Stokes denounces move to eliminate minority scholarships

Washington, D.C.—Congressman Louis Stokes (D-Ohio) lambasted a recent policy announcement by the Department of Education that would allow federal funds to colleges and universities that offer scholarships designed for minority students. Stokes condemned "the Willie Horton go-to college mentality of the Bush Administration," stating that this decision "is an assault on the civil rights that our nation was founded on."

Mr. Stokes was joined in his condemnation by Dr. Robert McKee, president of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, who lambasted the policy as "illegitimate, illegal, and simply wrong." He added, "We will fight this decision in court and we will prevail." Dr. McKee also noted that the University of North Carolina has a long history of providing scholarships to minority students.

The Department of Education's decision to revoke the funding for these scholarships is disheartening news for college students of all races. Inmate seeks correspondence

I am an inmate confined in the Ohio Penal System. I’m writing this letter in hope of communicating with the outside world through correspondence with readers of your publication, it would surely help to cope with this prison life I am enduring which is full of rejection, loneliness, frustration and hatred. I never take a personal letter which on one earth is helpful, I know that I am not the only person in the world who faces rejection as experiencing what I am. I am sure someone in the free world would like to share their feelings and experiences with others like me.

If possible you will please print my letter in your publication for friendship through correspondence. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

The life I wish shall be my own

"I, George Bush, do solemnly swear that on January 15 at 12:00 a.m., the critical moment between war and peace shall be won in a peace to which neither side shall be able to undo. I firmly intend to prove that I am a "real" man and put my ego when necessary. Finally, with all the best of abilities, brave and lay down my life in being a man with honor and integrity, and I am sure that the Nixon’s are the people that is what I expect of my troops."

The American people shall dare to risk the million’s lives of innocent people-civilian and military, and in the event of victory from the American people’s minds, they shall know that I have the power to do it and don’t mind my A!"

Dey Mr President

Would you have been willing to take this oath before engaging in something you knew you couldn’t back out of?

Respectfully yours,

The Serious Tip

On the Serious Tip

Keeping MLK’s dream alive

In times of war, the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. must still be remembered.

And so we must all work to keep Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on his birthday, Jan. 15, which will be observed by many communities on the Monday after, the war in the Persian Gulf threatens to engulf the world.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had a dream that all races and creeds would work together, walk together, and talk together.

He had envisioned peaceful means to solve violent problems. America today seems on the verge of doing both.

It is no longer possible to take nonviolent actions to halt the war declared by President George Bush on Jan. 16 against Saddam Hussein. Saddam Hussein’s attack on Kuwait is an invincible evil that must fall in the same trap by declaring war.

We as a nation can set the world example to end the world war and bring the peace we desire.

First, we must continue to support the troops. We must all write to the military personnel to give them words of hope and encouragement. We must call for prayer, no matter what our religious beliefs are and hope that the A&M help in our city.

Secondly, we must begin marching to the doors of our Congress who gave Bush the power to declare war at his discretion.

We must come out in masses to show the world that we will not stand around passively while soldiers are slaughtered in the desert. Thousands of body bags are on the way.

Waiting until the bags are full is start a peaceful approach.

Thirdly, all adults must set themselves aside and think of the children of this great nation. How can we continue to ask them to sit and prepare for a war that the adults are the one destroying this world.

King’s mission to develop a country that would be better for future generations will truly be defeated if we sit back and may watch the Persian Gulf.

We will introduce a generation to economic depression and military might. Some American youth and some adults will find difficulty.

There are many ways we all can consider, stop and think America. Let us keep the dream alive.

The identity crisis of Black America

How often have we been saddened by cases of children that are left without parents, or a name. This kind of situation normally touches everyone, for we all know it is a bad position to be in. What is often thought of is the kind of future that could await this child upon becoming an adult. Whether this person ever becomes aware of it or not, it is a matter that will completely affect his or her life.

In many cases, this lack of identity can cause many problems in someone life which could alter it completely. Such things as lacking self esteem, and the desire to achieve can normally stem from the absence of an identity.

The example of a child without a parent or a name is a very clear problem that anyone can see. But the problem of that missing identity that affects millions of African Americans each day may be much harder to see.

It has been said that none of us should continue to look back. And it has also been said we should look back to prevent making the same mistakes.

I have discovered too, that it depends on who is looking back, and how history reflects on them. What we have to look back on, is not a pretty picture. But a lot of us are not even aware of these events.

The reason is that during our years in school, much of this has been left out. Yet what has been included was enough to make us visualize it to be all negative. Just as a child without a mother, or a name. No true identity.

