reported the incident to the school's administration. The administration responded by saying that they were investigating the matter.

In both cases, the administration promised to take action, but no action was taken. We believe that the administration should have taken stronger measures to prevent these incidents from occurring in the future.

As a result of these incidents, we have decided to work towards making our hometown a more welcoming place for Asian Americans.

Let's make our hometown a safer place for everyone.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.....

A little "too" lively?

Dear Editor,

Table: "Live Crew" I think I think the US of A is a little "Live Crew," Bob Lewson was a little "Live Crew" who had videotaped himself and a monitor doing the "wild thing" that he's allowed to.

Want to see reality? Well tune into HBO around 8 and not to mention Cinemas blow off a little stunt itself. Speaking of stunt, I caught the vapors from daytime TV and in sex dilemma. Got a VCR? Because nowadays you can rent sex movies from your neighborhood adult book store. Playboy isn't really bad but the foot and Penwiper isn't a place to stay.

Why not "Nutty As They Wanna Be," in adult bookstores it's all bad. Oh I get it. I can see it but not hear it. Now I'm confused. I guess it's alright to live as long as you're "too lively." Get my drift?

Where's the spirit?

Dear Editor,

I was at this start here lower expressing utter disappointment with this year's SGA staff. Why? Because of the spirit that our campus is lacking during our Homecoming week.

Homecoming is the biggest and most special event for our campus yet one would hardly know it. There are so pre-homcoming activities taking up the spirit before Saturday.

In the past there have been talent shows and pool games to give way to Homecoming Day.

As far as I'm concerned, it is just a regular week of school and we just happen to have a home game. Hopefully next year's SGA staff will let the Aggies down. Sorry freshmen, this is the way it is to use it.

Mr. Helms' neighborhood

It's a beautiful day in the neighborhood. A beautiful day in the neighborhood. Wouldn't you say? What you might not know about your neighborhood is that Mr. Helms' neighborhood may be suitable for those who have "North Carolina" in their heart, but for those who have "African American" in their heart it may not be appropriate.

When I arrived Mr. Helms' neighborhood, the first thing I noticed was that the air was filled with music and noise was everywhere. When I asked someone why that was the case, he said that it was because Mr. Helms was against the Environment and Clean Air Act. He also told me that there were approximately 80 black cars in his neighborhood. Instead of telling Mr. Helms, better off going.

I was a little surprised when some neighborhood members offered me a tour despite looking very depressed. When I asked them what the problem was, they told me that Mr. Helms voted against the Paris Bill, and they couldn't keep their shops open anymore because he felt the law took them from them.

After a short time I noticed that there weren't any African Americans in this neighborhood. Suddenly, someone pulled out, "Didn't you hear the news? Mr. Helms voted against the Clean Air Act of 1990, which was a major factor in the decisions to close the shop."

Later on, I noticed some children playing in the streets during school hours. I didn't pay any attention to it because I thought it was a family thing. What caught my attention was an argument between two neighborhood children for the other child, supra, plus one splendid thing. "The other child said," you can't have our Sega! I'll take yours!" They took off their clothing and eventually told Mr. Helms that he voted against education bills. But that still didn't Realize where they became because they were all in the same

Looking at Mr. Helms, I can't help but think about my countrymen going on my countrymen. I can't get over the fact that Mr. Helms voted against the Clean Air Act of 1990, which was a major factor in the decisions to close the shop.

We are a people, not a people. Join this cause or we will most definitely get rid of Mr. Helms...

The ritual system of ancient Black civilizations

"Karma-Live by it"

Universal Law is very important in the lives of Africans in America. One law of the universe that affects all forms of life on a daily basis is the Universal Law of Karma. Karma can be witnessed through all forms of life in nature. Many of us have heard the old saying, "What goes around, comes around." This is the invisible Universal law of Karma described in Isyamun's terms. We are also familiar with the saying of "Do unto others as you would have them "Do unto you," and "treat others like you want to be treated." Both of these expressions are extensions of the same hidden cosmic truth. Simply stated the law of Karma teaches that what you do will come back to you.

Many of us create negative realities within our personal worlds and expect positive, liberating experiences to follow. In order to truly create our own personal positive realities, we must have a profound understanding of this universal concept. We cannot expect anything more than what we put out if we constantly travel the down trodden path of negativity. In order to receive the true benefits from this universal law we must first change our perceptions. Once our eyes are opened to the Divine truth of Karma we can then begin to bring positive effects into physical manifestation.

Understand that Karma is in effect. What goes around, comes around. This concept may sound very simple but it possesses power beyond normal comprehension. Positive causes create positive effects just as negative causes create negative effects. We reap what we sow.

We all have the power to create our own personal realities. Brothers who choose to exploit and use : stereotypically created negative realities within their lives. Sisters who choose to manipulate and control brothers are also creating negative realities within their lives. These negative realities produce a negative effect from the universal law. People who purposely act in a negative manner should expect some type of negative situation to arise in their personal lives. We reap what we sow.