So what has the answer been to any of us? For many well to do African Americans, the answer has been to simply try to fit in with White America. But does that actually make the problem go away? Even a few White Americans are becoming aware of the widening social and economic gap growing within the Black Community.

And I’m sure many Black Americans are somewhat uncomfortable playing this role. So why pursue it? Discomfort on both sides, which does seem natural. But what must be realized, is that a small possibility they will all come to the same conclusion. We are a people struggling to find ourselves.

A Warrior’s Heart
By: Eric Short

Search for the ideal Path, the road to victory is never easy. Battles to survive are lost and won. We must rise to the challenge, to the battle, for a better tomorrow. The truth of life is a journey to self.

A warrior’s heart, a watchful eye. Knowledge, courage to care. The rewards are not immediate, but they may be. Trust in the future, and the future will not let you down.

Woman and Man, a Divine Combination
An ideal world, a dangerous situation. Respect due to Sister and Brother. Respect due to Father and Mother. Originality, creativity, knowledge. Respect due to Nature, the Great Grass, the wind, the water. Respect due to the sea, the sun. Respect due to the sky, the sea, and the earth.

The All-seeing Eye never rests. We must be wary of those looking to the sky. Heaven in a Warrior’s Heart replaces heartless fear. The direction of the night is compared to the night. A Warrior’s Heart, prepared to fight.

The essence of Virtue is a world built by none. Phenomenon of Nature paying homage to the Sun. Brother, Father, Mother, united as ONE.

Lift Every Voice and Sing
By James Weldon Johnson

Lift ev’ry voice and sing
Till Earth and Heaven ring
Ring with the harmonies of Liberty.
Let our rejoicing rise
High as the bounding sky.
Let it resound loud as the rolling sea.
Sing a song full of the day that dark past has taught us,
Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us.
Facing the rising sun of our new day begun,
Let us march on until victory is won.

Strong the road we trod,
Bitter the chastening rod.
Felt in the days when hope seemed dead.
Yet with a steady beam
Have set our weary feet.
Come to the place for which our fathers sighed!
We have come over a sea way that with tears has been watered.
We have come, treading our path through the block of the slaughtered.
Out from the gloomy past,
 Till now we stand at last
Where the white gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years,
God of our silent tears,
Thou who hast brought us thus far on the way;
Thou who hast led us, Thy mighty
Lead us into the light,
Keep us forever in the path we pray.
Least our feet stray from the places, our God;
Where we may meet Thee,
Least our hearts, drink with the wine of the world,
We forget Thee, dearest beam Thy hand,
May we forever stand,
True to our God,
True to our native land.

African Heritage Center employs new curator

GREENSBORO, N.C.—The new curator for the African Heritage Center at A&T State University believes there is a genuine need for the center. "There is a need for the students to study African ancestry, even though they read, but also visually," said Dr. Frank E. Goede, who comes to A&T from Ohio State University.

"There have been many discussions regarding the A&T Center," said Director Goede. "Apart from the history, we need to study the embodiment of the culture." He praised the A&T collection of 6,000 African artifacts as being the largest he has ever seen. Goede is already developing plans for additional workshops and symposia to be sponsored by the center. "There are so many things we can do," he said.

Goede holds the B.A. degree in education from the University of Life in his native Nigeria. He holds the master of science degree in art education from the University of South Carolina in 1980.

FULFILLMENT

Take the spirit from the child and the soul is gone. But give him inspiration, and to him new hope is born.

Guide him spiritually so that he is growing up. He'll learn to trust God to lead him to the top. All of his ideals are sure to materialize. Because the gods he has are right before his eyes.

He may become a preacher if that really is his dream. Or maybe the gam's unique, or the head of the team. But no matter where he ventures he is sure to know, that God is up above and He is looking down on him. He is watching all his movements, He is guiding his hand. He is leading him completely and on that he can depend.

He may choose what he likes, it does not matter. How many grapes he eats, the more the better. There's nothing to worry by night or by day. Every moment of his life being fully spent in doing the things that make him feel content.

Oh he's proud of the fact that there is no limit. For he knows if not in his life, he'll be one. He can sit back and say that his battle is won and that he has the satisfaction of a job well done. Now he has proved to his Maker to top it all. Nothing is too hard he it big or it be small.

Aggies take conference offensive football honors

Charlie Arlingston
Quarterback Concern Moye received seven first-place votes for the MEAC Offensive Player of the Year award and kids eight Aggie players selected to first and second conference teams.

Moye had a superior year as he led the Aggies to their best ever season (9-2), a second place finish in the MEAC (5-1), and a spot at number 20 in the NCAA Division 1-AA final poll.

Moye said winning the Offensive Player of the Year award was an honor and many of the first athletes in the MEAC could have won the award, "You honored and privileged to win such a prestigious award as Offensive Player of the Year. There are all of great athletes in the MEAC such as FAMU's Tony Earl, Delaware State's David Jones and FAMU's Almir Rasul any of which who could have won this award," said the junior from Fayetteville, N.C.

Moye led the nation's Division 1-AA quarterbacks in pass efficiency, completing 123 of 191 passes (64%) for 1668 yards and 16 touchdowns. He also had 143 rushing for 309 yards, 11 touchdowns, and was the league's fifth best punter with 54 punts for 1414 yards. Besides the overall rankings Moye said that he could not have accomplished them without his teammates and coaching staff.

"The offensive line did a great job this year even though they were young except for the only senior Kevin Williams would a great job leading the young guys. Craig Thompson and Randy Ann led the receivers and they did a great job of catching the football this year. I can't forget about Kevin Acker(FB) and Barry Turner(TB) he said.

"When you have great coaches like Coach Hayes, Goodwin, Camp, Sanders and the coach that may be overlooked the most but contributed the most to my success, quarterback Coach John Eder who stayed on my back the whole season that you can succeed."

Along with Moye, teammate Craig Thompson, Dee Mobie and Knoe Thompson made the MEAC first team.

Fightsong Dee Moyer represented A&T on the first team defense. He had a total of 90 tackles (12 solo), 12 forced fumbles, two fumble recoveries, five forced fumbles, and two interceptions at the end of the season. Moye said making the first team was a surprise to him. "I felt like I could make it, but it didn't expect to, came in as a surprise to me."

When I made all conference doesn't mean that I was the best defensive back on the team because I felt as though our entire secondary had a good chance of making all conference," said the junior from Winston-Salem, NC.

Defensive Linemen Knox Thompson from Lumberton, NC made the first team defense as he tallied 77 total tackles (25 solo), two sacks, one fumble recovery, a forced fumble and a blocked kick.

Four Aggie players were selected to the second team. Kevin Williams from Lumberton, NC was the only Aggie to make second team offensive. Kevin L., Little Charleston, S.C., Don Davis, Albermarle, S.C., and Lopez Penes, Shelby N.C. were on the second team defense.

The Aggie offensive and defensive players received honorable mention in the conference. Patrick Horne, Richard Lucas, Kevin Acker, Barry Turner, Lance Jackson, and Carl Paige received offensive honorable mentions. Mike Gilchrist, Chad Armstrong, Reggie Glover, Alan Rodd and Tom McCay received defensive honorable mentions. All of the Aggie players that received awards were recognized during halftime of the A&T vs. Howard basketball game for their outstanding achievements.

Colorado, Georgia Tech split college football title

Colorado, Georgia Tech split college football title

B.J. Evans
College football is one of our country's biggest and most watched sporting during the fall season. New year day in particular provides college football fans with a game to watch on most every major network.

This year was no different. The race for the National Championship was on. With each game, anticipation as to who the title would go to hung up the air until the final minute.

The University of Colorado who was stepping into the polls all year season to be the unanimous pick across the nation along with potential winners, Notre Dame and Miami. Down south however, Atlantic Coast Conference winner Georgia Tech was the darkhorse candidate.

But in some strange and unexpected way, the days events would turn into controversy in the select groups of sports writers, former players and coaches decided on who would be named the winner.

So who would it be? The Associated Press named Colorado as the National Champion but the United Press Interna- tional named Georgia Tech as their champion. Who could have expected two National Champions, a split title? Nothing has to be done. The NCAA can do anything sit back and let the National Champion be named. It's not fair to the teams who play both hard and go under rated or maybe lose one or two games. These teams deserve the title or some kind of recognition just as much if not more than others. However, Colorado State, Wash- ington, just to name a couple. But seeing as how they seem to never even consider doing anything about it, I have thought this over and come up with this solution.

First, set up a playoff system. Take each conference winner and match them in a tournament atmosphere and let them go at it with the winner being rightfully crowned.

Second, shorten the season so it will allow sufficient time to have such an event. Third, the bowl situations. Let those teams not making the playoff participate in the bowls. Most people thought the sys- tem of selecting the National Champion is a correct one. I wonder what they think now?