Those who choose to create positive realities in their lives can expect positive benefits from the law of Karma. Helping someone in need today means that later on when you are in need someone will be there to help you. Keeping this positive principle in mind will help all of us do away with trifling things that are truly beneath us.

Little things such as gossiping and buckling will ultimately disappear as we unite to recreate a universe of spiritual advancement. A profound understanding of Karma, the law of cause and effect, is needed as we grow collectively into a deeper knowledge of our divine objectives.

Lift Every Voice and Sing

By: Weldon Johnson

Lift ev'ry voice and sing Till Earth and heaven ring
Ring with the harmonies of Liberty:
Let our rejoicing
High as the listing skies. Let it resound loud as the rolling sea. Sing a song full of the faith that the dark past has taught us. Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us. Facing the rising sun of our new day begun, Let us march on till victory is won.

Stony the mod we tread, Bitter the chafing rod. Felt in the days when hope unborn had died; Yet with a mighty heart. Have not our weary feet Come to the place for which our fathers sighed? We have come ever a way that with tears has been watered, We have come, treading our path through the block of the slaughtered. Out from the gloomy past, Till now we stand at last. Where the white gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years, God of our silent tears, Thou hast brought us thus far on our way; Thou hast heard us when we cried to Thee. Thou hast brought us thus far on our way; Thou hast heard us when we cried to Thee. Our strength to Thee has been restored. To thee we come, the voice that built this land. Our God to thee we cry for help...

Gospel choir to record centennial album

Lawrence Sharart

The North Carolina A&T Fellowship Choir will hold a live recording of its fourth album on Saturday, November 10, in the Richard B. Harrison Auditorium at A&T. The album, which is being recorded to commemorate A&T’s centennial year, will contain songs written by Ron Jones, director and master of ceremonies for the Choir, and John Lyons, a graduate student at A&T.

According to Gospel Choir president John Berry, a live recording will enhance the album. “We wanted to bring the choir and the audience together in an actual concert. On a studio album you just have your music by itself. Heart live album you can bring the choir and the audience together to get the feeling of a concert,” Berry remarked. This will be the choir’s third live album and their fourth overall.

To get prepared for this album, the choir has been hearing twice a week and rehearse every other day as the choir is required. They’ve also been preparing daily to become focused on what they have to do; they will hold a special prayer meeting on the night before the concert.

According to Berry, the choir decided to record on November 10 in order, the choir album not by January 1991 and also to meet the public demand. “We wanted the choir album early enough so that it will be out by the beginning of the centennial year,” A&T’s choir is known worldwide, and the demand for the album will be great. Our previous albums sold very quickly and were very successful, we were averaging one call per day for our cassette,” Berry is adding. We’re hoping for the same again and again.

Another reason that Berry is optimistic about the album’s success is the growing gospel music audience, both secular and traditional. “The gospel music audience has definitely grown and is definitely becoming a live audience. Both contemporary and traditional gospel have a nice message for the people. Also, secular artists are using gospel music as an avenue for witnessing to young people, he remarked. Berry points to MC Hammer’s ‘Pray’ or to the Winners featuring Teddy Riley on ‘So Time,’ and the jazzy-gospel group Take 6.

The choir wants to give their old listeners something new and attract new listeners as well. Aside from the obvious message of giving glory to God, the primary intent of the album is to show young blacks in a positive way. We’re trying to show the睢NSS in a positive way by always showing the negative aspects of society, the young, gifted and talented blacks can get through it, and this is something that Berry said.

The choir plans to do another album within the next five years. Meanwhile, the choir is not going to build up their hopes for this album in the event of a disappointment. “We’re not going to discontinue our expectations and be discouraged if we fall short. We’re just going to continue as we are and let God bless the choir,” said Berry.

According to Berry, this year was the closest thing the choir has been to date. The choir almost lost its director Ron Jones, this year.

First Annual Black basketball challenge

It’s a Black College First...teams from the big four historically black college conferences meet on the court for a preseason Conference Call. It’s the first annual Black College Basketball Challenge. The "big four" conferences are the CIAA (Central Collegiate Athletic Association), Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, SIAC (Southwestern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference), and SWAC (Southwestern Athletic Conference).

Handling the matchups is the always exciting contest between rivals North Carolina A&T State University and North Carolina Central University. The two cap two days of play in the Black College Basketball Challenge at the Greensboro, N.C. Coliseum.

The game begins with a Friday night Division II battle between last year’s national champion Morgan State Rams and the 1989 national Division II champion North Carolina Eagles of the CIAA at 7:00 p.m. They are followed by a 9:00 p.m. bout by the NCAA’s top scoring freshman, guard, Alfonso Ford and the Mississippi Valley. And the Fans will stay to pack the house at 9:00 p.m. Saturday when North Carolina Central and North Carolina A&T hit the hardwood.

These athletes are adding to their quest to be the best by participating in an anti-drug workshop Thursday, November 29 on the campus of North Carolina A&T. They will interact with young students from local schools. These young men will get to hear the players tell why it’s important to "Do The Right Thing" and "Say No To Drugs," as well as see the players in action on the court.

The Black College Basketball Challenge will honor a group of black college sports and highlight national sports figures from our black institutions.

Centennial Homecoming 1990: A crowd of more than 22,000 clapped the traditional Aggie tune "Ti'm So glad I go to A&T, you could definitely tell that the pride was back in Aggie land.

The fierce rivalry between the Aggies and the Wildcats is one that has resulted in scores battles. The Aggies and the Wildcats have been going head-to-head since 1977 when the Wildcats knocked off the Aggies 20-15. But the Aggies came into the game high on confidence and ranked second in the MEAC. Last year A&T beat Bethune-Cookman 14-0 on their homecoming. The Wildcats try to get by, but they were not successful. The Aggies crushed the Wildcats 27-20.

The first quarter showed some excitement as Aggie quarterback Cornell Maynor completed a 50-yard touchdown pass to tight end Craig Hattan. The Aggies held 7-0.

The Wildcats battled back as running back Aaron Christie plunged for a one yard touchdown. A missed extra point attempt made the score 6-7 with 2:18 remaining in the first quarter.

The second quarter, filled with incomplete passes, penalties and many other errors, did not provide much excitement for the fans. The game remained 7-6 at halftime.

A&T made the third quarter exciting as the Aggies faked a field goal attempt which allowed quarterback Anthony Parker to complete a 19-yard touchdown pass to Larry Ortiz. Later on the defense recovered a fumble which led to halfback Kevin Acker's 13-yard touchdown run to increase the lead to 20-6. Early in the 4th quarter Maynor threw a 12-yard touchdown strike to Thompson for a 27-6 lead. Bethune-Cookman fought like their trademark, Wildcats to close the gap by scoring a couple of touchdowns and two-point conversions to end the game 29-27.

"I was very pleased with the teams overall performance," said Coach. "We know Bethune-Cookman would be a very good opponent. You can't judge a team by it's past record. I thought Bethune's offense matched up with our defense very well," said Coach Hayes.

Tailback Barry Turner says that he expected the Aggies to be ranked 7-1 at this point in the season. "It showed how hard we worked together and we showed everybody we wanted it."

The last few games will determine if the Aggies will gain first place in the conference. Defensive end Kevin Acker says "Liberty doesn't affect us at all in the conference and if we were trying to get the No. 1 spot. We wanted to do what we thought we should do." The Aggies will journey to Dover, Delaware to take on Delaware State. Kickoff time is 1:00pm.

Chad Armstrong is all by himself as he scores one of his two touchdowns in the Aggies 27-20 victory over the Wildcats.

Normally an opportunity will not come "just out of the blue", but rather you and your family may look for such an opportunity for you to pursue.

As you study, you may note the interest in that "job" after graduation. There is an emerging industry, indeed, many chemists, engineers, and political scientists competing for those "positions" in the employment market. (As a college graduate you are more concerned with "position" in companies than mere "jobs"). The interviews are greatly available, but few companies will tell you that they are looking for the few accountants, chemists, nurses or etc.; whereas the academic majors are more competitive in their chosen fields.

The leadership topic is normally overshadowed by the rush for the maximum starting salary. Starting salaries vary widely based on a number of things such as academic major, GPA, type of company and location to name but a few factors.

For most students this is a very ambitious at best, for most cases it's a myth. Most college grads take jobs outside of their major with exceptions for being for those who are engineers, nurses and teachers.

Furthermore, recent surveys show that a significant percentage of A&G graduates take positions in state and federal government.

This being the case, it can be concluded that the myth that everyone starts earning $30,000 is just that—a myth.

Now, if you have gotten this far let's consider one proverbial question most students consider before graduation. The question is "how do I finance the cost of school over these next years until graduation?"

This won't be a cheap venture, out-of-town tuition and fees will cost nearly $6,000 a year. Add the cost of purchasing books and that will add another $300-400 per year. Well here is "an opportunity out of the blue". Consider Air Force ROTC. Hold on, don't drop the paper until you read the advantages.

Air Force ROTC offers one of the easiest scholarships to earn and keep until graduation.

Over the past two years, A&T students have earned over $70,000 in scholarships.

The power to be your best
Eight years ago, we decided to base a system on accepted industry standards. Today, open computing is embraced by millions of people all over the world, and Sun is the leading supplier of technical workstations.

Just as we believe technically diverse products can flourish on any network, we believe a diverse workforce can flourish at Sun. In fact, we search for a unique mix of ideas, backgrounds, and perspectives in our people.

We will discriminate when it comes to your thinking, however. You must be open-minded, passionate and confident enough to carry on a legacy. That taken care of, we'll give you the freedom, tools and resources to pursue your ideas. If you're open to new challenges, explore these opportunities.

We have needs for graduates in Computer Science and Electrical Engineering.
